

Revisits United Kingdom On Nuffield Scholarship

EXCERPTS from letters received from flying officer Archie J. Johnstone, of Burlington P. E. I., now travelling in the United Kingdom on a Nuffield agricultural scholarship; continued from a previous issue.

Yorkshire, England — This brings me to another point. Nuffield students of agriculture in the past—had I'm sure it still is—have been accused of visiting only the larger and better farms, thus not getting a good cross section of what the British farm or farmer's view point. We do try to talk to everybody as we come to them, but one can learn three times as much in an operation such as that carried on by the Nuffs as you would in twice the time on a less productive and less businesslike enterprise unless you wish to learn how not to do things.

Most of the farms that we have visited, but not all, have been large and most of them have been efficient. I think that all of the men that we have visited so far have been people who have known agriculture and the satisfaction of fighting their way up and getting to the top.

This includes W. P. Nutt and Son Ltd., Rex Paterson, who started as a labourer's son; Donald Andrews and R. W. Ward, all of whom have come to the fore by reason of their own ability and give more time than ordinary men to their country and neither have free and without any thought as to the inconvenience caused to themselves. True they are free enterprisers, but haven't we found that people only want to control someone else and when the shoe is on the other foot they themselves are caught in a net of their own weaving. Hell hath no fury.

In view of this and in view of the service that many of them are donating freely and at great cost to themselves—to their fellow men, I doubt if they should be accused of subscribing to the "we're alright and we'll look out for ourselves" philosophy for they are not at all like that, but are desperately concerned with not being tied up in a turmoil of red tape and bureaucracy in which a man can scarcely be termed an individual any longer, but a creak in a huge machine. What we should be concerned with is raising the common man, one who has something we haven't got, but want and are not willing to work for ourselves or haven't the ability to attain, which is just as bad.

We stayed with the one time owner of the Hare and Hounds, when in Yorkshire I can well remember the night he brought a pile of hundred year old newspapers in to the room and distributed them amongst us to read. I'm sure he was sorry that he didn't get them all back, for many of them found their way across the oceans to Canada, New Zealand and Australia as well as some of the other Dominions and Colony. His daughter, then a girl of fourteen was telling me about watching the planes take off from the Royal Squadron and counting them as they landed and spending hours and hours crying into her pillow because she was missing a girl there would be some old faces missing at the pub the next night. I don't know whether this concern was general among the populace for the boys in the air, but I have seen some waifs with anxious faces until all the A-C were down and accounted for. I think that this might have been a morale builder to know that people back at base were anxious for their safety, as well as the folks back home and when I heard her tell her story, I thought what a fine picture it paints to think that somewhere back in England missing men were being silently grieved for by the landlady's daughter, who had merely served them a beer or two from time to time and had possibly exchanged a few silly but humorous remarks with them in the process.

Walks Across Nfld. At 89

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (CP)—Joseph Dudgeon strolled into town the other day from Port aux Basques, right across the length of Newfoundland on the western tip. The route he followed counted up to perhaps 600 miles, and it took him the better part of three weeks.

But Joe may have slowed up a little. He's 89. He looked a shade tired when he reported he'd tried such a jaunt. Joe said he just wanted to do something he thought nobody else had ever done, and walking from Port aux Basques to St. John's looked like a good opportunity.

He followed roads and rail lines the whole way. At no time did he accept any lift. "My feet did not get sore, my heart was in good condition and I was able to walk all day and sometimes well into the night," he said.

Joe once drove a cab in St. John's. He also holds a roomful of trophies captured by the harness horse stable he once owned.

Wellington

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Arsenault Arsenault, (Gerald Arsenault) who were married in St. James Catholic Church, Egmont Bay on Saturday July 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Gaudet, Montreal, recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Theophil Arsenault, also her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alyre Arsenault and family.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Arsenault, St. Chrysostom, were Mr. and Mrs. John Duffy, Toronto, Mr. James Murphy, Freeport, Mr. John Monaghan of Summerside.

Mr. James J. Arsenault sustained a great loss during the recent storm when his two horses who were in the pasture, were both killed when struck by a bolt of lightning.

Our friend's house is ornamented with a bust of Boswell and Johnson, one of either side of the doorway. Johnson has lost his nose in the process of wear and tear and the new one plastered on by one of the family hardly adds to his appearance, which according to Boswell in his Journal was not too attractive even under the best of conditions in real life, being much afflicted with sore eyes and the Kings Evil.

