MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM MacLURE

St. Paul's Church, Sturgeon Scene Of Summer Wedding

Roses and summer flowers decorated the altar of St. Paul's Church, Sturgeon, recently for the wedding of Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Griffin, Panmure Island and William Malcolm, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cameron MacLure of Montague.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Lawrence Landrigan, who celebrated Nuptial Mass with Paul Jamieson and George Griffin, brother of the bride, serving.

The soloist was Mrs. Willard McCarron, who sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white organza over taffeta with lace panel, scalloped neckline and long lily point sleeves. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and her headdress a crown of seed pearls held a shoulder length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of pink roses.

The bride's sister, Colleen Griffin was maid of honor and Barbara Wright of Lower Montague and Jean Stewart, Charlottetown, were bridesmaids. The attendants wore identical street length dress of blue peau de soie. Their headdresses were blue veils held in place with matching bows and they carried nosegays of blue and white carnations.

Joanne MacDonald of Parkdale was flower girl. She was dressed in a blue peau de soie dress and wore a headband of pink roses. She carried a basket of pink flowers.

The best man was Ralph Moore, and guests were ushered by Milton MacDonald, Parkdale, and Arthur Griffin, Panmure Island, brother of the bride.

A reception for over a hundred guests was held at Hill Side Inn, Montague, where the bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake. Father Landrigan asked the blessing. Bernard Crawford was master of ceremonies. The groomsman (Ralph Moore) proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded, and the guest book was circulated by Judy Murphy.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a sheath dress and jacket of beige lace and a pink floral hat. She wore bone accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Roger Reed, sister of the groom, wore a beige dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The bride changed to a blue suit with white accessories for a wedding trip to Nova Scotia.

The couple are residing in Montague on Main Street. The bride is on the staff of the Motor Vehicle office in Charlottetown and the groom is with Island Chev-Olds Ltd.

Out of the province guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roger Reed, Arlington, Mass. and David MacLure, Sackville, N.B.

MARY HAWORTH

Fond Spinster Dismayed At Bachelor's Appearance

Dear Mary Haworth: A spinster relative of mine, a career woman, has a bachelor friend, a very fine person of very endearing character, who is very careless in his dress and grooming.

He has a fine position and lives in a very nice apartment.

Recently I had a note from Edna, my relative, which says in effect: "Wish I knew how to tell Homer to trim his mails, have his teeth cleaned and discard his mainstay suit, which is so much too small that the pants legs hike up and bottons keep popping over his paunch."

Can you think of a way to get the message across without hurting his feelings? A.O.

Dear A.O.: Edna might sugar coat the message somewhat as follows: She might tell Homer he has wonderful hands, so capable looking, etc., and therefore he ought to do them justice by keeping his nails beautifully trimmed — as by getting an occasional professional manicure.

She might tell Homer, too, that he has a terrific smile, that warms the heart and gladdens the eye; and therefore he must take care to keep his teeth in perfect condition, beginning now, because his smile always will be one of his best features, etc.

In the same vein, after a tactful interval, Edna might also tell Homer that he is a rugged looking person, that there is something so strong and vital about his build, his walk, etc., and therefore he ought to pay more attention to dressing-the-part.

"For instance," she may specify, if Homer seems receptive to her interest, "take that favorite suit of yours. Do you mind my saying it's not in your class at all? It doesn't do a thing for you. It cuts you off at the ankles and makes you look thick around the waist."

"If I were your fairy godmother," she might continue, "I'd wave a wand this very minute and presto! Yoy'd be standing there in a conservatively cut, easy-fitting, tailor-made suit that emphasized your full height and good proportions, and was so comfortable and right you'd be crazy about it!"

If Homer hasn't changed the subject defensively by then indicating fixed resistance to Edna's sales pitch, she might gradually undertake further persuasive measures, to-wit:

1. Edging Homer towards excellent barbershops that include manicurist services.

2. Making him a present of an electric toothbrush and a try-out tube of luxury-type toothpaste ("for the man with the million dollar smile"), hopeful that the gadget itself, if not the idea, will challenge him into using it.

