

Medical Men Now Accept Lung Cancer Smoking Link

It is now 10 years, the Canadian Cancer Society points out, since the "lung cancer scare" began with proof that cigarette tars could cause cancer on the backs of laboratory mice. It is not unreasonable, says a society release, for educational authorities and parents and others interested in the health and welfare of our youth to ask: "What is the situation now? Has the relationship between cigarette smoking and lung cancer been proven? If not, will it ever be proven? "Statistical evidence for this relationship," says Dr. R. M. Taylor, executive vice-president of the society, "has been building up in many parts of the world. The Canadian Medical Association is satisfied that there is a direct link between lung cancer and smoking. The National Cancer Institute of Canada has likewise accepted this relationship. Dozens of medical and health organizations throughout the world have also done so. And yet the cigarette companies can still say, with justification, 'There is not yet proof.'"

Dr. Taylor adds, that the simple cause-and-effect proof that lung cancer in human beings can be caused by smoking just cannot be obtained without setting up a laboratory experiment using human beings. "Obviously this is out of the question. Apart from the fact that we do not treat people in this fashion, there is the time factor: it would mean taking, say, 100,000 children and having half of them smoke a pack of cigarettes a day for perhaps 20 years, for the other half abstaining, after which it would be determined in which group more had died of lung cancer."

One of the big advances in human history, says Dr. Taylor, was the invention of writing. This permitted human beings to benefit by the experience of others and eliminated the necessity for each individual to learn only by his own mistakes.

"Unless we are going to turn back the clock a few thousand years, surely we can accept the truth about lung cancer without insisting on another 40 years or so of experience."

"The statistical evidence is this: the death rate due to lung cancer among men who smoke cigarettes is up to 40 times that of non-smokers; and if it were not for the rising rate of deaths from lung cancer, the overall death rate among men from all types of cancer would be falling as it is falling in women."

Dr. Taylor points out that the campaign to stop cigarette smoking among adults has not halted the constantly rising consumption of cigarettes. "In spite of this," he says, "the effort to convince students that they should never start the habit, that if they

Camp Abegweit Is Receiving Support Of Church Groups

SUMMERSIDE — Despite the recent inclement weather and off-season for camping activities, considerable interest is being shown in the joint United Church-Baptist camp at Augustine Cove.

The camp, operated by the two churches, provides Christian education, fellowship and recreation for approximately 300 children each year. Recently returned, Camp Abegweit, in a contest held among the campers, it is supported mainly by donations from various church groups, many of which have special projects in aid of the camp.

Recent contributions have been received from the Bryon Baptist Men's Association, the Kensington United Church Men's Association and the Beque United Church.

The following United Church Women's groups have also contributed recently: Summerside, Central Lot 16, Trinity Summerside, Murray Harbor, Mount Stewart and Traveller's Rest.

In addition the former Island-wide joint YPU camp planning committee turned over the sum of $43.82 to the camp. In recent years, the YPU camps have been sponsored by the Central Presbytery of the United Church.

The children's camps are planned and conducted by boys, girls and junior work committees. The camp is administered by a provincial joint management committee whose chairman is David Murphy of Parkdale.
