

Dodgers Win First World Series Title As Podres Pitches Deciding Contest

By JACK MAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn's beloved Yanks finally won a world series on the eighth try Tuesday after long years of bitter frustration, tumbling the mighty New York Yankees in a tense seven-game, 2-0, on Johnny Podres' gritty pitching.

Scored as 19-5 underdogs after dropping the first two games at Yankee Stadium, the Dodgers slugged back to become the first team ever to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first two. Only the 1921 New York Giants had staged a comparable comeback but they had nine games in which to sink the Yankees' first pennant winners.

Five times the Yanks threatened to tie the 23-year-old lefthander before the 19th inning, but he had jolted five other Dodger series bids. But this blue-eyed blonde from Witherbee, N. Y., and Sandy Amoros, a speedy little senior from Cuba who started a sensational double play with a dazzling one-handed catch in the sixth, were equal to each challenge.

When Podres marched from the dugout to take his turn at bat in the ninth, a roaring ovation from the 62,465 fans beat down upon his ears. It was Podres who lifted the Dodgers off the floor in the third game and it was Podres who led the grand march into the promised land of world series victory.

GROWL OF TRIUMPH

When Podres worked the last Yankee batter, Elmer Howard, to a 2-2 count, saw him foul off two and then send a sharp bouncer to Peevree Reese, a deep growl of triumph swept the cavernous stands.

As Hodges gathered in Reese's fast throw for the final out, a twisting deluge of players, bench warmers, fathers and youngsters in striped sweaters overwhelmed Podres. The Dodger club finally moved en masse, like one giant swarm of bees, toward the dugout and the inevitable champagne-popping ceremonies.

It was the first Yankee series defeat since Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals upset them in 1942 and their fifth defeat in 21 series. They had won seven in a row since '42.

CATCH IS HIGHLIGHT

When other details of this series are covered with dust and all but forgotten, they still will remember the catch by Amoros that saved the day for the Dodgers in the sixth.

Billy Martin had walked and Gil McDougald, who had three of the eight hits off the lefthander, had beaten out a hunt for a single.

Podres' 2-0 lead appeared shaky as Yogi Berra strode to the plate. Berra slashed the ball into a high arc toward the left-field corner, and Amoros, who was playing in left center, started to pedal his short legs like a man coming down the stretch.

With his gloved right hand fully outstretched, Amoros just caught up with the ball at the last possible second. One step less and the ball would have dropped for a probable double, scoring both base runners to tie the score with a man on second and nobody out.

SANDY WAS THERE

But Sandy was there. He whirled and threw a perfect peg to Reese who relayed to Hodges at first, nipping McDougald as he tried to get back in time to prevent the rally-killing double play.

Amoros had just entered the game, replacing Junior Gilliam who went to second when manager Walter Alton lifted Don Zimmer for a pinch hitter in the Dodgers' half of the inning.

The game packed the drama of an entire season into nine glorious innings in the bright, warm sunshine of a perfect October afternoon.

It was a ball game with $100,000 riding on every pitch by Podres and his assorted opponents, starter Tommy Byrne and relievers Bob Grim and Bob Turley. For the difference between the winning and losing pool was just about $100,000.

Official figures won't be released for some time but it was understood that the Brooks had voted 32 splits, making each full share worth $3,000. The reported 36 Yankees full shares were each good for $5,750.

PODRES IN TROUBLE

Time after time it seemed the Yanks must break through Podres, working with three days rest after his fine third-game victory.

The Yanks suffered a cruel break when, with Phil Rizzuto on second and Billy Martin on first in the third, McDougald grounded to third, Rizzuto, sliding into third under the threat of a force play,

Banquet And Party Held For Jr. Softball Players

There were banquets and parties in Brooklyn last night and there were softball celebrations in Charlottetown at the "Name Hall" where the City Junior League softballers climaxed a season's activities with a combined banquet, party, trophy presentation and film.

There was scarcely more happiness among the Dodger supporters than there was among the 125 or more boys assembled at the Holy Name Hall under the direction of Father Clarence Roche, organizer and promoter of the Junior softball league in the City.

