St. Julien Day

VEN ARCHDEACON CODY'S MESSIAH ST. GEORGE'S ZEBRUGGE, AND ST. JULIEN DAY.

(April 23rd, 1922.)

The following is taken in part from the report appearing in the Mail and Empire, Toronto, April 24th, 1922: "Very eloquent was the tribute paid to the memory of the seamen of the Empire at the special memorial service held to commemorate the anniversary of Zebraugge Day in St. Paul's Church, Toronto on Sunday, April 23, under the auspices of the Ontario Division of the Navy League of Canada. People from all over the city and from all stations of life crowded the edifice to attend the services, and a distinct naval touch was given to the massive surroundings of grey stone walls, when the members of the Royal Naval Brigade marched in and set their drums in the centre of the chancel. Over these and as if on guard stood the ensign of the Brigade.

"The service, which was conducted by Dr. Cody, sounded a deeper note than that of a memorial service alone. It was a service of thanksgiving to the gallant sailors and soldiers of the Empire who, throughout past ages, fought and died so that British institutions and British ideals should survive and spread throughout the world; but throughout it all was heard the murmur of the sea, for Dr. Cody recalled, it was the invincible seamen of the British Isles who laid the foundations of the Empire, and who were its bulwarks in times of peril.

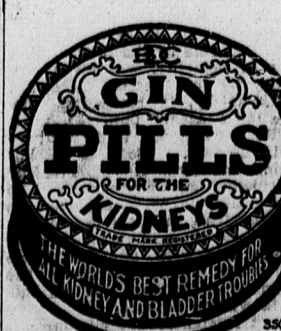

Have Fine Traditions.

"This world-scattered Empire of ours grew up on the sea of the earth," said Dr. Cody. "British sailors and British pioneers went upon perilous voyages to every continent. By virtue of Britain's ships and seamen they settled the Empire and built up the mighty lands of today. The sea links together, not separates, the British dominions of the world over. This day, St. George's Day, Zebraugge Day, St. Julien's Day, pre-eminently commemorates a naval event which has shaped the map of the world. It marks the valiant dash to the Zebraugge submarine base, the stronger German fortification of its kind in the world.

"We do well to honor this day, Zebraugge Day, in Canada. We must ever remember our debt to the British Navy. It is a debt that the world owes at large. Let us remember that the navy has always been the arm of freedom. Whenever a tyrant rose in the past, it was the British Navy which saved the day. Drake and his gallant men saved the world from the domination of Spain; it was the British sailor who defeated the insatiable ambition of Louis the Fourteenth; it was the immortal Nelson who brought the splendor of the British Empire, to naught by his victory at Trafalgar; and when the pale shade of the Kaiser coveted the empire of the world and the command of the seas in 1914, it was the British Navy which brought defeat and ruin upon him.

SIGNALLY HONORED—Rev. A. F. Bate, rector of Fredericton, was elected Thursday afternoon a Governor of King's College, Windsor, N. S., to represent Fredericton rural deanery on the Governing board. He is a son-in-law of Judge Warburton of Charlottetown.

LINEN SHOWER—Miss Helen McLaren, who will be married on Monday to Dr. Notting was tendered a linen shower by her friends at "The Bird Cabin," Southport, Friday evening. She was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. After the shower a most enjoyable social time followed, the bride-to-be being also showered with hearty congratulations.

