LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Suggestion.

Sir,—An item in your issue of yesterday intimates that a Literary and Dramatic Club is being formed in connection with the Church of England here, but what Church it does not say. I do most sincerely hope that instead of encouraging Dramatic Clubs among her young men, the Church of England may awake out of sleep, and hold a series of mission services that will, under the blessing of God, lead to the salvation of never-dying souls.

A CHURCHMAN.

New Fishing Firm.

Sir,—We are informed by good authority that an extensive fishing establishment is about to be erected at McEachern's harbor, South Lake, under the management of McDonald and Keole. This firm will be run on an improved scale, and will confer a great benefit to the eastern part of the Island, and will give employment to a number of fishermen. The above gentlemen being men of experience in fishing purposes, will without doubt meet with good success. The weather is unfavorable at present and prevents lumbering to some extent.

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER.

East Point, Jan. 29, 1886.

Letter from Tom Allen.

Sir,—I see by the little Island paper that we are going to have religious meetings at the Capes this winter. What a good government we must have—yes, what a government we must have, to send an astronomer here to teach us, with his glass six feet long, all about the ice, and the stars, and the storms, and the tides, and the bathooks, and the goodness knows what, and Bill Casey's mother! What will Tom do? He'll preach; they can't stop him from preaching. They can take the run away, but they can't stop him from preaching and going out on the board ice.
No, no, they can't do that! I must have my little time. The foghorn can't stop me; the astronomer can't stop me. No, they can't, cully luya! We'll get our pay now; we can pay our board now; we can pay for our run now—yes! yes! yes! but I forgot, we don't drink any rum now. We must go to meeting now on Sundays.
What a people we are! What a man I am!
Disasters will come—we haven't any trained Captains now, they all go by spirit compass, and by foghorn, and by glass six feet long, and sign their names in a book, and the men won't do anything only what the Captains tell them.

Yours truly,
TOM ALLEN.

Capo Tormentine, Feb. 2.

A Voice from Colorado.

Sir,—In looking over your issue of January 3th, I notice an article under the heading of "A Protest," and after reading carefully, I came to the conclusion that there was considerable of the Pharisee about the session of St. James' Presbyterian Church, Charlottetown, or, as they style themselves, "We, the session," and I think that if their prayers would have the desired effect of controlling the disease, there was nothing to prevent them from praying in private, for God would hear them then just as well in their own private closets, and answer them just as soon as if they stood on the house tops and street corners, beseeching Him in a loud voice to hear and answer their prayers.
Instead of singing praises to the Board of Health and city officials for their untiring efforts in stamping out the disease, they try to convey the idea, through the Press, that said health officers have outrageously erred in prohibiting that ill-used "Session" from "praying in public in time of a public calamity." Now, as far as I am enlightened, there is no such passage in the New Testament, and I would like that honorable body to enlighten my darkened mind; then I shall stand corrected.
There is, no doubt, something in the Old Testament that might, with a little straining, suit their case, but it was for the Jews, and if this session comes under the jurisdiction of the Jewish law, why I should have no more to say. God has endowed man with brains, and means to alleviate the sufferings of his fellow creatures; and I think that any man, or body of men, who oppose any and all stringent measures in time of epidemics are devoid of common sense. And then, Mr. Editor, they talk about their conscience, and their feelings being hurt by the closing of their Church. I am of the opinion that they possess neither. I would advise the gentlemen of said session to remove to Mexico, where they neither flag houses, close Churches, nor stop the diseased natives from running at large and spreading the disease at will. It would not have surprised me to have found at the conclusion of their protest a resolution as follows:—

Resolved, That when the next epidemic visits our city "we, the session," arise, call on our followers, and defy the Board of Health and City Officials to stop our Public Worship.

And now I shall sum up this session in a few words: they are only equalled by the anti-vaccination mob of Montreal. Mr.
Editor, I for one am proud to know that there are men in my own native town, such men as compose the Board of Health and City Officials, who have the good sense to make such laws, and the undaunted courage to enforce them, and I think they should have the good will and support of every right thinking citizen in their strenuous endeavors to stamp out the smallpox pestilence. Thanking you, Mr.
Editor, for this space in your valuable paper, I remain,

Yours truly,
JOHN HEARTZ.

Denver, Col., Jan. 27th, 1886.

