TRAFFIC HEAVY AT NORTH CAPE

Hundreds of people visited North Cape yesterday to see the airborne seal hunters in action. The scene took on the appearance of a country fair as man, women and children crowded around each plane as soon as it taxied up to the unloading zone in front of North Cape lighthouse. Robert MacIlwaine's super cub is shown being refuelled with aviation gasoline brought in by truck from Charlottetown. Traffic caused deep ruts in the clay road and several vehicles were stuck last night at Sea Cow Pond. A pile of approximately 100 seal pelts are seen in the foreground.

Forecast And Actual Surplus Explained By Mr. McQuaid

The budgetary surplus of $70,591, forecast for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1961, was based on actual expenditures and revenues for a nine-month period and estimated expenditures and revenues for a three-month period and when revenues and expenditures were totalled at the end of the fiscal year, the estimated surplus was reduced to $28,061, Provincial Treasurer Melvin McQuaid said in the Legislature yesterday.

Rising on a question of privilege, he was commenting on an editorial in yesterday's issue of The Guardian which suggested he should explain how the difference in estimated surplus and actual surplus came about.

"The $42,530 was not lost in any shuffle as suggested in the editorial," he said. "As revenue and expenditure figures for the last three months of the fiscal year, as given in the House last year, were estimates and they could be out. That is what happened. In February and March of 1961 we had an unprecedented snowfall which cut into expenditures and there was also an increase in expected revenue for the estimated three-month period. When the final figures were made up for the year, we had a surplus lower than was forecast—it was a matter of underestimating revenue and expenditure.

Also rising to make corrections in press reports were Harold Smith (L-4th Queens) and George MacKay (L-4th Prince). Mr. Smith said he had been misquoted when it was reported that he had said that in cases where an allowance is being paid to those taking agricultural short courses, they should be required to pass an examination. "I actually said," he pointed out, "that I felt course prospects should be required to pass a proficiency test as I noted in a report of agricultural fieldmen that they felt some persons were attending the courses just for a good time."

Mr. MacKay pointed out that he had been quoted as saying that the population of 1st Prince and 2nd Prince, which is 17,000, as equal to the population of all Prince County. "I said the population of these two districts was equal to the population of Kings County."

$850 Damage In Collision

SUMMERSIDE — Damage estimated at approximately $850 resulted from a collision early last evening between two cars on Water Street in Summerside.

Mrs. Hanson Oliver, of Summerside, was reportedly turning off Spring Street, on to the main street, in a Volkswagen, while Everett Wood, also of Summerside, was driving a 1954 Monarch on Water Street, when the accident occurred.

Although neither driver was hospitalized, Mrs. Oliver was banged severely on the left arm, shoulder and will be taking x-rays to determine whether the injury is serious.

The Volkswagen suffered extensive damage, especially to the left side, while the Monarch's damage, mostly to the front, was estimated at about $150. Both cars were towed from the scene.

Cnst. Gordon Grady of the Summerside town police, conducted the investigation.

IMPROVEMENT

of the program will depend on the co-operation the minister gets from the potato growers. Those growers whose crops are free from disease should keep it that way and the growers who are affected should make every effort to stamp it out. It all boils down to the grower honestly and conscientiously trying to eliminate the disease."

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Mentioning the vocational school under construction in Summerside and the fact that one is proposed for the Charlottetown area, Mr. Curran suggested the Montague be given serious consideration as a site for a vocational school to serve Kings County. "Geographically, Montague would be the ideal site," he said.

Turning again to potatoes, Mr Curran said that the price has not been favorable to growers and this could be partly blamed on growers who are over-producing. "The price depends on the law of supply and demand," he said.

Mr. Curran stressed the need for higher quality in beef produced in the province. "The standard is still too low," he said, "and I see no reason why it cannot be improved."

Found Guilty, Driver Fined

Wallace had pleaded not guilty to the charge but was convicted after the evidence of four Crown witnesses and three defence witnesses were heard.

The charge arose out of a collision in Alberton, Feb. 17, between a car alleged to have been driven by the accused and a car driven by Cnst. Peter Borys, of the Alberton detachment of the RCMP. The RCMP car had been parked at the time of the collision.

Evidence was also given that the accused's car had collided with another car driven by Franklin P. Doyle, Glengarry, before it struck the constable's car.

Assault Case Is Heard

The complainants are two Summerside school teachers Miss Marina Deighan and Miss Myra Murphy. Another teacher, Miss Florence Hughes was a crown witness.

The charges resulted from an incident at Civic Stadium on February 27 during a school skate for the pupils of Elm street school.

