

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 26, 1892.

Retirement of Mr. Laurier.

It is again announced that Mr. Laurier wants to resign the Leadership of the Opposition party. The strength of his reasons, as stated, will be admitted. But there is a stronger reason which he has not stated. He must see that the ruined fortunes of the party can never be retrieved until there has been a complete change of the party policy and the party leaders. The old policies have, one and all, been discredited and refused, and the old leaders are, because of their connection with the old policies, regarded by the intelligent and loyal people of Canada with profound suspicion. This fact has been borne in upon Mr. Laurier, and is, without doubt, the chief cause of his desire to retire from the Leadership of the fallen party.

The Tree Case.

The other side of the tree case was presented yesterday at the Stipendiary Magistrate's Court. John F. Baker, Esq., who was the defendant in the case, stated in effect—We quote the Patriotic report—

"That on the Queen's Birthday he saw off the limb of the tree—said tree being in front of his dwelling on Prince Street, and the limb in question being so low as to injure his buggy when entering or leaving the yard. On the 29th June—five weeks after—a heavy storm passed over the city, and a large branch, or about one-third of the tree was destroyed. This branch laid on the side of the street three days, then Mr. Baker cut it up and hauled it into the yard."

Assuming the truth of this statement, it appears that Mr. Baker's offence lay, for the most part, in "taking the law into his own hands." If the tree obstructed his entry to his premises, he had good ground for complaint against the city in respect to it, and he should have required the city to remove the obstruction. It is a pity that he did not, before attacking the tree, stop to consider the right and proper course to pursue; and it is unfortunate that he was held accountable by THE EXAMINER correspondent and others for wreckage, which, it appears, was for the most part caused by a storm. But it is well that citizens generally should know that they cannot, without breaking the law, cut or destroy trees which are growing on the streets. On the other hand, we hope that THE EXAMINER's suggestion that a competent man be delegated by the corporation to prune and care for the growing trees will be adopted.

The World's Exposition.

A FINAL official notice has been issued that, "all applications for space must be made before the first day of August, 1892." It is also stated that "applications already received call for at least twice as much space as we have at our disposal. All applications received up to the close of the current month will be entitled to consideration. Allotment of space will then begin. In making such allotment the value and importance of each exhibit in its relation to the whole will be duly considered."

The fact that applications would not be received after the first of August was announced long ago. Professor Saunders, the Commissioner for the Dominion Government, came to this Province, conferred with the Leader of the Government, and offered to defray the entire cost of transporting all exhibits to and from Chicago. This generous offer, which was made on behalf of the Dominion Government, was responded to by our local Premier with fair words and promises. But not, so far as we can learn, by a single act! We have fine horses to be sent to the World's Fair, but they will not be sent. We have excellent agricultural products of every description, which might well be shown at this great exhibition. But we believe that we are right in the statement that not a single entry has yet been made. A few days remain. A desperate effort may be made. But it seems more than likely at the present writing that there will be a World's Exposition and that Prince Edward Island will not be in it.

We, all of us, like to stand well with the world. We resent any neglect of the right island. If a map of the world be issued and Prince Edward Island be not shown, we, each of us, feel the insult. But we have in office a Government which, in spite of advice and persuasion and proffered assistance, has neglected to take the simple measures which are necessary to the proper representation of the Province at the World's Exposition.

The party from which this precious Government is drawn professes to believe that trade with the United States is absolutely essential to the prosperity of this Province. Yet the Government has neglected to take advantage of an excellent opportunity to show the people of the United States what we have to sell. They clamor for trade with the States, but do nothing whatever to that end.

—Earl Spencer, presiding at a meeting of the Northampton Agricultural Society, a few days ago, raised a storm of protest by remarking that agriculture in Great Britain was now in a more flourishing condition than it had been for a number of years. Mr. Howard, of Bedford, responding for the judges, was applauded on declaring that with his fifty years' experience of farming he could not remember when the condition of farmers was worse than at present.

The Manitoba Elections.

THE case of Manitoba to-day is the case of Prince Edward Island in 1876. It is a case of Protestants vs. Catholics, a case of separate religious schools vs. common denominational schools. How ridiculous and pitiful, therefore, is the conclusion of the Patriot that the result of the recent election "is another proof, if proof were wanted, that were the Dominion elected to be run free from the Tory gerrymander at Ottawa, and from the influence of the C. P. R. of public works contractors and of monopolist manufacturers, the Dominion Government would soon be in the hands of the Liberals." Mr. Greenway simply expressed the popular cause of the great majority,—and won easily, as Mr. Davies did in 1876.

It is true that the cause of the minority in Manitoba is stronger than was the cause of the minority here, by reason of the fact that separate schools have been guaranteed to Manitoba by an act of the Dominion Parliament. But the Greenway Government are pledged to afford undominion-al schools in spite of the law.

Obituary.