Father Roche presided over the evening's entertainment among his guests of honor who spoke briefly to the boys were Police Chief C.W. MacArthur, Jack Doyle, Councillor P.R. McCormack and Stengele Thomas Creighan.

The Junior League was divided into two sections, one named the American League and the other the National League. Individual trophies to the National League winners were presented by Police Chief MacArthur and to the American League champions by Councillor McCormack.

The Knights of Columbus Trophy, awarded to the winners of the American League was presented by Jack Doyle to Bobby Dillon, team captain of the Junior B.C.

The September Ushers Trophy awarded to the winners of the American League was presented by Thomas Creighan to Vince Mulligan, captain of the Vics.

Following the presentation of trophies and the short speeches the boys and guests were treated to a banquet prepared by the ladies of the St. Charles Auxiliary. Following the banquet, films were shown during which the boys were liberally treated to ice cream, soft drinks and chocolate bars.

In his remarks Father Roche spoke about the successful year in softball during which about 130 boys in the City played in the Junior League.

He praised the boys for their play and he told them to look forward to bigger and better things next year. He thanked everyone who assisted in conducting the league particularly those local firms who provided sweaters, balls or bats to the teams. He also had a special word of praise for the ladies who prepared the banquet and to Mr. Dalway Coyne who helped conduct the league.

Chief MacArthur stated he was glad to attend the party and was happy to see the boys being rewarded for their efforts. He congratulated Father Roche for his work in organizing the boys into such an athletic group and he wished the boys the best of luck in the years ahead.

Councillor McCormack congratulated Father Roche on the great interest he has taken in the youth of the City. He also congratulated the players, assuring them of his 100 per cent support in their future athletic endeavors. Mr. McCormack

Solly Cantor Wins 10-Rounder

LONDON, (CP)—Veteran Solly Cantor, former British Empire lightweight champion, used his cleverness to outpoint Frank Johnson, British lightweight champion, in a dull 10-rounder Tuesday night.

NEW YORK (AP)—I was appropriate that Gil Hodges would have driven in both Brooklyn runs that gave them their first world series when they whipped the Yanks 2-0 Tuesday.

Gil is one of the two Brooklyn players who resides in the borough of churches. He wasn't born there, but he married a Brooklyn girl and lives there the year round now.

Sandy Koufax, the relief pitcher, is the other team member who makes his home in Brooklyn.

But the "big" man is little Johnny Podres, who pitched his way out of jam after jam. He was just 23 years old last Friday when he beat the Yankees at Ebbets Field, 8-3.

Furthermore, he wasn't figured to be the pitching star. That garland was supposed to go to Don Newcombe. But the big boy came up with a sore arm and Podres took over.

Nor should manager Walt Alton be forgotten. The way he handled his sometimes-weak and sometimes-injured pitching staff was remarkable.

Jackie Robinson was hobbled by an injured achilles tendon in his right heel and didn't even attempt to play Tuesday.

Scott Frost Will Face 7 Challengers Thursday In The Kentucky Futurity

LEXINGTON, Ky., (AP)—Seven sophomore trotters were named Tuesday to challenge heavily favored Scott Frost in the 83rd renewal of the $62,702 Kentucky Futurity at the Lexington Trottis Thursday.

Scott Frost, winner of nine races in 10 starts, drew toward the outside and must race the first heat from No. 6 position while his principal challenger, Gallop home, races from No. 3.

The race of the field, reading from the inside, includes Childs Hanover, Wayhead, Newport Doyle, Black Rico, Home Free and Flemington.

The three-year-old classic is one of the best two-of-three one-mile heats.

O'BRIEN AT REINS

Scott Frost, handled by Joe O'Brien, formerly of Alberton, P.E.I., will be aiming for the was hit by the ball for an automatic out. That ended the inning and the threat.

In the fourth, Duke Snider, going after Yogi Berra's high fly, was scared off by the charging Gilliam from left. Snider held up at the last second, letting the ball drop untouched for a freak double.

Once again the Yanks were unable to jam through the opening as Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Bob Cerv went down in order.