A WORTHY CAUSE—An open air concert of more than ordinary local interest and for a purpose which did credit to the hearts of those who originated it, namely, to extend relief to the suffering children of Russia, was held on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Reardon, Prince Street, on Saturday afternoon. Under a nicely arranged and artistic canopy a programme was carried out which would have done credit to older and more experienced performers. The leading spirits in the laudable undertaking were the Misses Constance Leahy and Marjorie Holman, aged, respectively, eleven and eight years. The programme consisted of solos, recitations, duets and choruses taken part in by the following: Constance Leahy and Marjorie Holman, above named, the Misses Constance Colwill, age 3; Freda Colwill, age 5; May Leahy, age 5; Masters Arthur Reardon, age 12; Earl Reardon, age 12; Louis McMillan, age 12; Gerard Leahy, age 8. A Scotch dance by Miss Constance Leahy and the National Anthem by the whole company brought to a close an entertainment which was thoroughly enjoyed by the fairly large audience of neighbors and friends of the little performers. The proceeds from the sale of tickets at the modest price of five cents, netted the sum of $7.00 which will be handed today to the Secretary Treasurer of the Save the Children Fund as a message of love and sympathy from this little group of more fortunate children in Charlottetown.

PERSONALS Mr. and Mrs. Keith Boswell returned on Thursday from a trip to Moncton. While there Mr. Boswell attended a meeting of the Maritime Farmers Association of which he is a director. Miss Marion Andrews returned to her home in Bradabane Thursday night from Sackville, N. B., after attending the convention which was in session there. Harry Osborne returned last evening from his studies at St. Dunstan's University, which closed for the season on Wednesday—St. John Telegraph.

Upon them and their efforts. They truly are the carriers of the British nation. It is well that the Navy League continues its work in these days of peace; its work is never ending. Its duty is to take care of the dependents of sailors who are in discharge of their duties to you and to me; part of its work is to train Canadian boys to man the ships of Canada's merchant marine, so that Canada's ships can carry Canada's goods to the utmost parts of the world; another Navy League privilege is to promote a national sea-conscious spirit, to keep alive our glorious traditions, and to bring every man and woman to realize that the British navy is the greatest engine for peace that the world has yet known.

Today is also the anniversary of something greater even than St. Julien Day or Zebraugge Day. It commemorates the birth and death of the martyred St. George. He was the saint who died for his convictions. There is a legend attached to his name, that he was slain and slew the dragon. This legend is true of the British people. Down through the ages they have been slaying the dragon of tyranny, of slavery and of autocracy, and will, I trust, continue to do so throughout the ages to come.

The Archdeacon closed by quoting Lord (Jacky) Fisher's prayer: "In personal life and in national life, O Lord in These have I trusted; let me never be put to confusion."

MRS. PATRICK BROTHY The death has recently occurred in the Boston City Hospital of Katie, beloved wife of Patrick Brothy, after a short illness. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. James Greenan, Newton, P. E. I., and for a number of years was a resident of Hyde Park. Only last summer Mrs. Brothy and husband spent several weeks on the island visiting her old home in Newton, looking the picture of health. She leaves to mourn a sorrowing husband, her father and step mother, three sisters and one brother. Her funeral was held Thursday morning, May 11th from her late residence, 11th Street, at the Mass in the Church of the Most Precious Blood at 9 o'clock, interment in Fairview Cemetery. May her soul rest in peace.

AUSTIN SHEEHAN Austin Sheehan, son of the late John Sheehan, Kensington, died in Vancouver, B.C., sometime ago, and interment took place there. Mr. Sheehan was a member of a family of eight children, and was born near Kensington in 1884. He, early in life, realized that opportunities awaited young men of courage and enterprise, so he decreed that he would venture forth and seek fortune in the far west. Hence, in 1907, he crossed the continent to the Pacific Coast, and immediately initiated enterprising that was effectively productive. By skilful labor and rational habits he turned labor to beneficial ends, and thus was gratified to see his practical endeavors attended with his desirable results. He was held in high esteem by all who had the advantage of his acquaintance, and this adequate recognition was the natural effect of his plentitudinal acts. Now, that he has been called to a higher and holier life we will cherish his memory with fond recollection.

The surviving members of his family are Mrs. John L. Chaisson, Cambridge, Mass., Mrs. Chas. Kehoe, New Glasgow, N. S., Mrs. Arnold Rose, Worcester, Mass.; James Sheehan, St. John, N. B.; George Sheehan, Winnipeg; Eugene Sheehan, New Glasgow, N. S.; Alan Sheehan, Cambridge, Mass.; and Laurence Sheehan in the home at Cambridge.

