DROPPED ON SUGAR.

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT CURES COLDS CROUP COUGH COLIC CRAMPS

All who use it are amazed at its wonderful power and are loud in its praise ever after. For Internal as much as External Use. Originated in 1810 by an old Family Physician. Be not afraid to trust what time has endorsed.

Every Mother should have it in the house for the many common ailments which will occur in every family as long as life has woes. Dropped on sugar suffering children love it. Do not forget the very important and useful fact, that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment cures every form of inflammation, Internal or External. It is a fact, proven by the investigations of medical science, that the real danger from disease is caused by inflammation; cure the inflammation and you conquer the disease.

JOHNSON'S ANODYNE LINIMENT

Could a remedy have existed for over eighty years except for the fact that it does possess extraordinary merit for very many Family Ills? There is not a medicine in use today which has the confidence of the public to so great an extent as this wonderful Anodyne. It has stood upon its own intrinsic merit, while generation after generation have used it with entire satisfaction, and handed down to their children a knowledge of its worth, as a Universal Household Remedy, from infancy to good old age.

You may get over that slight cold all right, but it has left its mark on the membranes lining your throat. You are liable to take another cold and the second one will hang on longer than the first. Scott's Emulsion is not an ordinary cough specific, but it is "the ounce of prevention." It builds up the system, checks inflammation and heals inflamed membranes. "Slight" colds never bring serious results when it is promptly taken.

CLARKSON'S PERIL

By WALTER BRUCE

The landdrost read it carefully and then sternly said: "The president and executive have been pleased to commute Thomas Clarkson's sentence to penal servitude for life. I am sorry to say that he has proved unworthy of the kindness. He has escaped from our charge."

"Escaped!" repeated Minnie, half bewildered; "from where?"

"From the jail, of course. Where else? But he cannot have gone far and will soon be recaptured."

"When did he escape?"

"THOMAS," SHE SOFTLY, EAGERLY WHISPERED, "IS IT REALLY YOU?"

"Early this morning, so far as any one chooses to tell. He must have had help from outside. It would have been impossible for him to escape unaided. I am sick of these cases of jail breaking. Somebody must have helped him." And the landdrost looked suspiciously at Minnie.

Without replying the girl went away bewildered, almost stupefied.

Midnight found Minnie sitting in her room, wild eyed and wakeful. She had gone through a wearying and exciting day, but she was unable to rest. Her thoughts were of course with Thomas How had he contrived to escape? she wondered. Who had helped him? Where was he now? Could he get safely out of the country, or would he be recaptured and dragged ignominiously back to prison? A thousand fears tormented her.

"Minnie!" It was a low whisper borne on the midnight breeze. She started to her feet, listening intently.

Then she heard a footstep ontside the window. It was soft and stealthy, but she knew it well.

Wrapping a cloak closely round her, she softly opened the door and stepped outside. For a moment she was inclined to think that her excited imagination had played her false, but the next instant both her hands were grasped in a tight clasp.

"Thomas," she softly, eagerly whispered, "is it really you?"

"Yes, it is I."

"Oh, why did you come?" she cried in terror. "Why did you run such a terrible, terrible risk? Go! Oh, go at once!"

"I am going instantly, but I could not go until I had seen you once more. Do not tremble so, Minnie. There is no danger. No one dreams that I am still here."

"How did you escape? Who helped you?"

"A man who is almost a stranger and on whom I had not the slightest claim. He is waiting with horses in the next street now. We shall travel through the night, and in the morning he will conceal me in the house of a friend. Tomorrow night we shall go on again. He has provided me with a disguise and given me money. He planned it all."

"Who is he?"

"He is—but, no, I will not tell you. You may be questioned, and what you do not know you cannot tell."

"Where will you go, Thomas? But perhaps you had better not tell me that, for I may be questioned."

"I could not tell you if I would, my darling, for I do not know. I am a coward to run away, Minnie, but I could not face death on the scaffold."

Minnie shuddered.

"Thank God, you are free, Thomas, from that danger! They could not have taken your life, for the president has ordered a commutation of your sentence."

"The president! At whose instigation—who asked him to"——

"I did."

"You, Minnie? Heaven bless you, my brave darling! But now I must go."

"Yes, go. There is danger in every moment that you linger here. Goodby, Thomas."

"Goodby! May heaven bless you and keep you, my darling." And with a loving embrace they separated.

Would they ever meet again on this earth? It seemed very improbable.

Clarkson went out into a dark night and into a darker future. Minnie was left alone—alone in great misery.

