NASAL BALM

TOTTENHAM, ONT., May 3rd, 1887.

I have been troubled with nasal catarrh for the last five years. Seeing Nasal Balm advertised I procured a bottle, and although I have only used part of it, I do not hesitate to pronounce it the best remedy in the world for that loathsome disease, Catarrh. It is easy and pleasant to use, soothing and healing in its action, instant in giving relief, removes and changes the poisonous secretions to a healthy state, stops the droppings from the head into the throat, and removes all the symptoms of

THE PIRATE.

By Sir Walter Scott.

CHAPTER XVII.

They man their boats, and all the young men arm.

With whatsoever might the monsters harm:

Pikes, halberds, spears, and darts, that wound afar.

The tools of peace, and implements of war.

Now was the time for valorous lads to show

What love or honor could incite them to:—

In a goodly theatre, where rocks are round

With reverend age and lovely lassies crown'd.

Battle of the Summer Islands.

The morning which succeeds such a feast as that of Magnus Troil, usually lacks a little of the zest which seasoned the revels of the preceding day as the fashionable reader may have observed at a public breakfast during the race-week in a country town; for, in what is called the best society, these lingering moments are usually spent by the company, each apart in their own dressing room. At Burgh-Westra, it will readily be believed, no such space for retirement was afforded; and the ladies, with their palmy cheeks; the elder dames, with many a wink senty awn, were compelled to meet with their own companions (headaches and all) just: three hours after they had parted from each other.

Eric Scambester had done all that man could do to supply the full means of diverting the ennui of the morning meal. The board groined with rounds of hung beef, made after the fashion of Zetland—with pasties—with haked meat—with fish, dressed and cured in every possible manner; nay, with the foreign delicacies of tea, coffee, and chocolate; for, as we have already had occasion to remark, the situation of these islands made them early acquainted with various articles of foreign luxury, which were, as yet, but little known in Scotland, where, at a much later period than that we write of, one pound of green tea was dressed like cabbage, and another converted into a vegetable sauce for salt beef, by the ignorance of the good housewives to whom they had been sent as rare presents.

Besides these preparations, the table exhibited whatever mighty potions were resorted to by bons vivans, under the facetious name of a "hair of the dog that bit you." There was the potent Irish Usquebaugh—right Nantz —genuine Schiedamm—Aqua-vite from Cath-ness—and golden Wasser from Hamburg;—

there was rum of formidable antiquity, and cordials from the Leeward Islands. After these details, it were needless to mention the stout home-brewed ale—the German mum, and Schwartz beer—and still more would it be beneath our dignity to dwell upon the innumerable sorts of pottage and summary, together with the bland, and various preparations of milk, for those who preferred thinner potations.

No wonder that the sight of so much good cheer awakened the appetite and raised the spirits of the fatigued travellers. The young