MR. JAMES COSTELLO [With universal regret the residents of Green Bay learned of the death of an old and respected member of their community, Mr. James Costello, which occurred on the 12th, inst. in his 76th year. Being in feeble health for some time and although no hope was entertained for his recovery, still with feelings of sorrow, for in his passing away almost the last landmark was removed from their midst. During his long life he enjoyed the good will and friendship of his neighbors by his upright character and open opposition to everything that savored of wrong doing. A practical member of the Catholic Church his last days were consoling by the devout reception of his sacraments. A large funeral cortege conveyed his remains to St. Ann's Church where requiem mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Curran and when the final absolutions were given interment took place in St. Ann's Cemetery.

He leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow, five sons and five daughters, four sons, James, Michael, Charlottetown P.E.I., Wm. E. Green Bay, P.E.I.; Mrs. Frederick Halloran, Mrs. Frank J. Following were the pall bearers John McCloskey, Michael Malons, John McArthur John Curley, Ed. Ward Carragher and Daniel Malone. May his soul rest in peace.

MRS. JOHN E. CAMPBELL The Angel of Death visited the home of Mr. John E. Campbell, Sea View, the morning of May 21st and removed from its midst, a loving wife and mother, Mrs. John E. Campbell, at the early age of 28 years. The deceased was formerly Miss Laura M. Bernard, Park Corner, and had been in failing health the past year. The last four months she suffered intensely, but bore with true Christian patience and grace. All that loving hearts and hands could do, was done to restore her to health, but God saw fit to call the loved one home. During the final months of her life, her Mother, Mrs. Kier Bernard, waited on her with loving care and solicitude. The deceased was greatly loved and respected by all from her childhood, as she was so kind and willing to help every one. The funeral, which was very largely attended was conducted at her late residence by her pastor, Rev. Mr. Miller Clifton, assisted by Rev. Mr. Murchison, Malpeque. Mr. Murchison also sang, very feelingly, the hymn, "Over There," a great favorite of the deceased. The floral tributes were very beautiful, consisting of a pillow from Husband, Father, Mother and Sister; a pillow from Sea View in

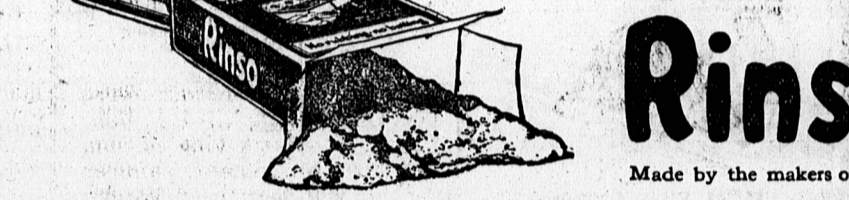

Don't Rub—Just Soak Your Clothes Clean

RINSO is fine granules of soap essence, scientifically and completely different from ordinary soap, flakes or washing powder, should be used differently too—for instance, to get the best results do not pour the Rinsol granules into the tub from the package.

Make the wonderful Rinsol liquid first—take half a package of Rinsol for each tub of clothes—stir it into a cream in a little cold water, add two quarts of boiling water, stir vigorously and pour into the tub of cool or lukewarm water.

Put your clothes to soak for one hour, two hours, overnight, or as long as convenient in this rich Rinsol suds, then just rinse thoroughly and the dirt runs away. Your clothes are ready for the line—snowy-white, clean and fresh.

If You Use a Washing Machine—follow the regular directions on the Rinsol package and soak the clothes. Then before operating the machine, add fresh Rinsol solution and proceed. No other preparation is needed when Rinsol is used.

