It has been computed that in a single cubic foot of the ether which fills all space, there are locked up 10,000 foot-tons of energy which has hitherto escaped notice.

Dear Sirs:—Last winter I had five large boils on my neck and was advised to use B. B. B. Before I had finished the first bottle I was completely well and think B. B. B. cannot be excelled as a blood purifier.

A horse will travel 400 yards in 4 1/2 minutes at a walk, 400 yards in 2 minutes at a trot, and 400 yards in 1 minute at a gallop.

The Knights of Labor aim to protect their members against financial difficulties, etc. Hagyard's Yellow Oil protects all who use it from the effects of cold and exposure, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat and all inflammatory pain.

The Cherokee form of marriage is, perhaps, the simplest and most expressive of any. The man and woman merely join hands over a running stream, emblematic of the wish that their future lives, hopes and aspirations should flow on in the same channel.

Dear Sirs:—I suffered from general weakness and debility and my system was completely run down and I found B. B. B. the best medicine I ever tried. I would not be without it for a great deal.

Hogs are largely used to hunt for truffles in France. As soon as the animal takes the roots of the fungus in his mouth he is dealt a sharp blow across the nose and drops the truffle, when it is bagged by the hunter.

Croup, colds, sore throat and many painful ailments are easily cured in this changeable climate. The never-failing remedy is just as easily obtained in Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which is undoubtedly the best of all the many remedies offered for the cure of colds or pains.

The night-flowering cactus usually opens their blossoms at seven or eight in the evening, are full blown by eleven, and by three or four in the morning they fade.

Dear Sirs:—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk.

The first record we have of Coal is about three hundred years before the Christian era. Coal was used as fuel in this country as early as 852, and in 1234 the first charter to dig for it was granted by Henry III. to the inhabitants of Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Cold, cough, consumption, to cure the first and second and prevent the third use Hagyard's Pectoral Balm, the never-failing family medicine for all diseases of the throat, lungs and chest.

As a cure for cold in the head and catarrh Nasal Balm is endorsed by prominent men everywhere. D. Derbyshire, president of the Ontario Creamery Association, says:—"Nasal Balm beats the world for catarrh and cold in the head."

What do you say to a tramp after dinner? asked Waker, anxious for a walk. "Nothing. I unchain the dog."—Puck.

What, Helena, you ask for twenty more dollars? Do you know where such extravagance will lead you? "Oh, perfectly, dear Fritz, straight to the dressmaker's."

Dear Sirs:—Your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are the best medicine for rheumatism that I have ever used. Last Spring I was troubled greatly with it in my leg; I used one box of Morse's Pills, and was cured.

Pretty bad—Empec:—"The doctor says it would not take but a breath to carry me off." Mrs. Empec:—"The breath you brought home last night was strong enough."—N.Y. Herald.

Grief or expectation, or mental application to any favorite pursuit, destroys appetite.

For softening, improving, and beautifying the skin, no preparation that has ever been introduced equals Estey's Fragrant Philoderm.

Intoxication debilitates the mind, and often terminates in confirmed insanity.

For severe colds, Johnson's Anodyne Linctament surely excels any remedy we ever used.

A minister suddenly stopped in his sermon and sang a hymn. "If the members of the choir are to do the talking," he explained, "they certainly will permit me to do the singing." And then things in the neighborhood of the organ became more quiet.

Unlike any other, Johnson's Anodyne Linctament is for internal as much as for external use.

A continuous gentle wind soothes the nervous system and induces sleep.

And glory before him now lies. These are only examples of the daily triumphs of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in restoring health and reviving wasted vitality.

A Barrister's Confession.

A barrister of twelve years' standing writes to the London Times:—"There would not be such an outcry against us barristers if we were to leave off whining in public about the 'honor of the bar.' The 'honor of the bar' allows us to receive and keep heavy fees for work we have not done. This same honor kindly allows us to receive fees for work which we know that in all probability we shall not be able to do. It allows us to support a weak case by making accusations against innocent people to shelter our own clients. It allows us to make horrible insinuations which we know we cannot prove, but which we hope will weigh with the jury, and only to withdraw them when we find that they will not pay. Let anyone attend the Middlesex or Old Bailey Sessions and hear the language and subjects of conversation. A 'grand night' on circuit would also be instructive. The artifices used by many barristers, without any strong public protest from others, to obtain briefs on behalf of prisoners are horrible and contemptible. In short, it is a fact that barristers, as a whole, are not honorable till they are successful, and when successful anything disgraceful which they do is, of course, 'noble.' The judges evidently agree, because, in spite of the 'great assistance' which they always say they hope they will have from the bar when first appointed, and always say they have obtained on the rare occasions when they retire, in spite of this, the moment they become judges, they at once cease to treat barristers as if they were gentlemen, unless perchance they are noble, in other words, leaders.

It was night in the city hospital. It had been very quiet all day, and the reporters had been told that there were "no cases."

Towards 12 o'clock the ambulance came rumbling in, and inside was the prostrate form of a woman long past middle age. The attendants said she had fallen on a railroad crossing and her limbs had been horribly mangled. The pain and shock had paralyzed her.

For weeks she hovered between life and death. Kind relatives came and went, but she did not speak. The patient scarcely recognized those about her.

One day every one in the hospital knew the old lady was near her end. From curiosity a nurse asked the age of the woman.

"Sixty-five last month, I believe," answered a nephew who was there. Slowly the poor woman turned on her cot. Startled, the people were prepared for the worst.

Leaning her face on one arm she gasped: "I'm only 61." 'Twas the ruling passion. She died not long after, and her age was the only subject that called forth speech.—Boston Herald.
