Cameron Wins Over Baldwin

TORONTO (CP) — Silence hung over Maple Leaf Gardens here Friday as Mike Slyziuk of Detroit, skip of the United States national curling championship rink, poised to deliver the last stone of the game.

The opposing rink skipped by world champion Ernie Richardson of Regina, was lying one and the crowd of 1,000 was tense.

Slyziuk shot his rock into the centre of the circle to beat Richardson 10-9 in the fifth round of the round-robin Tournament of Champions bonspiel.

The loss was Richardson's third and the win, Slyziuk's second.

The lone undefeated rink of the eight competing foursomes after five rounds was the Norm Houck rink from Winnipeg. Houck guided his quartet to a 10-6 victory Friday over Bob Mann's Hanover, Ont., rink, last year's Ontario champions. Mann won his first three games, but was beaten Thursday by the Richardsons 14-11.

PRIDE HIS DOWNFALL?

Pride may have cost Mann the defeat. His attempted takeout shot in the ninth end was knocked off course by a sweeper. When Houck kicked the rock back down the ice and motioned to Mann to take the shot again, Mann put it into the house intentionally.

Houck then counted three to take a 7-5 lead. Mann scored just one more point, that in the 11th end to make the final score 7-6.

Edmonton's Hector Gervais, whose only loss was a 14-7 decision to Mann moved into second place in the tournament with a 13-11 victory over Ray Grant's rink from Unionville, Ont. Gervais held Grant to two points in the last two ends of the game to take the win.

Doug Cameron's Charlottetown rink took its first win of the tournament with an 11-7 victory over Matt Baldwin's Edmonton rink.

The Richardsons blamed poor ice conditions and not-up-to-par playing for their two losses.

The only rink that could possibly catch Houck is Gervais—and these two quartets meet in the Saturday morning draw.

Former Runner Is Still Active

By ALLAN BAILEY

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Some say there has never been —and never will be—another distance runner like Alfie Shrubb.

In an amazing career that began in Horsham, Sussex, in 1899 in an unofficial race with a fire wagon and ended in Toronto 32 years later, the little Englishman's fleet feet pounded the cinders of 12 countries.

He set records by the bundle, and when human competition was scarce he was likely to turn up in a race against horses. He once took on a relay team over 10 miles and won. And he was 51 years old when he ran (and won) his final race, a mile affair.

Today, at 84, Shrubb lives with his daughter and son-in-law in this town 30 miles east of Toronto. He still doesn't drink or smoke and he heeds his own advice to runners, walking a mile and a half a day "just to keep the old timbs in trim."

The son of a farmer, Shrubb was born Dec. 12, 1879, in Slinfold, Sussex. He was 20 years old and working as an apprentice builder in Horsham when his track career was launched.

OUTRAN FIRE WAGON

Resting at home one evening after a hard day carrying bricks up a 30-rung ladder, Shrubb heard the clanging of a horse-drawn fire wagon.

Dressed in work clothes and heavy boots, he and F. J. Spencer, a member of the Horsham Blue Star Harriers (track team), ran three miles to Southwater to what turned out to be a burning sack of straw.

They beat the fire wagon to the scene and Shrubb was invited to join the Blue Stars. Later he joined the famed South London Harriers Club.

Although more suited to long-distance running, Shrubb was fast enough to win the British national mile championships in 1903-04. He held the English four- and 10-mile titles from 1901 to 1904 and was perennial national cross - country champion.

In the last two years of his amateur career, which ended when he was in his mid-20s, the 115-pound runner broke almost every record from 2,000 yards (5:07.2) to 11 miles (56:23.4).

"The greatest race I ever ran was in Glasgow on Nov. 5, 1904," Shrubb recalls. "That was when I broke the one-hour record."

He ran 11 miles, 1,137 yards in 60 minutes, a mark that stood for many years. (The current mark of 12 miles, 994 yards was set by the great Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia in September, 1951.)

URGED HIM ON

There were about 20 competitors in the 10,000-metre race scheduled for 10 miles. All but Shrubb received handicaps, starting anywhere from one to nine minutes ahead of him.

Shrubb staged a quarter-mile burst to catch the final man and break the tape in a record 50:40.6.

"Go on for the hour record," someone shouted.

Although weary from the final push, Shrubb went on to set the hour record for amateurs.

Shrubb married Ada Brown in 1906 in Sussex and they moved to the United States the following year. In 1909 they settled in Canada and Alfie began a 10-year professional battle with the famed Indian runner, Tom Longboat.

Shrubb says he recalls beating Longboat in most of their encounters. One exception was a match marathon—Longboat's favorite distance — at the old Madison Square Garden in New York in 1910. Alfie had a comfortable lead after 23 miles but the smoke-filled air nauseated him and he was compelled to retire.

Their last race—after which both runners hung up their spikes—was a one-mile event in 1931 at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Shrubb, then 51, defeated the 48-year-old Longboat.

BEAT HORSES

During his pro career he beat two horses — each going five miles—in a 10-mile match. He also defeated a five-man relay team in a 10-mile event on an indoor board track, and came home ahead of a three-man team in a six-mile run.

TREE SALES

The estimated 1963 sale of Christmas trees in the U.S. by growers and suppliers is some 45,000,000.

Junior Legionaires Face Halifax-Dartmouth Today

The Halifax-Dartmouth Twin-Cities Junior Hockey League All-Stars invade Summerside this afternoon for a 2:30 p.m. hockey game against the undefeated Summerside Junior Legionaires.