A grade 3 pupil, Darryl Desroches, a brother of the defendant, was chastised for his actions by Miss Hughes and she allegedly slapped him after he called her an obscene name. Second Reading Given Bills In Legislature Yesterday

Second reading, or approvement in principals, was given to an amendment to the Coroners Act in the Legislature yesterday which gives the attorney-general power to authorize a coroner to carry on an inquest, or other proceeding, if, through death, illness or any other reason, the original coroner is unable to continue proceedings.

The attorney-general may authorize the second coroner to take up proceedings where the original coroner left off and to carry on proceedings in the same manner as if the newly-designated coroner had been acting in the first instance.

"I don't think," said Opposition Leader Alex Matheson, "that a coroner should start part way through proceedings."

"That's a dangerous thing," said S.S. Hessian (L-5th Kings-"it may be setting a bad precedent."

The promoter of the bill, Attorney-General Melvin McQuaid said he could see no objection to the amendment.

Second reading was given to a bill to amend the Intrepretation Act. The amendment, Mr. McQuaid explained, has to be passed each year to "import into provincial legislation Part 24 of the Criminal Code of Canada" which covers summary conviction proceedings.

A bill amending the Jury Act also got second reading. This amendment provides that if no grand jury or petit jury is summoned to attend any sessions of the Court, then at the next session of the Court, jurors can be drawn from the same list.

Also given second reading was a bill titled An Act to Temporarily Suspend the Operation of Certain Statutes and Parts of Statutes.

This amendment called for the suspension for five years of legislation relative to income tax, corporation tax and succession duties, which will not be used during the life of the federal-provincial agreement, passed at the special session of the legislature last December, in which power is given the province to enter these tax fields.

The damage, which is reported to have included considerable destruction to the main light, was discovered by some boys from Summerside who had taken a jaunt across the harbor ice to the lighthouse.

The RCMP detachment at Borden is in charge of the investigation.

2 Defence Witnesses Heard In Assault Case

The testimony of two defence witnesses completed the case for John Kane, Charlottetown, charged with common assault before Magistrate A.J. Haslam in city police court yesterday.

Following argument by counsel, P.A. Large, QC, for the compilainant, Herbert Stanley, and Allison M. Gillis for the defence, the magistrate adjourned the hearing until March 13 for consideration.

Kane is charged with assaulting Douglas Stanley, 12-year-old son of Herbert Stanley, by striking him with a hockey stick during a hockey game at the Sports Arena on Feb. 13.

REFEREE TESTIFIES

The first witness yesterday was Donald Whalen, a referee who handled the game. He stated that on the night of the incident Kane, in the last few minutes of play, was in the process of receiving the puck, passed by a teammate, when he was grabbed from behind by a spectator, in the vicinity of the Penguins players box.

When grabbed, Kane was thrown off balance and fell to the ice; and on getting back to his feet, swung his hockey stick toward the boards, striking them.

Whalen stated that, as an official of the game, he had had trouble with the spectators in that location of the rink earlier in the game, to the extent that he found it necessary to lodge a complaint with the police patrolling the arena.

The witness stated that at the time of the stick-swinging he had a good view of the area and saw nobody get hit by the stick.

Cross-examined by Mr. Large, the witness said that he had seen Kane swing his fist toward the spectators after he had swung his stick. He was immediately restrained by referee Jack Ready and received a match penalty.

HEARD BOY YELL

In reply to a question by Mr. Gillis, on re-direct, Whalen said that a number of fans were milling about the spot where the boy was lying on the floor, and during this time he heard the boy howl or yell.

Delbert Roach, Charlottetown, testified of seeing a spectator among a group of three reach over the boards and grab Kane as the latter was skating along the boards to pick up the puck.

He said he saw Kane swing the hockey stick and saw it strike the boards, he estimated that at the time Kane was standing four or five feet out on the ice. Roach also stated that he saw nobody get hit by the swinging stick.

Pleading not guilty to having care and control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated, Maurice Clark, Summerside, in its place entered a plea of guilty to the lesser count of care and control while his abilities were impaired by alcohol.

FINED $125

This plea being accepted by the prosecution, Chief of Police C.W. MacArthur, the magistrate imposed a fine of $125 and costs or 30 days in jail. Counsel for the defence was Mr. Gillis.

Convicted of being drunk and disorderly, resisting arrest, Maurice Williams, Charlottetown, was sentenced to 20 days in Queens County jail.

Of five drunk and incapables, two were each fined $20 and costs or 10 days in jail, and two others $5 and costs or two days. The fifth accused was sentenced to 10 days in jail.
