

U. S. Gold and Silver Products.

It is estimated by the official Director that in 1879 the yield of gold in the United States was $38,900,000 and of silver $40,812,000. The production of Colorado was $6,000,000 more in 1879 than in 1878, mostly silver. The Scientific American says:—

"Nearly all the gold and a large portion of the silver produced in the United States during the last year was coined at the mints or used in domestic manufactures, arts, and ornamentation. The surplus was exported to non-producing countries. From all information it is safely assumed that the annual consumption in the United States of precious metals in all forms for manufacturing purposes now averages $7,000,000 of gold and $5,000,000 of silver."

An Immense Cargo of Grain.

The S.S. Hooper, next to the Great Eastern, the largest freight ship in the world, with a capacity of 4,900 tons, has just been loaded at Boston for Liverpool by Messrs. W. P. Howland & Co., of Toronto, with 150,000 bushels of grain, the largest single cargo ever shipped by one firm; insurance upon it reached $22,000. The vessel also carried 500 cattle, 800 sheep, 5,000 sacks of flour, and several hundred tons of other freight, all shipped by Canadian parties.

Manitoba News.

We understand that Martin McDonald, Esq., J. P. and P. M., of Lorne, Ontario, is to be married to Miss Elizabeth McDonald, on the 28th instant, at the house of the bride's father, near Alexandria.

Indications everywhere point to the fact that there will be an immense emigration to this country next season. Here is a little straw that tends to strengthen the belief. It is a paragraph from a letter received by Mr. W. McKechnie, of this place, from the Divisional Superintendent of the Grand Trunk Railway. The writer says: "There is going to be an immense emigration from the Old Country, and from Canada as well, next year, and there can be no doubt that there is a great future for that country."—Emerson International.

Lime and Black Mud as a Fertilizer.

Our correspondent, 'J. I.' writes: 'Suppose I use lime and black mud to make a compost for fertilizing purposes, in what proportions should they be used? When should this be done? How applied for grain? How for grass? If lime is used alone for top-dressing, when is the best time to use it? Is slacked lime that has lost the head any good for compost, or how much inferior is it to quicklime?'

In reply to the above queries we would say that practical agriculturists find that a barrel of lime would be sufficient to disintegrate a large load of muck. They should be mixed, say four to six months before application to the soil, and turned over once or twice during that time for more thorough incorporation, thus bringing the lime into contact with all the portions of the muck, thereby the more thoroughly disintegrating it. The compost may be applied as a top-dressing for grass, and we would suggest the fall as the best time, but it may also be applied early in spring. It should be ploughed in for grain either in fall or spring. If lime alone be applied for top-dressing it should be laid on in the fall, but if neglected then, it may still be applied in early spring. Lime that is wet and slacked will have lost a good deal of disintegrating properties in proportion to the time it may have been in that condition. The exact proportion cannot be stated, but it would be well to procure the more vital fertilizer.—St. John Telegraph.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Bosche's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles to try sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

POLL TAX NOTICE.

Serious Charge.

The Ottawa Citizen makes a rather serious charge against Mr. McKenzie. Referring to a paragraph in the Globe in relation to the Carillon canal contract, in which it is hinted that something will be shown by Mr. McKenzie during the coming session of Parliament, our contemporary says: "It will be interesting if he will tell why it was that, after refusing Mr. Cooke, the contractor, one dollar on his claim, and after a stormy interview in which he insulted the contractor, and the contractor denounced him—he, nevertheless, paid that same contractor over $21,000—in view of a pending election. Either the money was due, and it was dishonest to hold it, or it was not due, and it was corrupt to pay it." That is a very serious charge against Mr. MacKenzie; and if we are to have a dirty linen washing at the next session of Parliament in connection with this matter, it is to be hoped that the washing will be a very thorough and complete one.

Trading for Cash.

