Kings To Stage Dominion Plowing Matches In '64

A decision to organize a provincial plowing council representing all three counties was taken at a meeting in Primrose School, Kings County Saturday night. David Gilchrist, Fredericton, N.B., Maritime executive member on the Canadian Plowing Council presided.

Representatives from Prince and Queens counties plowing match associations agreed to co-operate with the Kings County group in staging the Canadian Plowing Championship matches, which will be held here in 1964. P.E.I. observes that year the 100th anniversary of the original confederation conference held in Charlottetown, Sept. 1, 1864.

It was also agreed the match should be held in Kings County. Although it is apparent that there will have to be some change or possibly an extension of the date Sept. 9, 10 and 11 which had been announced originally.

Mr. Gilchrist explained on behalf of the Canadian Plowing Council, that it will take four days to complete the Canadian championship competition. Earlier planning had been for a two or three day competition.

Three directors are to be named from each county and the names will be sent to the provincial department of agriculture within two weeks time. The provincial council, it is understood, will be set up by the nine men chosen from the counties.

Cherin R. Ellis and Alvin Palmer, O'Leary, and Raynal A. MacNeill, Mt. Royal, represented the Prince County association; B.B. Jones, Bunbury; Harold Smith, MLA, Pownal; Stanley Willis and Harold Godfrey, Cornwall and Fred Kitson Hampshire, represented the Queens County association. Kings County representatives included Leslie Hunter, Bridgetown; Albert Acorn and Raymond Acorn, Dundas, Lloyd and Haddon MacLeod, Primrose and several others whose names were not available.

George Key To Contest S'side's Centre Ward

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

An announcement made on Saturday by George Key, Jr., to the effect that he will nominate for councillor in the centre ward, was the second of its kind to be made by Summerside citizens within the past week.

As yet none of the three councillors whose terms expire this year have signified their intention to nominate, although it is considered a likelihood that all three will run again this year.

Thus far, opposition has been forthcoming for them in two of the three wards, with Mr. Key's announcement on Saturday and a previous announcement by Mrs. Wilfred Perry, making her the first woman to enter a local municipal election.

Rumors that the majority will be contested are as yet without foundation, as neither Mayor W. A. Currie, or his rumored opponent, Coun. Ernest Morrison, have yet to make an announcement.

Following is the text of the statement issued by Mr. Key: "We are privileged at this time of each year to have the opportunity of expressing our approval or disapproval of the way our representatives on the town council have conducted our affairs for the past two years."

"During this period a number of important decisions were made by the council and the only way to express your opinion as to the wisdom of these decisions is through your vote at the polls. In order to do this, there must be citizens who are willing to serve the town as councillors."

"I personally do not agree with everything that has been done in this two-year period, and from the number of people who have discussed civic affairs with me during the past few weeks, I have come to the conclusion that improvement in civic administration must be carried out immediately.

"I have therefore decided at the urging of a large number of our citizens to offer as a candidate in the ward in which I reside. I do not intend to make a door to door canvass, but will be talking to you through the medium of the press or radio.

"I pledge that I owe allegiance to no group or individual, and if elected will work at all times for that which is best for Summerside, with special attention to the needs and requirements of the centre ward."

West German President Heinrich Lübke surveyed the disaster area on a helicopter flight and the Bonn government offered federal aid.

There still were no casualty reports from remote rural areas, but rescue helicopter crews reported seeing numerous bodies floating in the water or lying on rooftops.

Many persons had spent their second night in the top floors or on the roofs of flood - surrounded homes. White bedsheets hoisted from chimney stacks indicated to airborne rescuers where help was needed.

20,000 WITHOUT WATER - Lord Mayor Paul Nevermann said that in Hamburg alone, 20,000 were still cut off by the waters and were receiving only minimum food and water supplies by air and boats. Almost 40,000 people were homeless in the city. They are in temporary shelters set up in churches, schools or other public buildings.

An estimated 25,000 West German troops toiled along with British and American servicemen in repair and rescue work. The looting began in Wilhelmshagen. Police said they were powerless to stop it. They were considering opening up the district's food stores for the thousands stranded there.

The storm-whipped high seas also burst through dikes elsewhere to bring floods in The Netherlands, Denmark and Belgium as well as in North Germany.

A Danish fishing vessel was reported sunk off the south Norwegian coast. Four small ships were reported missing and one was aground on one of the German Wadden Islands.

LINER DAMAGED - The Dutch Liner Maasdam was damaged when blown against a Rotterdam quay by gales Saturday. The 15,024-ton liner's departure for New York was postponed from Tuesday until Thursday so that a six-foot gash in her bow above the waterline could be repaired.