Rizzuto, playing a record-breaking 52nd series game, opened the eighth with a single. After Martin filed out, McDougald bounced a single off Don Hoak's shoulder.

ESCAPES AGAIN

Two on one out, Berra up Yogi looked at three balls, took a strike, then drove a fly ball to Carl Furillo in right and Furillo's sharp shooting arm forced Rizzuto to dash back for third. Hank Bauer then became Podres' fourth and last strikeout victim.

Byrne didn't allow a hit until the fourth. Then Campanella, who had gone 0 for 12 in the stadium, slammed a double to the left-field corner with one out. Furillo was thrown out but Hodges lined a pitch into left for the first big run.

In the sixth, Reese opened with a single and the Yanks' Skowron hit. Byrne's peg got away from him for an error as he tried to tag the bunting Snider.

Campanella moved up the runners with a sacrifice. Byrne filled the bases with an intentional pass to Furillo.

Stengel then called for Grim, a righthander. Hodges drove a deep fly to Cerv in centre and Reese romped home easily.

Big Guns In Dodgers World Series Victory

There was glee in Brooklyn last night and not a little of it was provided by the three players above who were among the big guns in the Dodgers march to the World Series Championship.

The player in the centre is the one and only Duke Snider whose booming bat and great fielding broke the hearts of the Yankees and their supporters in game after game.

And at the right is the fancy fielding first baseman Gil Hodges, who was superb defensively and offensively throughout the series.

Stengel Hints Broadly He'll Be Back Next Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, thwarted in his bid for a sixth world championship, hinted broadly today that he'll be back to try again next year as manager of New York's Yankees.

"I don't know about next year," the crease-faced manager of the Yankees said in the solemn New York dressing room after Brooklyn's 2-0 decisive world series victory.

"But I got a contract. I got it in black and white and unless they fire me..."

Then he let his voice fade and left his interviewers to draw their own conclusions.

NO GRIPES OR ALIBIS

The Yankees accepted their world series defeat — their first since St. Louis Cardinals stunned them in the 1942 series — in much the same fashion as they accepted their 16 world series triumphs in the 20 appearances preceding this one — like professionals.

There were no tears. Bitter disappointment perhaps, but no gripes or alibis. They had nothing but praise for the dashing Dodger team.

"That was a great catch and play by their left fielder Sandy Amoros in the sixth inning when we were moving," Casey said. "That play was the play that won the game for them."

S'ide School Bowling Leagues Get Underway

The school bowling leagues of Summerside opened the 1955-56 bowling season yesterday afternoon when Miss Phillipa MacNally, president of the St. Mary's Academy, began the season by playing the first ball down the Capitol Alley.

The high single and the high three for the opening day went to two veterans of the league, Miss Betty Arsenault who had a 200 pins for high single, and Miss Dorothy Perry who had a 482 pins for high three.

Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell has accepted the office of honorary president of the league, and Donald Cameron has been named honorary vice-president.

The executive for the 1955-56 season are as follows: Miss Phillipa MacNally as president of the St. Mary's Academy, and Miss Norma FitzPatrick as vice-president. Miss Eileen Gaudet as president of the Sum-Hi Academy, along with Mr. Donald Gay as co-manager.

Brooklyn Couldn't Quite Believe Series Victory

By Robert Farrington

BROOKLYN, (AP)—The Dodgers won their first world series Tuesday but frankly, Brooklyn acted like it couldn't quite believe it.

According to tradition, scenes of wild and spontaneous abandon should have swept the streets. Brooklyn fans, however, have been numbered by years of last-minute defeats and seven prior denials of baseball's world championship crown.

Nonetheless, Brooklyn wore a happy smile as first baseman Gil Hodges made the final out that insured a 2-0 Dodger victory over the Yankees in the seventh and deciding world series game.

In Brooklyn office buildings, confetti showered down a cheerers echoed through the halls as the victory was clinched. The sound drifted out to motorists in the streets. They leaned on their horns to swell the din.

Even staid Manhattan, whose own world series victories are accepted with decorous calm, got excited at the Dodger victory. Ticker tape streamed from skyscrapers from Wall street to Central Park Rockefeller Plaza was littered with torn telephone books and other scraps of paper set adrift on high by Brooklyn fans in alien territory.

