Sport Echoes From Prince County

Congratulations to the O'Leary Maroons on putting up such a tremendous battle with the Charlotte-town Abbies. They lost the series in the dying minutes of the third period after staging a brilliant comeback from the short end of a 5-2 score to even terms at 5-all. The Abbies sank the winner late in the period, but the O'Leary team deserve a great deal of credit for their spirited fight.

O'Leary has come a long way since the days when the Summerside Crystals used to bury them under an avalanche of rubber. Veterans such as Wedge and Wedlock are still playing with the team, but a group of young players have been added, such as Rodgers, Bernard, Harris and some others, and in our opinion these recruits are as promising a bevy of puck pushers as you'll find on Prince Edward Island.

We're not sure who is coaching these kids, but whoever he is, he can take a very low bow, because they've come along like Seabiscuit on the home stretch. When you consider that in a small place like O'Leary he wouldn't have a very large group of boys to select from, our battered old Stetson is off to you, you fighting Westerners, and long may you continue to uphold the honor of Prince County with these redoubtable hockey sticks of yours.

The Maritime junior curling bonspiel, played for the first time in Summerside, provided a full quota of thrills. Quite often the last rock came sailing down the ice with the bloomin' "ball game" depending on its weight and direction, and maybe a little on the flying brooms in front of it, (and we mean "maybe").

One of the dramatic moments of the spiel was when the Summerside rink had an edge of four points coming home in the twelfth end, and the Sydney curlers, fighting elimination from contention as runners-up, placed four rocks and tied the game, forcing an extra end! One end to decide which team would be the Maritime junior "runners-up" and get the beautiful engraved trays emblematic of that honor! We were thrilled as all get out.

Do you know what happened then? They played that dramatic end so that the stones would finish up at the opposite end of the rink from which the spectators were watching! Talk about anti-climax! To us, it was as if Sydney and Summerside baseball teams were fighting for Maritime honors, and with the score tied in the ninth inning, they left the fans in the stands and took the players down to the field by the Kinsmen Rink to play the tenth inning!

Perhaps we are being a little presumptuous, because admittedly we know rather less about curling than a Hotchkiss knows about progressive auction, but our idea of playing up the dramatic in a sporting thrill was definitely outraged. We think, perhaps, that the true explanation lies in the fact that curling is not primarily a spectator sport. Its thrills and enjoyments lie first of all in playing the game, and much less in seeing it played. But you can get some thrills as a spectator too!