Dutch soldiers worked feverishly to close a 60-yard-wide gap in a dike on Schiermooikoog Island of the Dutch Wadden group, in Maasvluis, along Rotterdam's new waterway. Water reached up to the window sills of houses hastily protected by planks and sandbags.

Of all the flooded areas, Hamburg was the hardest hit with about 30 square miles under water.

Mass inoculations against typhus and paratyphus began in three emergency centres here. The measure was precautionary; no cases had been reported.

Supervisor Named To Hospital Post

SUMMERSIDE — Mrs. Mabel Sawler, RN, of Summerside has been appointed supervisor of the chronic care unit of Prince County hospital, it was announced by administrator, J. M. Logan.

Mrs. Sawler's application was approved by the board of trustees at their regular meeting Thursday night.

Mrs. Sawler succeeds Miss Mildred Slackford, RN, who resigned the position about a month ago after serving as supervisor for the past six years.

Mrs. Sawler has been employed as assistant supervisor for the past year and a half and has been associated with the chronic care unit for five years.

Youth Week Is Observed

BEDIQUE — Youth week service was observed in the United Church at Bedique, Feb. 11. The junior choir had charge of the music. Mrs. Edna Jenkins, was organist.

Rev. R.M. Cameron conducted the service and Rev. Dr. L. P. Archibald delivered an impressive sermon, the theme of which was: "Gates of Opportunity".

This was a challenge to especially the people, to make use of their opportunities for developing strong Christian character.

Kings County representatives included Leslie Hunter, Bridgetown; Albert Acorn and Raymond Acorn, Dundas, Lloyd and Haddon MacLeod, Primrose and several others whose names were not available.

NEAR SUFFOCATION

Miscouche Family Has Narrow Escape

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

The coughing of a two-year-old child is credited with saving the lives of a mother and her two small children from smoke suffocation at Miscouche on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Elgin Veno had put her three-year-old daughter "Tammy" to bed in the afternoon after putting some meat on a propane stove to cook, she took her two-year-old son Tommy to bed, until the child went off to sleep. Mrs. Veno laid down beside him and unintentionally fell asleep herself.

Under the hot propane heat the meat on the stove began to burn, sending an increasing volume of smoke through the house, to the extent that it became suffocating.

Mrs. Veno was awakened by the coughing of her small son beside her and was unable to see anything in the room, due to the heavy smoke.

She was able to get herself and the two small children to the front door of the home. In a frightened and dazed condition she left her three-year-old daughter outside the door, while she ran for help to a neighbor's house, carrying with her the other child.

Returning immediately, she found the little girl missing and discovered the frightened child had run back into the house and climbed into her bed. She was again quickly removed from the smoke filled room.

The stove was shut off and it took about three hours to clear the home of smoke. It is believed that if the mother had not been awakened by the child, all three might have perished in the suffocating smoke.

Tignish H & S Requests Time To Study Annual Resolutions

TIGNISH — A letter will be sent to the Provincial Home and School Association requesting that all resolutions submitted to the provincial organization be returned to local associations for study two weeks prior to the annual meetings.

This was decided at the monthly meeting of Tignish Home and School Association held recently in the high school auditorium and chaired by Valmore Arsenault, vice-president.

Many of the members felt that when delegates attended a meeting they have no knowledge of resolutions to be dealt with, and are at a loss to know how to vote. The motion followed from a letter from Eric Kipping, provincial president, requesting that resolutions be drawn up and submitted to the provincial organization a month prior to annual meetings.

George, Aubin Gallant, Sister St. Patrick, Valmore Arsenault and Rev. Floyd MacGaugh. Mrs. Carlisle Trainor, chairman of the school life committee, reported that in the latter part of February, parents will be invited to meet the teachers to discuss any problems concerning their children. At this time report cards will be presented and discussed. On parents day, to be observed in March, the mothers and fathers will be notified in advance and asked to visit the schools to see how the teaching method is carried out.

Mrs. Foster Skerry, chairman of the membership committee, reported that 97 members had paid. Mrs. Edith Eldershaw reported for the public relations committee, and Mrs. Gunnar Pedersen from the finance committee.

Sister St. Margaret of Parys, chairman of the program committee, showed a film "You Can Go a Long Way". The chairman then held a buzz session with Sister St. Patrick, Rev. Floyd MacGaugh, Sister St. Eileen and Miss Ann Gavin reporting from the groups.

The meeting heard favorable comments regarding the adult education class in progress in the village.

Sister St. Mary Arnold read the correspondence and minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Russell Perry gave the financial report in the absence of the treasurer, Russell Perry.

The chairman asked that all