3. Doing comparison shopping on her own time, for good quality, fair-priced made-to-measure clothing for men, available in Homer's part of the world.

When supplied with catalogues, folders, brochures, etc., to document a knowledgeable discussion of good tailoring, Edna might casually reopen her campaign to update Homer's wardrobe, with his consent, at his expense.

P.S.: And if any of our readers think these suggestions are silly, I challenge them to provide something better. I'd be only too happy to yield the floor. M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

ELLEN'S DIARY

4-H Members Came By To Judge Beef Animals

Peter looked out from his play, on the front veranda this evening, to the dusk drifting down through the lawn-trees, and softly enfolding the fields. "I think, since Alex is not here to be with me" he offered, "I may as well go home now, before it gets too dark. I wish" he sighed "he were here!"

This afternoon had taken Alex away to visit a young cousin of his line, son of an old farm, the foot of which is washed by a tidal river. It always was, and continues to be, a home where folks like to come, finding, as we have all up the years, an interesting and kindly folk there. It is a busy spot with its herds, its flocks and its fields; nevertheless it would seem that peace is within its gates. Though it has kept pace with the demands of the times in the way of improvements, both in the home and on the farm, many of the old-time scenes still remain. Hedgerows still keep, remnants of old orchards remain, and the same shady checkered lane, where roses in season still waste their sweetness, leads down to the shore.

We too listen for the step of this missing one, whose interests are his books and his pets. "When I grow up I think, I'll keep only pets on my farm" he offered, rather dreamily the other day, watching the rabbit enjoy the lettuce he had brought to the hutch. "There are such nice pets" he smiled. "You can do whatever you like, Alex" Peter commented, "but you know what I plan to be: I'm going to drive a big road-machine!"

"Aw, what silly talk you two do have" Mack offered a bit teasingly. "Better to be farmers. There are plenty of machines to operate there. And put a herd of cattle on your fields, Alex, instead of pets!"

"You will have both, Alex, won't you? Cattle, and all the pets, — dogs and cats, rabbits and chicks, or whatever you like to keep" his one sister smiled. "And Peter, if you want to drive big machines, that's the thing to do. But you will be careful won't you?" "I'll try my best!" Peter nodded.

This evening in a first "public" adventure, Mack conducted a closs of visiting 4 H'ers in a work of the farming he enjoys. Members of a dairy group this was, interested and alert, who gaining an acquaintance with various breeds, came by to judge a little company of the beef animals, it pleases this farm to cultivate.

Mack's mother, his Club's leader, in girlhood active in 4-H and herself the daughter of a farm, the herd of which won repeated honors in its own right, was in the neighborhood of the project. James too, leaving the house, reckoned he "would go to the stable and have a look in at the youngsters." He returned with the report "that 4-H gives farm - children a fine training in so many ways," and to say with a pleased smile that, in his role, Mack had acquitted himself, "Yes" with a considered nod, "very well."

August - born Mack is, the babe of a Fair Week in a year that has slipped off quickly into the past. That gala time now nearing, will set him down at his 16th anniversary of birth.

Today brought its niceties to the folks of this farm, among them, a new moon to sail now the silver set of sky above the valley's rim.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night .....

VISITING OLD HAUNTS

After an absence of 55 years from the Island, Mrs. Anne Irwin (nee Henry) from Keswick, Ont. has returned for a two week's visit. Born in Lot 9, Mrs. Irwin was mighty pleased to find the old homestead still there. She called on a neighbour in the vicinity, Jim Delaney, living in the same house where she used to "stop and warm her feet" as a little girl. Mrs. Irwin also visited with other old neighbours, Russell Rogers and Bob Sharp at West Devon. She was accompanied to the Island by her two daughters, Mrs. Alma Hall and Mrs. Jean Jones and her granddaughter Carol Jones all of Cooksville, Ont.