These people who have travelled in England this time of year will have some idea in June with its copper beeches, horse chestnut trees in full bloom and the general aspect of greenery and lush growth throughout its fields and woodlots.

Our new host was expecting us at eleven a.m., which means eleven and not ten minutes before or ten minutes after. We unfortunately had the bad grace to be twenty minutes early, which must have upset the well ordered schedule a little, but not our new hosts good humour. First a cup of tea, some biscuits and a glance at the farm maps in order that we might be

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, every striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

South Africans Oppose Passport Regulations

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

PETORIA, South Africa, (Reuters)—New passport regulations which came into force here in July have caused an outburst of protests from people refused permission to travel abroad and from others with misgivings over the government's use of its recently extended powers.

Passports have long been considered officially in South Africa as a privilege, not a right. Now, the power to forbid any South African citizen leaving the country without permission has been added to the authority of the ministry of the interior. The reasons for refusing to grant passports or permits for overseas travel.

The law forbids any South African over the age of 16 to leave the country without authority on penalty of imprisonment without option for from three months to two years.

CARRIERS LIABLE

Carriers—airlines, shipping companies or others—found guilty of knowingly carrying unauthorized South Africans out of the country may be fined up to £200, sentenced to imprisonment for up to one year, or both.

South Africans for purposes of the act include all British settlers who have registered as citizens, though they may still hold British passports instead of South African passports, and naturalized aliens, as well as South African-born nationals.

Some 500,000 of South Africa's 2,500,000 white inhabitants are estimated to have British passport rights, giving many citizens what is called "dual nationality," a status which the Nationalist government does not favor.

Communism and Communist sympathizers were named as the primary targets of the passport law when it was argued through the last session of Parliament.

CAREFUL REPORT

Bohlen subsequently made inquiries and, De Telegraf said, "in careful, extremely diplomatic language, he reported that he had been unable to discover:

"1. Where Zhukov's daughter was married.

"2. To whom.

"3. Whether Zhukov indeed had a daughter of marriageable age, and

"4. Whether the Soviet marshal had a daughter at all."

Bohlen's report concluded that Khrushchev was probably "a big practical joker," the dispatch asserts.

Zhukov, having been drawn—probably unwillingly—into the joke, had no choice but to accept the gifts in his daughter's name with a show of enthusiasm, the newspaper's story says.

Economic Boom Leads To Copper Shortage In West

OTTAWA (CP) — The Western world's economic boom has brought a copper shortage in its wake and federal officials estimated Tuesday the shortage may not be alleviated until mid-1956.

In a Washington dispatch, U.S. government officials were reported Monday night as saying the American shortage is growing more acute by the minute. They said there would be no real relief for many months.

Canada is the world's fourth largest producer of copper. Her mine operators have been attempting to boost production to satisfy a growing market both in Canada and abroad. But even with prospects of a record output this year, not all of the demand can be met, federal officials said.

World prices have increased under pressure for supplies, resulting in federal controls on exports of some forms of copper to make essential needs filled.

Officials said that so far Canadian manufacturers are generally getting a fair share of supplies and though probably some could use more copper, there was currently enough in the home market to meet all essential needs. The demand of exporters.

R. Byrnes Curry, director of welfare for civil defence, here told a service club that "Russia has the hydrogen bomb and the capacity to deliver it to America."

"An H-bomb dropped tomorrow over any Canadian city, no matter how large, would wipe it out."

The U.S. is the world's biggest producer, with Chile, Northern Rhodesia and Canada next in that order.

Gives Talk On Bomb Tests

HALIFAX, (CP) — A Canadian civil defence official who witnessed nuclear fission tests at Yucca Flats, Nev., in May said Tuesday Russia can destroy any Canadian city.

R. Byrnes Curry, director of welfare for civil defence, here told a service club that "Russia has the hydrogen bomb and the capacity to deliver it to America."

"An H-bomb dropped tomorrow over any Canadian city, no matter how large, would wipe it out."

The U.S. is the world's biggest producer, with Chile, Northern Rhodesia and Canada next in that order.

EVACUATION ONLY ANSWER

Mr. Curry said Canada's only answer to the threat of nuclear warfare was evacuation, a prospect hampered in many cities by "choked highway lanes."

Describing effects of "a nuclear device" dropped at Yucca Flats from a 500-foot tower, Mr. Curry said buildings of wood and aluminum were shattered while those of steel escaped with minor damage.

"The tower which held the bomb didn't explode," he said. "It was vaporized."
