JOHNSON'S DAUGHTERS GIVE ADVICE AND CHEER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's two daughters sometimes give him advice, try to cheer him up when he is low and have learned to accept politics as a way of life.

Luci Baines, 17, and Lynda Bird, 20, reported this in television interviews Sunday.

Teen - ager Luci confessed she once despised politics but now "it's kind of a language with me . . . no longer . . . a dirty, ugly word," but added:

"Their way is not my way . . . my way of wanting to serve people . . . is through medicine."

As for giving advice to the president of the United States, she said:

"Every time I come back from a trip of any kind, he always asks me to come in and he sits down and aske me about my trip. He asks what my opinions are. I don't know if he really labels it advice, but I do give him my opinions on an area I have been to."

Lynda Bird also finds her father easy to talk to.

Speaking on the same program, taped in advance, she said: "He's always open to reason.

"If we can prove there's a good reason why we . . . should do something, he listens . . . then of course he may say no."

And when he has had a trying day "we try to be particularly nice to him," Lynda said. "We try to tell him about the funny things that happen to us to cheer him up so he feels that life isn't as hard as it may seem."

She said this works sometimes, not all the time.

Financing Of Steel Mill Seen No Problem For Que.

MONTREAL (CP)—Financing a steel mill is not going to be a serious problem for Quebec, Revenue Minister Eric Kierans said Saturday night on his return from a European visit.

He said in an interview now is the best time to start the proposed integrated steel mill because there is a growing world demand for steel.

Mr. Kierans said it is apparent there will be a good deal of competition—in France, Britain and Belgium in particular—to supply machinery and equipment for Quebec's plant.

"This is important," the revenue minister said, "because we could obtain equipment and machinery with long - term credit of eight years, or even more. This would reduce the pressure of finding 'immediate money.' "

He termed "encouraging" his talks with industrial and government officials during his eight-day overseas visit.

TALKS ON FALLS

The proposed Hamilton Falls hydro-electric project in Labrador was, he said, discussed at length in London and to a lesser degree in Paris.

"The government," Mr. Kierans said, "is seriously concerned in exploring the possibilities of developing this Canadian resource through the creation of a Crown company.

"A Crown company between Quebec and Newfoundland would mean a saving in cost to the people of Quebec and a higher return to the people of Newfoundland."

Mr. Kierans said he received queries from pulp and paper people and officials of other industries, as well as from banks and investment houses.

"Banks and investment firms sought information regarding the possibility of setting up branches here and using Quebec as a base of operations for business across Canada.

ASSURANCE SOUGHT

"They wanted assurance that Quebec province would not leave Confederation.

"They were also interested in the aspects of Quebec's economic growth: That is to say how much of it was government inspired.

"They also realize the tremendous economic upsurge in Quebec and want to know its exact nature and probable duration."

Mr. Kierans said many people he met, in France particularly, were somewhat surprised to meet an English - speaking cabinet minister from Quebec province.

He said he will prepare a complete report on his findings for presentation to Premier Lesage and the cabinet on the premier's return from his own European tour.

The case was then adjourned to Souris, where summation by counsel was heard and the case was then sent to the next sitting of the court having criminal jurisdiction, which will be the November sitting of the Supreme Court at Georgetown.

Annual Legion Cribbage Tourney Is Underway

GEORGETOWN — The annual Canadian Legion cribbage tournament, sponsored by the Georgetown Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, which proved such a drawing card last winter, got underway last week at the Legion Hall. Five teams are in competition.

The Provincial Command of the Legion has instituted new rules for this season's competition which provide for club members in addition to Legion members being qualified to take part in the tournament and to compete in the country and provincial playoffs.

Three trophies are at stake: the Branch Trophy, the Zone Trophy and the Provincial Trophy.

As the tournament progresses through the winter the branch members and club members will enjoy greater comfort and facilities, due to the work recently completed on the installation of a new automatic warm air oil furnace and also the installation of hot and cold running water and modern rest room facilities.

NINE HOMELESS

It was reported the Souris fire department was notified of the fire, and did not answer call.

A department of natural resources forestry department truck arrived from St. Peter's, 12 miles away, but was unable to do anything to combat the blaze.

MANY SEE BLAZE

An estimated crowd of 1,000 from the surrounding area witnessed the fire, with traffic lined up on both sides of the St. Peter's Highway for about three-quarters of a mile.

It was believed Mrs. Chaisson and family were taken into the home of relatives in the Rollo Bay area, following the fire.

Souris Fire Chief Leonard Carter was reported in Summerside, and was not reached for comment following the fire.

The Souris Fire Department services districts outside the town limits.

The following notice appeared in the Oct 3 issue of the Guardian: Positively no fire calls outside of the town limits will be answered by the Fire Department unless fire protection has been arranged for by the district. Signed, Genevieve Roach, Town Clerk.

NO ARRANGEMENTS

Souris Mayor Edmund Lavie when contacted, said no financial arrangement had been made for fire protection by the Rollo Bay District, as called for in the Town Council ruling on fire protection.

Mr. Lavie said Town Council voted unanimously in favor of the ruling at a recent meeting. He said one application for fire protection had been received from the Souris Line Road district, but no other districts had applied.

The mayor explained that the Souris Fire Department has all its equipment in a fire hall seven years ago, was now using old equipment. Maintenance costs and a $3 payment to each volunteer fireman were required for any call outside the town limits, said Mr. Lavie.

This had had a bearing on the Town Council ruling, he said.

FOUR DIE IN BLAZE

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—A nine-year-old boy and his three sisters aged seven, six and four were killed in a pre-dawn fire which authorities believe was started by an arsonist. The children's father and mother and another brother were burned and five firemen were injured. Later a 22 - year - old woman identified as Miss Floria Paskings was arrested on a charge of suspicion of arson.