The All-Stars are expected to ice a strong team of seasoned Juniors combined with some youngsters of Juvenile age. The game should be the strongest test of the season for the Summerside team, who easily defeated Moncton Junior Canucks 19-4 on Boxing Day.

The visitors second line of Jim Cashen, 10, centre, Bob De Bay, 11, left, and Jim Irvine, 12, right, is said by many Nova Scoia hockey experts to be the strongest Junior line to come out of the Dartmouth area in a number of years.

Casken, last year captain of Hoyt's Movers who were defeated in straight games by the Old Spain Penguins, is a smooth playmaker while De Bay and Irvine are known for their accuate shooting. De Bay paces the Halifax loop in scoring and Irvine has filled in on numerous occasions with the Halifax Tartans of the Nova Scotia Senior League.

The Halifax-Dartmouth first line are all members of the league-leading Travelers. Centre Fred Neilson, 8, is the son of former Island hockey star "Duke" Neilson. Halifax native Mike MacGillivary, 7, patrols the right wing and R. Viens, 6, an Ontario Junior "B" product is on the left side.

The third line of the All-Stars will be composed of Haliganian Ron Goodyear, 13, D. White, 14, G. Armades, 15, and former Q. E.H. high school star Sam Ellsworth, 16.

The major blue line duo of the All-Stars will consist of Vic Shea, 1, a former Saskatchewan Junior, and Wayne "Red" O'Brien, 2, who last season starred with St. Mary's University.

The other visiting defencemen consist of Dartmouth High School graduate David Schultz, 3, Gary MacLean, 4, and G. Kempt, 5.

Between the pipes for the All-Stars will be former Charlottetown goaler R. Profitt.

The Summerside team will be without the service of "Willie" Gallant, injured in a practice before Christmas. Defenceman Wendell Grady suffered a slight side injury in a practice Thursday but is expected to be in the line-up.

Leading the Juniors attack will be the last year Juvenile line of Paul MacWilliams, Alan Gaudet and Bob Perry. The trio have skated their way through all opposition to date in leading the teams scoring.

The defence corps will likely consist of "Toy Toy" Gallant, Grady, Gerald "Smelt" Smith and Don Campbell.

Other Junior forewards will be Dave Martin, George Dalton, John Poirier, Dave Gaudet, Nick Fillmore and Wayne Trainor.

Leafs Meet Black Hawks In Crucial Game Tonight

By DAVE BETTS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Glenn Hall celebrated New Year's in the hopes that Toronto Maple Leafs would get the hangover.

The Chicago Black Hawks' goalie was given a Jan. 1 holiday so he would be rested tonight for an attempt at his fifth shutout of the third-place Leafs his season. In eight meetings the Leafs have managed only nine goals against him.

In an effort to break Hall's New Year's resolutions, manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto has shuffled his three attacking units. Rookie Jim Pappin will play right wing with Red Kelly and Frank Mahovlich; Billy Harris will play on the left side with Dave Keon and George Armstrong, and the defensive line will have Eddie Shack joining Bob Pulford and Bob Baun.

Should the Leafs find the combination to Halls safe tonight, they would stand just three points behind the National Hockey League leaders with two extra games to play.

GAME THIS AFTERNOON

In other action this weekend, Detroit Red Wings play an afternoon game in New York today against the Rangers and meet Montreal Canadiens in Detroit Sunday night, Boston Bruins visit Montreal tonight and Chicago Sunday, and the Leafs move to New York Sunday night.

While Hall rested New Year's night, the rest of the Hawks seemed to take a vacation as well, and the Rangers walloped them 5-2. Dennis DeJordy filled in for Hall.

In an effort to widen their six-point bulge over the fifth-place Rangers, Detroit will use alternate goalie Roger Crozier instead of regular Terry Sawchuk, who has not regained top form since being injured several weeks ago.

Centre Alex Faulkner, the Bishop's Falls, Nfld., star, who has missed 15 games with a broken hand, is not expected back in the lineup today but should be ready within a week. A Red Wing spokesman said Friday the hand still has not healed properly.

SPLIT SEVEN GAMES

In seven previous meetings this season, Detroit and New York have each won three times—all at home — and one game was tied.

Coach Red Sullivan and his Rangers are fresh from a victory and a defeat — the 5-2 win over Chicago and a $200 loss by Sullivan to NHL president Clarence Campbell. The former Ranger centre was fined Thursday for encouraging Vic Hadfield to battle Canadiens' Henri Richard in the Montreal penalty box Dec. 12.

The fine was the fifth Campbell had imposed on team officials this season. Billy Reay of the Hawks and Imlach paid $1,000 each for not controlling their charges during a Dec. 7 brawl in Toronto, and Reay and general manager Tommy Ivan were assessed $100 and $200 fines respectively for stalling tactics in a New York game and for entering the officials' dressing room uninvited.

The embers of the Chicago-Toronto fire may have been fanned into flame Friday by Imlach who couldn't resist comment on Chicago centre Stan Mikita winning $500 for leading the league in scoring points for the first half of the season.

Reaching away back for a little fuel to throw on the coals, Imlach snorted: "In our first game at Chicago, (Pet. 13) Mikita got an assist he didn't deserve. Now it turns out to be worth $500."

Winger Billy Hicke of the Canadiens, out of action since Nov. 20 with a bruised knee, will dress for tonight's game against Boston in Montreal. To make way for Hicke, Claude Larose will be sent back to Omaha of the Central Professional League.