Nomads Have Two Games Scheduled This Week-end

The Charlottetown Nomad have a busy weekend in front of them when they play two games in Charlottetown this coming weekend. They play Saint Dunstan's on Saturday in an exhibition game and then meet Truro Monday in a Maritime League fixture.

The team had a work-out on Monday and are slated for further practices at the High School Ground on Wednesday and Friday evenings at 5:30 p.m. Cliff Gillis' knee is responding to treatment and he should be fit to play in one game at least. The team has been strengthened by the appearance of Eric Teford, George Kelly, and Hilson Carr at practices. In addition Jack Reardon,

Canadians To Use Plante In Goal For NHL Opener

MONTREAL, (CP)—Jacques Plante got the call Tuesday over Gerry McNeil in the announced lineup of Montreal Canadiens for Thursday's opening of the National Hockey League season. Canadians will be hosts to the Toronto Maple Leafs for the opener.

Former S. D. U. star, phoned the information that he will be travelling from Augusta, Maine if a place can be found for him to play in the Saturday game against S. D. U. Jack is waiting for his draft to the U. S. A. Army late in November and would like to stay in Charlottetown and play football until that time if he can find temporary employment.

The Club has received a much needed new football from Mr. Gordon Hughes and has been relieved of another worry.

The team is determined to give a good account of themselves in all the games they play and hope to treat spectators to some thrilling football.

Dodgers Single Out Five Heroes In Spontaneous Celebration After Game

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, (AP)— Brooklyn Dodgers cut loose today in their dressing room after winning the world series as no other baseball club has done in recent years.

There was shouting and back-pounding, cheering and smiles, hand shaking and embracing. It was spontaneous, genuine and totally unashamed.

Five heroes were singled out: Johnny Podres, the superb pitcher; Sandy Amoros, whose catch of Yogi Berra's high fly to left-field corner saved the day when he turned it into a double play; Gil Hodges, who drove in the two all-important Dodger runs; manager Walt Alton, who did what no other Brooklyn manager could do in winning baseball's biggest prize; and Duke Snider, the slugging center field star.

"That Podres—that Amoros," catcher Roy Campanella shouted. "He never shook me off on anything I called for all day except the last pitch of the game. I wanted a fast ball. He wanted a change-up."

Campanella roared with laughter. A changeup it was and Elston Howard grounded out to Reese. Commissioner Ford Frick, president Will Harridge of the American League and president Warren Giles of the National League, were on hand to offer congratulations to the whole Dodger team.

"It was a wonderful game," said Frick. "One of the finest that has ever been played in a world series. A real thriller."

That's putting it mildly. "I'm happy," said third baseman Jackie Robinson, who had to sit out the last game with a foot injury, "but above all I'm happy for all the Brooklyn fans who waited so long."

LABINE NOT NEEDED

The Dodgers' dressing room was teeming with newspaper men, photographers, radio technicians, policemen and assorted well-wishers.

"It was quite a game," said Alton in his low voice. "I'm proud of this wonderful team, and I'm happy for the Brooklyn fans all over the country."

"I don't think there was any one turning point in the game," Not even Amoros' great catch? "I couldn't even see it from our dugout," said Alton.

Alton was asked if he had any fears for Podres. "I had Clem Labine all ready in the eighth, but when he got Berra out I decided to leave Johnny in there."

"NEVER WORRIED"

Podres, who won the third game of the series to start the Dodgers towards their final victory, and was the master in this one that clinched it, was the centre of considerable adulation. "I was never worried," said the imperturbable youth. "No time through the whole game."

"I knew we were going to win this one all the time."

"I knew it yesterday. I told 'em so yesterday. Ask Pee Wee, he'll tell you."

"Man I had everything today. My fast ball was real good and that change-up wasn't bad either. They're all good when you win. My curve gave me trouble though, but it didn't matter."

"I was never worried," said the complete blame for Berra's two-base hit that fell between him and Gilliam.

"All my fault, all my fault," repeated the Duke. "I heard someone yell 'grab it' and I did. But I missed it."