Couple Honored By Party At Irishtown

Mr. and Mrs. Heath MacLeod opened their spacious home at Irishtown for a surprise party for their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold MacLeod, to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary.

With Clair Campbell as master of ceremonies, gifts were presented to the popular couple. On behalf of Harold's parents and his sisters and their husbands and families, Mrs. Milner Hill read a gift card and Mrs. William Heaney presented a gift.

Mrs. Elmer Buchanan read a gift card and Elmer Buchanan presented a gift on behalf of the Buchanan families.

Gifts were also received on behalf of the community, Kensington Elementary School, daughters, sons and grandchildren of the honored couple, and many others from friends and neighbours.

Mrs. W.P. MacLeod spoke briefly offering congratulations and good wishes on behalf of all present. Refreshments were served and the anniversary cake, made and presented by Millie Cousins, was cut and passed to the guests.

Mrs. MacLeod is the former Olive Buchanan of Albany.

Lawyer Proves Motherhood And Education Do Mix

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lady Littlewood, an English lawyer who is presiding as first vice-president over sessions of the convention of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, proves that motherhood and education do mix.

She received her own degree, in mathematics, physics and psychology from King's College in London, laet in 1935. In February of 1936 her son, now a lawyer, was born and the next month she was admitted to practice as a solicitor—not to be confused with a barrister—and Lady Littlewood is still glad she specialized in science.

She practices in a firm with four men in Guildford, Surrey, not far from London, and is a magistrate for the County of Middlesex. Her husband also is a solicitor.

SEE THROUGH CHANGES

As international chairman of legislation for the world-wide federation, Lady Littlewood is here to shepherd through some constitutional amendments having to do with the housekeeping of the organization.

Her principal interest, outside these matters, is continuing education of women.

"I try to encourage girls to do their training and be qualified before they get married so that after looking after young children they can come back for a refresher course and take up careers," she said.

ARCHBISHOP ADAMANT

LONDON (Reuters) — A bearded 50-year-old archbishop stayed put at his Armenian Church of St. Sarkis here Wednesday despite moves to eject him by oil millionaire Nubar Gulbenkian, recently handed the case to lawyers after Archbishop Boussak Toumayan refused to obey their dismissal order in May. The issue has caused a schism among Britain's 4,000 - member Armenian community.

Quebec Gov't Will Fight Commission

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government will go to the Supreme Court of Canada to fight the expropriation powers of the national capital commission in Ottawa where these concern the municipal territory of Hull, Que. Justice Minister Claude Wagner says either he or one of his judicial advisers will plead the constitutional issue when it comes before the Supreme Court Sept. 8.

The issue is posed by the expropriation power granted to the commission for the purpose of zoning.

The powers cover 1,800 miles around Ottawa and the current issue of dispute results from creation of a green belt in the huge Greber town planning scheme.

Quebec's stand on the matter was approved at a cabinet meeting Tuesday.

The justice department said half the proposed green belt is located in this province, with the Quebec section containing a population of 125,000 people.

COURSE RULED VALID

The exchequer court already has ruled that expropriation by the commission is a valid way to reach a valid purpose.

Said the Quebec justice department in a statement:

"If the judgment of the exchequer court is maintained, the federal parliament could take over the entire development of most of the Hull region including the city of Hull itself.

"Quebec on many occasions opposed expropriation by the national capital commission for purposes of creating parks."

Pierre Laporte, Quebec does not mean the province opposes creation of a federal district around Ottawa similar to the District of Columbia around Washington in the United States.

"This matter would have to be negotiated," Mr. Laporte told a reporter.

Motor Vehicle Output Figures

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor vehicle production will drop this week, as most manufacturers close for the switch-over to 1966 models.

The weekly production report, released by the Canadian Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association, shows 1965 production rapidly outpacing last year's record. A total of 454,742 cars have been produced to July 31, 1965, compared with 385,109 in the same period last year. Truck production to July 31 was 88,023, compared with 71 064 in the similar period last year.