British Merchant Shipping.

A correspondent of the London Times recently gave a short retrospect of British merchant shipping, in the course of which he said that there was no British industry which had in late years suffered so much from depression and want of confidence as that of shipping and the allied trade of shipbuilding. During the last two years, especially, those great interests appear to have passed through a severe crisis, which is still in an acute stage, and from which there are not as yet any substantial prospects of recovery. The cause of this state of things is to be found, according to the writer in question, first, in the large additions made to the register of the merchant marine, particularly in steam vessels, between 1870 and 1884, and secondly, in the depression that overtook the general trade of the country within the same period. The effect of these two influences was to entail very serious depression and consequent suffering on workmen and their families, in all the chief centres of the shipping trade, while many hundreds of small capitalists who were led to invest in shipping property have suffered in a scarcely less degree. The total tonnage added to the British register since 1880 was 2,989,853 tons, while 2,147,435 tons have been withdrawn, leaving a net addition of 842,418 tons, being practically the tonnage represented by the output of the shipbuilding yards in a single year. But when the details are analyzed, the increase becomes much more substantial than the mere figures would indicate. A table of vessels added to and deducted from the registers of the ports of the United Kingdom in the five years ending with 1884 shows that, while the sailing tonnage added was 591,000 tons under that deducted, the additions of steam tonnage over that period amounted to 1,433,000 tons in excess of the corresponding deductions. After a full consideration of all the circumstances, the writer concludes that it is reasonable to hope that before long the trade will assume a condition of greater activity. He bases his hope on the probable demand for new tonnage by both home and foreign navies, and on the remarkably small cost of the construction of steamers at the present time.

Some Startling Disclosures.

Richard S. Dement, Surveyor-General of Utah, reached Washington last week, and was closeted with Commissioner Sparks at the Land Office, and also had a long interview with Secretary Lamar. Dement brings from his investigations of the Land Office frauds trunks full of documentary proof and a most remarkable story. Dement says that within the past ten years there have been committed in Utah the most astounding frauds ever perpetrated on the American continent, and his disclosures not only cover officials in the territory, but involve senators, members of congress, and former officials in the interior department. These mysterious documents are said to disclose the transactions of Mormon agents in Washington, and the means they have used to prevent legislation and use favorable decisions by the supreme court of the United States. Several people who have heard Dement's statements regard them as somewhat wild, but he claims to prove all he says.

Inundated Grain.

A despatch from Stockton, Cal., of Jan.
31, says—A cross levee, which separated the lower division of Robert's Island from the middle division, gave way yesterday, allowing the water to cover 35,000 acres of land, of which 12,000 acres were in wheat.
The levee, which surrounds the island, broke at the middle section several days ago, flooding the section, which comprised 12,000 acres of grain. This brought a heavy pressure of water against the cross levee, which was being constantly strengthened, but as it proved, without avail. Most of the inundated land is owned by the Glasgow California Land Co., composed principally of foreign capitalists. The loss is estimated at $600,000.

Mutiny at Sea.

A despatch to the London News from Madera states that a German vessel which has arrived from St. Helena reports that a terrible mutiny took place on board the American ship Frank N. Thayer, Captain Clark, from Manila, October 21, for New York, which, as before reported, was burned at sea. The mutineers are said to have murdered some of the officers and then to have set fire to the ship.

The unattractive female person always thinks you are trying to flirt with her.
Brush your lips with a napkin at a public table, and she understands that you are trying to scrape an acquaintance—with her, of course. On the street, wipe the perspiration from your face and she braces herself to repel your advances. Jab your umbrella into a crack and drop it—that means you wish to know her, and as down goes your umbrella, up goes her nose.
Salute a friend across the street, and she will catch that salute, though she be a block out of its range. She is always on the lookout. Give up your seat in a car to her, or offer to raise the window at which she is tugging, and she knows what you are up to, and freezes you with a look.
Smile at a witticism in your paper, and, like enough, she will say something to the conductor about a lady's right to be protected. Let us congratulate ourselves, gentlemen, that she is an old maid, and let us hope, for the peace of our fellows, that she will not change her marital relations with mankind.

In St. Petersburg there are men who take about hot tea in large metal pots covered with felt, and sell it to hack drivers and coachmen, who have to wait for long hours in the cold when there is a party.