* * * * * *

The blazing sun of a December noon cast its fierce rays on the "dry" diamond diggings at Hebron, on the broad, sluggish Vaal; on the rough red and brown kopjes, with their glaring gravel heaps, and on the square, shallow claims where the digger gazed eagerly over his sieves. In a claim at the bottom of the Natal kopje was a young man. He was not sorting or digging, nor in fact doing work of any kind. He was sitting idly on a huge rock, his elbows on the edge of his gravitating tub, his chin resting on his hands. Do you know him? Do you recognize the tall, slight figure, the worn anxious face, the weary, sad eyes with such a weird, dark, faraway look in them? You have met him before. Once wandering through the streets of Johannesburg—hungry, friendless, penniless. Once again you saw him in the crowded courthouse and heard him sentenced to death. You heard him, too, reader, in the midnight darkness, bidding to his betrothed what seemed to be a tender, final farewell. You know him, for he is Thomas Clarkson.

It is a year and a half since all that happened, and he has been at the Hebron diggings ever since. Christmas eve is at hand, and he is thinking of the past with a dull, aching pain at his heart—a pain not now sharp and madding as it used to be at first, for the shame and hopelessness have become familiar to him. He is accustomed to them, and they have grown to be part of himself. A lonely, dreary life he has lived at Hebron—an existence bereft of every joy, hope and cheering prospect. He had worked on from day to day, not in the hope of finding a fortune, for of what use was money to him now? He was disgraced. His name was a scorn and a byword to those who had been proud to know him in former days. It was well he did not wish for wealth, for, like the other diggers, he found but few stones, and those not of great value. He had often worked for months and only found what was barely sufficient to pay for his coarse food and the rough clothes he wore.

A week before, however, greatly to his surprise, he had found in his baby sieve a large and beautiful diamond. It was a brilliant of the first water—a stone which would have meant a fortune to any other digger. But to him it was useless. He could not sell it, for reports of its beauty and value would be sure to be spread, and the finder would become a person of consequence and concern. He dared not risk being thus talked about. So he put it away and tried to forget it.

Strange and stern necessity! But in human life there is no contending with necessity, and we should be very tender how we censure those who submit to it. It is one thing to be at liberty to do what we will and another to be tied up to do what we must.

And tomorrow would be Christmas day. Alas, what had he to do with Christmas and its associations? He had written once to Minnie and to his mother, telling them that he was well and safe, but giving them no hint as to his whereabouts.

Was Minnie thinking of him that day he wondered. Was his mother praying for her ruined son as she did in the old days?

Clarkson left his claim and walked away to his little, lonely, dusty tent, and throwing himself down on a heap of rags and sheepskins that served him for a bed he covered his eyes with his hands, as if to shut out the memory of those faces that so often haunted his waking hours and his sleeping dreams. He gave way to a mighty grief.

Who cannot be brave when fighting with a host? Who cannot march to battle with drums beating and banners flying? But what of the man or woman who has to fight the small battle unencouraged, unprotected and alone? Who, as the struggle goes on through the long watches of the weary night and the heat of the burning day, can fight bravely and consistently with scant prospect of victory and small hope of reward?

God help all such.

LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Linseed and Turpentine is not only a popular remedy, but the best known to medical science for the treatment of nervous membranes of respiratory organs.

DR. CHASE compounded this valuable syrup so as to take away the unpleasant taste of the turpentine and linseed. It was the Doctor's last and greatest remedy, and more of it is sold in Canada than all other cough medicines combined.

A Banker's Experience

HEREAFTER HE INTENDS TO .... BE HIS OWN FAMILY DOCTOR

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Dewson, of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne avenue, Toronto. "It proved effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

The leading steamship companies are asking the Government to pay half the cost of fitting up vessels for cold storage. The total payment would amount to $150,000

Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively cure all forms of Piles. Write any of the above if in doubt.

Degan wood is supported from South America and is used in making light trout and bass rods. It is much like lancewood, but lighter in weight, and is sold generally by the rod and tackle men.

The Life of Dr. Chase.

As a compiler of Chase's Recipe Book his name is familiar in every household in the land, while as a physician his works on simple formulas left an imprint of his name that will be handed down from generation to generation. His last great medicine, in the form of his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, is having the large public patronage that his Ointment, Pills and Catarrh Cure are having. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is especially adapted for all Bronchial and Asthmatic troubles.

Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Olney signed the convention for the definition by commission of the Alaskan boundary line.