Scheduled production this week for all vehicles is 2,316, compared with 8,761 produced last week.

Scheduled car production by company this week and total production to July 31, with comparative figures for last week and 1964 in brackets:

American Motors — (—), 20,771 (21,283); Chrysler — (1,387), 79,880 (68,011); Ford — (—), 107,079 (101,761); General Motors 2,045 (7,297) 243,048 (190,751); Studebaker — (—), 11,652 (9,457); Volvo 75 (75), 2,018 (1,437).

TRUCKS

Chrysler — (409), 9,706 (7,591); Ford — (—), 23,860 (23,442); General Motors — (2), 46,186 (31 956); International Harvester 196 (—), 8,271 (8,075).

Time Savers Suggested In Turning Out A Meal

THE menu columned today does not necessarily call for many convenience foods as we currently know them.

However, three good "convenience" time-savers you may decide to use are canned hearts of artichokes for the salad; "whipped potato flakes," to border the beef; and, of course, canned applesauce for the apple crumb coffee cake.

Measurements are level.

APPLE CRUMB COFFEE CAKE

Made all by yourself for a change!

THE CAKE:
½ cup sugar
3 tbsp. room-soft shortening
1 egg, beaten
1 cup flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup milk

Mix together sugar and shortening; add egg. Beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; add alternately with milk to first mixture. Pour into an oiled 8" x 8" x 2" pan.

THE FILLING:
2 cups canned applesauce
½ cup brownulated sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice
½ tsp. ground cinnamon
⅛ tsp. ground clove

Combine all above ingredients, mix well. Spoon over cake batter.

CRUMB TOPPING:
1-3 cup brownulated sugar
½ cup sifted flour
3 tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup shopped pecan meats

Mix all ingredients together until crumbly. Spread evenly over applesauce layer. Bake 50 minutes in moderate oven, 375 degrees. Enjoy it warm on the day it is made. Serves 6 to 10.

MONDAY DINNER

Hearts of Artichoke and Romaine Salad
Brown Gravy
Braised Short Ribs of Beef
Whipped Potato
Broccoli with Lemon-Butter
Apple Crumb Coffee Cake
Or Chilled Crushed Pineapple and Applesauce
Topped with Whipped Cream
Hot or Iced Coffee or Tea, Milk

BRAISED SHORT RIBS OF BEEF

5 lb. short ribs of beef
2 tbsp. vegetable oil
4 large carrots
1 lb. rutabaga
1 peeled onion, chopped fine
2½ cups water or broth
2 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. powdered rosemary
6 cups whipped potato (from cooked fresh potatoes or whipped potato flakes)
Parsley for garnish

Ask the butcher to separate the ribs and saw them into 3" lengths.

Brown them all over in oil. Peel and dice carrots and rutabaga; add onion; put vegetables into kettle with ribs, water or broth and seasonings.

Cover; simmer 1 to 1½ hours or until vegetables are tender. Serve meat and vegetables piled on large platter or tray. Border with whipped potato. Garnish: parsley. Pass brown gravy made from remaining meat broth. Serves 6.

THE CHEF SUGGESTS

When making "brown gravy," use pre-browned flour to enhance flavor and make richer color. Always keep browned flour on hand.

To prepare, spread one to two cups regular flour ⅛" deep in a shallow pan. Bake five minutes in a hot oven or until the flour is lightly browned. Stir twice. Store in close-covered glass jar.

Sun Dried Skin Is "Yelling" For Water

If your skin is dry, wrinkled and rough, chances are it's starving for water. You can pump water in from the outside by the tankful, and all that happens is it runs off. But at last an amazing discovery called CEF 600 actually carries water into and under the skin. Like your watered flowers, skin bursts into the bloom of youth with lines and wrinkles smoothed, roughness softened, aging skin made more youthful looking. The only way you can get CEF 600 and CEF 1200 in double strength is in a lotion-like substance called 2nd Debut. At drug or department stores.