SOME sixteen months ago THE EXAMINER gave a brief sketch of the career of Dan. MacEachern, who, when but a youth, left his native home in West River, Lot 65. Possessed of a robust constitution and an unbending will, he resolved to seek his fortune in the gold fields of California, where he was fairly successful. He travelled many of the Southern States, and crossed the border to British Columbia at the time when the Fraser River gold mines were scenes of attraction. After spending a few years on the Pacific Coast he crossed the Atlantic, visited several European cities and countries, and left Europe for the Australian colonies. From thence he went to South Africa, and was for many years engaged in the diamond fields of Jagersfontein and the gold diggings of Kimberly, Africa, where he accumulated considerable wealth. He then resolved to pay his native island a visit, and arrived here some five years ago, where he enjoyed the comforts of a quiet home among the friends of his youth at Fairview, Lot 65. Meanwhile, he corresponded with an old associate in England, who strongly urged him to join him once more at the diamond mines of South Africa. He repaired thither and resumed his former occupation. A letter received from Mr. William Ross, jr., who was with him during his last illness, conveys the sad intelligence of his death, which occurred at Jagersfontein, Orange Free State, South Africa, on the 9th day of June last of inflammation of the lungs. The deceased was 64 years of age at the time of his death.

Perhaps the most eccentric Ohio man now living is William A. Strickland of Athlia, who returned his pension money "the other day with the note stating that he had been told to do so in a revelation in which the Lord warned him it was blood money. The chances are not only that Mr. Strickland's example will never become popular among Ohio men, but that he will get himself dislabeled by the neighbors for carrying this thing entirely too far.

General Telegraphic News.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 24.—An explosion at the York colliery yesterday caused the death of fifteen miners, and one is lying at the point of death at home. Of the dead two are still in the mine covered with debris. The explosion was caused by gas liberated by a blast in the second lift, rushing through the air way to the first lift, where it ignited. There was no criminal carelessness on the part of any of the employes or officials. The men were all working with safety lamps, and how the gas caught fire will never be told. No special damage has been done to the interior workings of the mine.

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—Wm. R. Clement, of Montreal, is in the Grand Trunk railroad directors, in the city. "What is there in the rumors that the two great Canadian systems, your road and the Canadian Pacific, will consolidate," was asked him. "Well, Sir Henry Tyler, the Grand Trunk's president, is coming over, and I understand that a meeting is arranged between him and President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific. The Canadian Pacific's purchase would put the Grand Trunk and the government to the sum of $100,000,000. The American stockholders of the Pacific feel like selling, I hear. Possibly there would be no legal technicalities in the way."

GLoucester, July 24.—Schooner Maggie E. McKenzie arrived from Iceland, breaking all former records for quick trips. She brings 24,000 pounds of fished halibut, the largest fare ever brought to this port. Capt. McKenzie sailed from here March 14 and made the passage from land to land in 12 days. The weather this season was the worst ever known. Heavy gales accompanied with snow prevailed during April and May. Drift ice retarded her progress, and most of the fleet did very poorly. Schooners Judique, Blue Jacket and Iceland had left for Greenland or Flemish Cap, while several others had gone to hunt the new fishing grounds on the northeast coast of Iceland. When sailing for home, June 23, the schooners Concord, Commonwealth, Magoola and A. D. Storey remained at Drydock. This season there was a large fleet of French, English and Norwegian vessels codfishing off the coast. They did well, while a large fleet of Danish whaling vessels made excellent catches. There was so much snow on land and the weather was so cold that vegetation would not grow and the inhabitants had to kill their cattle and sheep to keep them from dying, but no destitution prevailed among the Icelandic inhabitants. Moderate south winds prevailed during the homeward passage. The four months' voyage of the McKenzie will probably net the largest stock ever made in this fishery.

PALO ALTO, July 24.—The celebrated stallion Palo Alto, the head of Senator Stanford's stud on the Palo Alto stock farm, died of pneumonia on Thursday afternoon. Several other fine animals are suffering from this malady, and it seems to be spreading rapidly. The king of stallions won his crown on the kite-shaped track at Stockton on November 17 of last year. On that day, with the only Marvin in the seat, he covered a mile in 2:08 1/2. The performance was a surprise even to the admirers of the princely stallion, as it was thought he had done his best work. Palo Alto went to Stockton in October with a record of 2:12 1/2, but Marvin reduced the mark in three races against time, and on Nov. 2 lowered it to 2:08 1/2. On Nov. 17, the day set by Marvin for the last trial, the track was crowded by anxious horsemen who had been trying to crowd Marvin out of the Palo Alto stable. A great crowd had gone to Stockton lanes, and hoped a little as he passed in review before before the crowd. His clip at the start was nothing fearful, but to the experienced eyes it seemed staidier than usual. Palo Alto was by the great Electioneer, and his dam was the thoroughbred mare Dame Winnie, by Planet. The Palo Alto folks were confident that the horse would lower his record this year, as his legs, which have always been a handicap, were greatly improved.