Church. The pallbearers were, Edward Pendergast, John Dougherty, James Gorman, David Cole, James Braham and John Murphy. Spiritual bouquets were presented by Miss Agnes Leitch, Bella McLehlan, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Durant, and Nina L. McCobrey. Mr. Dunphy was a man whose life was a continual succession of industrial achievements, never suffering an idle hour to attend him when day lay ahead. He filled each day with effective labor, and had the satisfaction to know that he had amplified the opportunity with performance of duty. He attended conscientiously to the duties of religion and in the closing days of life was given the grace to receive all the spiritual strength and saving grace that the last sacraments of the Catholic Church impart. He retained consciousness to the end and entered the presence of God with the contrition that true religion imparts. His familiar figure will be keenly missed and his memory will be ever cherished by his many friends.

THE LATE THOMAS DUNPHY. Thomas Dunphy died at his home in Kensington on April 19, after an illness of two weeks. He had been enjoying his usual good health previous to his illness, but shortly before death he contracted pneumonia which terminated with fatal results. He was widely respected, and his death removes from the practical activities of life one who has been long a conspicuous figure among his many friends. In his final illness he was consoled and comforted by the sustaining graces that are imparted in the last sacraments of the Holy Catholic Church, which were administered to him by the pastor, Mr. D. J. Gillis. Mr. Dunphy was born on Oct. 10, 1843, and was married to Gertrude Murphy, daughter of the later Patrick Murphy, of Kensington, on January 26, 1881. To mourn he leaves a sorrowing widow, four sons and three daughters, videlicet, William, Robert, Holly and Thomas; Lottie, Flossie, all of whom were present at his bedside, when he expired. The member of the paternal family surviving is Mrs. Edward Murphy, Kensington. The services at the church and at the grave were performed by the pastor, Rev. Mr. D. J. Gillis, who also had comforted and strengthened him in his last illness, and administered to him the strengthening and comforting sacraments of the Holy Catholic Church.

RAY S. WEEKS Seldom has death caused such profound sorrow and genuine sympathy as when the Angel of Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Weeks of Fredericton, and removed from their happy family circle their dearly loved son Ray, after only a brief illness of six weeks, at the early age of 18 years. Everything that was possible to do was done to retain him but in spite of all medical skill and tender nursing he passed away. God had called and the command of the Divine Master to come up higher was too clear, and insistent for human efforts to combat and on the morning of April 25th while his loved ones watched by his side, alternately hoping and fearing, as at times he seemed to rally, his pure spirit left the gentle breeze, and returned to the God who gave it. Ray endeavored himself to all that knew him, his many qualities and his cheerful disposition, but it is in the home that he will be missed most. His loved ones will yearn for his companionship in the family circle, but trusting in divine goodness, and believing that he is free from the sorrow and pain which attend this mortal life, he is happy in His Master's service enjoying eternal peace in the beautiful land of someone where sorrow is never known and where love and harmony reign forever.

He leaves to mourn besides his parents four brothers and one sister, Hedy S. Charlottetown; Herbert, Walter, and Chester at home and Mrs. Louis Roper of East R. ally, who will ever cherish the memory of a faithful son and kind and loving brother. This was the largest and most some times many coming from great distances over roads almost impassable to pay a last tribute of respect to one loved so well. His pastor Rev. M. Ayers, assisted by Mr. C. C. Rand of Charlottetown, officiated at the home at the grave, also the Sons of Temperance of which Ray was a true and faithful member, marched in the most creditable formation to the funeral services. The pallbearers were cousins of his own who tenderly and reverently laid the mortal remains of dear Ray S. Weeks in its last resting place in the beautiful cemetery. We feel sure that the heartfelt sympathy everyone will go out to the bereaved family on this time of extreme sorrow, but as we look upon the peaceful form for just last time, and realizing that he is no more, we can only wish that him all earthly troubles were over and believing that he is now enjoying the infinite bliss of eternal bliss none could wish his back.