It is a difficult thing, we are aware, to establish business in some localities upon a cash basis, and it is often with much hesitation that the retailer undertakes to sell his goods for cash alone. Where an established house has for years been selling goods upon long terms of credit and with supposed large margins of profits the change cannot be made to cash, even at lower prices, without some loss of custom. But this loss is often more than compensated by the advantage the buyer gets in making cash payments. The person who does an exclusively cash business is in a position to buy upon much better terms than his neighbor who gives credit and is constantly making losses, not only by bad debts, but by the continuous drain of interest he has to pay, and which absorbs all the profits he can get, often compelling him in the end to ask his creditors for their consideration.

Let us see what the merchant loses by long credits. In the first place he loses in profitable trade. The ones who buy of him are those who can buy of no one else, and those who have cash do not take long to discover that the trusting merchant is the dear merchant. Even if he does sell his goods at the same rate as his cash competitor, the probabilities are against it, so those who have cash are apt to pass by and make purchases elsewhere; and hence he loses his best customers, or what is equivalent, fails to draw the best. When once the community is educated up to the many advantages of making immediate payment for their purchases, there will be little or no difficulty in the way. Those who have had the greatest success in doing business upon a cash basis are those who have been most able, by the use of printers' ink and in other ways, to present the many advantages the cash buyer gets by making prompt payment.—Monetary Times.

Sleeplessness.

A correspondent thus writes to the household department of the Detroit Free Press: Sleeplessness, or insomnia, as it is technically called, is but a symptom; it marks, however, some diseases of the brain or is the result of strong mental emotion, overwork, or the inordinate use of such articles as tobacco, coffee, alcohol, etc. The treatment of this disease depends entirely upon the cause. Mental labor should be given up, even work of any kind must be abandoned; articles liable to keep up the over-work must be forbidden. If general debility is present the system must be brought a natural standard by tonics and a proper diet. If there are symptoms of a fullness of the brain, this must be relieved by cups or leeches to the nap of the neck, etc., or a blister to the same spot, dressed when requisite with morphia. Occasionally this fullness may be relieved by proper physical exercise, as a long walk, calisthenics, etc. All excitement of any form must be avoided just prior to the hour of sleep, hence light exercise at this time will be the best, as diverting the attention from business, etc. Instances are common where the patient suffers from an empty stomach, and a quantity of easily digested food will satisfy the craving and promote a sound, refreshing slumber. Again, cold water applied to the head or hot foot baths, with or without mustard, or a warm bottle will relieve the patient promptly. The patient should examine his surroundings as to whether any cause exists, such as improper position in bed; the best is always where the head and shoulders are elevated. For the relief of sleeplessness the mildest means should be used first, and medicines be employed with caution. A glass of beer at bedtime, hop pillow or the preparations of hops (hyocyanuslactucarium, bromide of potassium, or sodium, etc). The medicines inclosed in parentheses should only be taken according to the physician's prescription. Now, to conclude, I have found in my own practice that chloral in positive doses acts better than all other remedies, but also should be used with caution.

Constitutional Catarrh Remedy CURES CATARRH.

Hear what a Reverend Gentleman says of the Constitutional Remedy.

T. J. B. HARDING, Esq., Brockville, Ont.:—
"DEAR SIR—It is now two years since your 'Constitutional Catarrh Remedy' was introduced to me. I have waited this long to see if the cure would remain permanent before doing this, my duty, to you, as at first the happy effects seemed to me to be 'too good to be true.'"

"I was afflicted in my head for years before I suspected it to be Catarrh. In reading in your Circular I saw my case described in many particulars. The inward 'drop' from the head had become very disagreeable, and a choking sensation often preventing me from lying long. I would feel like smothering and be compelled to sit up in the bed. My health and spirits were seriously affected. When your agent came to Walkertown in August, 1876, I secured three bottles. Before I had used a quarter of the contents of one bottle I found decided relief, and when I had used two bottles and a third, I quit taking it, feeling quite clear of that ailment, and have not used any since until of late I have taken some for a cold in my head. A sense of duty to sufferers from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, prompts me to send you this Certificate, unsolicited, with leave to make what use of it you may see proper. Yours truly,
W. TINDALL, Methodist Minister. 7 Port Elgin, Ont., Aug. 24, 1878.