I, Burton Morris, of the City of Toronto, in the County of York, do solemnly declare that (1) I am shipper for the firm of Edmanson, Bates & Co., proprietors of Dr. Chase's family medicines, and am familiar with the quantity of goods sold and shipped by said firm. (2) During the months of September and October respectively there were sold in the Dominion of Canada 6,576 and 11,689 bottles of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing it to be true, and knowing that it is of the same force and effect as if made under oath and by virtue of "The Canada Evidence Act, 1893."

(Signed) BURTON MORRIS.

Declared before me at the City of Toronto, in the County of York, this 2nd day of November, 1895. J. H. DENTON, a Commissioner, etc.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY:

ASTHMA FOR YEARS.

"I have suffered very severely from asthma for over twenty-five years," says R. G. Moore, of Hamilton. "If I ventured away from home the change of air would bring on such bad attacks that I was afraid I would suffocate at times. A short time ago I found it necessary to go to Paris, Ontario, on business. On the way my old enemy attacked me with great severity. As soon as I got to Paris I went to Armitage's drug store and bought a bottle. It relieved my Asthma, and although I have been away from home several times since, I experienced no more trouble. I regard my quarter as well spent, and intend to send some more after it."

A PREVENTATIVE OF COLDS.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from severe colds for a long time," says Miss Hattie Delaney, of 174 Crawford street, Toronto. "Usually at this season of the year I did not know what it was to be free from them. Nothing did me much good until I got a bottle of Chase's Linseed and Turpentine. It not only cured my cold, but I have not had another since. I ascribe the credit wholly to Dr. Chase."

A BANKER'S EXPERIENCE.

"I tried a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for a troublesome affection of the throat," writes Manager Thomas Dewson, of the Standard Bank, now of 14 Melbourne avenue, Toronto. "It proved very effective. I regard the remedy as simple, cheap and exceedingly good. It has hitherto been my habit to consult a physician in troubles of this nature. Hereafter, however, I intend to be my own family doctor."

A CROUPY COUGH.

"My little boy had a bad croupy cough," says Mrs. Smith, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "My neighbor, Mrs. Hopkins, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. I did so, and the first dose did him good. One bottle completely cured the cold. It is surprising the popularity of Chase's Syrup. It appears to me it can now be found in every house."

PROVED MOST EFFECTIVE.

"I used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for severe throat trouble," writes Mrs. Hopkins, of 256 Bathurst street, Toronto. "It proved most effective. I regard it as one of the best household remedies there is. It is easy and pleasant to take and drives out the cold with surprising celerity."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine soothes and heals the affected parts, relieves the over-charged membrane, relieves congestion of the air passages; arrests the progress of fever and inflammation. It is prepared from the finest demulcents and expectorants from the prescriptions of Dr. Chase, and is specially effective in Croup.

Throat Trial.

"What makes Jones look so glum today? Has he been unfortunate in his wheat speculations? Have mining stocks taken a drop? Has someone failed who owed him $100,000? Has his corporation lost that last big case in court?"

"No; none of these," said Mrs. Jones sweetly. "Worse."

"Worse? Ah, he has lost some dear friend—some——"

"No; Thomas, the coachman, is ill, and the poor, dear hubby had to build the fire in the furnace. He feels so amiable that I told him not to come home at noon but to take lunch at the club."

INJURY AND NEGLECT.

He Failed in Health and Strength—His Kidneys Ached and he took Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Desoronto, Feb. 8 (special).—Among business people here, and especially by his fellow workmen, great interest has been taken in the case of Mr. James Stokes, who for the past fifteen years has been shipper for the Rathburn Company.

Lately he had run down in health and strength to the point of being compelled to quit work, and his recovery now as the result of using Dodd's Kidney Pills is the talk of the town. On seeing Mr. Stokes he said:

"From over-lifting and strain I suffered greatly from kidney trouble, being advised, after all else had failed, to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first dose I got relief, and hundreds of people here can vouch for my cure."

MESSAGE TO MEN.

Proving that True Honesty and True Philanthropy Still Exist.

If any man who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, Loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness.

I have nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. CARD OF THANKS.

For the many favors received from my numerous friends and customers during the year 1896, and would wish them a happy and Prosperous New Year, and that they may all continue to buy and drink the celebrated Special Blend of Empire Tea. that I sell. Also as many more, invited to participate in the pleasures of drinking Empire Blend during 1897,

T. J. MORRIS, Grocer and Crockery Man
