The New York Herald, which is good authority in this matter, thus speaks of the feelings which actuate the President and his Cabinet:

Of the policy of the administration with regard to the Canadas, and the neighbouring colonies, we have very little reason to be distrustful. On the contrary, we have every reason to believe that General Pierce has marked out as his line of action the most liberal programme of neighbourly reciprocity. If we are not widely mistaken, he will prove himself to be fully up to the free trade tendencies of these times, and by no means inflexibly opposed to the permanent settlement of the fishery question upon the broadest free trade basis with the colonies. And here, while our space permit, we might proceed to some statistics and arguments in support of this policy. Suffice it for the present, to say that a judicious schedule of enlarged reciprocity with free ports in the British provinces would instantly throw an immense amount of additional traffic upon our railroads and canals; and that if particular interests were to suffer from the cheapening of breadstuffs, beef, mutton, lumber, and other articles of home consumption, the masses of the community would be correspondingly benefited from the increase of these supplies. And it is in this light of the largest benefits to the greatest number, that we believe the subject is regarded by, and will be treated under the auspices of Gen. Pierce.

How the fishery question proper now stands exactly, we are not prepared to say. We presume it remains where Mr. Webster left it—the temporary negotiations of Mr. Everett on the the subject having been dropped by the Senate. At all events, there is a sufficient margin for a broad and comprehensive treaty, embracing the fisheries and reciprocal free trade; and from all that has been ascertained we have no reason to fear that Gen. Pierce is in this matter behind the spirit of the age. We have an abiding hope that his settlement of this business will be a feather in the cap of his administration.

WITHDRAWAL OF THE TROOPS.—A Despatch dated April 22nd 1853 has been published intimating that the Major General Commanding in Nova Scotia, is instructed to withdraw the troops from this Province after the setting in of Winter, as stated in our paper of Saturday last.

We make the following extract from the Despatch, which may be interesting to our readers:

"If the Colony were threatened with the danger of aggression, Her Majesty's Government would not be slow in affording every assistance for its protection; but no such danger is at present apprehended, and that it is not right to relieve the Legislature of Prince Edward Island from the duty and the charge of maintaining a force, consisting of Police, Militia, or enrolled Pensioners,—of sufficient amount to preserve the internal peace of the Colony."

"We are now withdrawing garrisons of both Canada and Nova Scotia; but some troops must be left there for the occupation of important Military Works, or for other purposes which are purely military. In Prince Edward Island, there are no works which require to be occupied for military purposes, or which might not equally well be occupied by a Militia Force; and it would be unjust for which a military force can be at all necessary, excepting that of preserving the peace.

"I have now to remind you again, that you have not replied to the question which was proposed to you by my predecessor, in his despatch of the 2d of July last, as to the period when it would be perfectly convenient to your Government that arrangements should be made for with-drawing the troops, thereby inviting you, of course, to consider the propriety of making arrangements for raising a Force, either by Police, Militia, or enrolled Pensioners, as soon as may be practicable.

"I have held out some expectations that it might be practicable to send out a company of Pensioners, or at least as many men as, with those in the Colony, might form a company; but the realization of that expectation must be conditional upon the facility of obtaining lands for the men, as well as upon the Colony being prepared to find labour for them for some months after their arrival, and also of erecting cottages for their habitation, and open parks for those days on which their services may be required under arms."

PRESENTATION OF PLATE TO FRANCIS M'GILL, ESQ. OF MANCHESTER.

In a Dumfries Paper, received by last Mail, we have observed the following tribute of respect, paid to Francis M'Gill, Esq., of Manchester, on his retirement from business. This gentleman is a brother of John M'Gill Esq. of this town.

On Friday last, about 30 gentlemen met at "The Waggon and Horses," Thomas'e Street, Manchester, for the purpose of testifying to the above named gentleman their high appreciation of his character, and of presenting to him a service of plate, on the occasion of his retiring from business in that city. The plate was furnished by Messrs Thomas and John Ollivant, Exchange Street—value, two hundred and twenty guineas; and consisted of a very handsome tea and coffee service, complete, of oriental design; together with a gold chased and jewelled silver gilt enamelled cameo brooch, representing Hebe feeding the bird of love, for Mrs M'Gill. The presentation also included as elegantly bound Polyglot Bible for each of Mr. M'Gill's four daughters, each of which was also contained the following inscription:—"Presented with a silver coffee and tea service, and a gold dejaire watch, to Francis M'Gill, Esq., on his retirement from business in this city, by a few sincere friends, to mark their high sense of his upright, honourable, and exemplary character, during a long residence among them. Manchester, 1852."

Thos. Anderson, Esq., having been called to the chair, the company sat down to an excellent dinner about 6 o'clock. The Chairman had on his right the guest of the evening, Mr. M'Gill, and was supported by Messrs W. Clarke, Cunningham, Thorburn, Charlesworth, M'Kerrow, &c. The vice chair was ably filled by Mr. M'Cutcheon, supported by Messrs. Dobson, Oake, John Anderson, &c.

The Chairman, after adverting to several letters of apology received from absent contributors, proceeded to give the toast of the evening, the health of Mr. M'Gill. Sir, a pleasing duty devolves upon me this evening; I allude to the presence of the gentleman that surround this festive board, and other contributors who are not present on this joyous occasion, to beg your acceptance of this testimonial, as an earnest of the high estimation in which you are generally held by them both in a public and private capacity, and to mark their sense of your upright and honorable conduct as a trader, and your worth as a man and a friend. I am sure I express the feelings of the gentlemen around me as well as my own, when I say that never was a testimonial got up with more alacrity and good will, or one more justly bestowed; in expressing our admiration of your integrity and industry, we cannot but feel grateful that a merciful Providence has enabled you, in the vigour of health, to retire comfortably from the toils of your late business, and sincerely express a hope that you may be long spared to enjoy the position you have so justly attained. The toast was drank with acclamation.

Mr. M'Gill, who was considerably affected, rose and said—Mr Chairman and gentlemen, in the whole of my career, I have never felt myself so fully embarrassed as I do at the present moment, with a blank too full for utterance, and gratitude that can find no expression in words. I do not pretend to eloquence at any time, but on this occasion my feelings so completely overpower me, that if I fail to convey to you what my heart prompts, I must throw myself upon that generous kindness which I have ever received at your hands. I have ever most warmly cherished that unbroken friendship, that existed which has been extended to me by my countrymen and friends, and the recollection of which will endure through life, but I am not vain enough to suppose that anything in my humble career can have deserved the flattering notice of your good feeling towards me; but I accept it, knowing your sincerity.

A number of other toasts were subsequently given. The evening was enlivened by some good songs, and about 11 o'clock the meeting separated highly gratified.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—In answer to several communications, inquiring what is the limit of the ages, at which Teachers may refuse to take children into their Schools, we would state: The provision of the 38th Section of the Act is quite sufficient to indicate to the intention of the Legislature, with respect to this point. That clause, we are decidedly of opinion, ought to be taken as a governing clause, by all parties concerned in the working and operation of the Act. And we are satisfied that in a court of law, such would be the power ascribed to that clause. But, in the clause the minimum and maximum ages are given, those who are to be accounted children, within the meaning of the Act, is stated, we hold that, to avoid contention, it would be better, at least until the Act shall be amended in the Session which now we think it will be, for teachers unhesitatingly to receive all who may be offered to them as pupils (so long as they have vaccinies) between the ages of five and twelve years:—for, although, according to the obvious intention of the Legislature with respect to this Act, none ought to be accounted children, within its meaning and operation, over the age, of sixteen years; yet, according to the general law of the empire, all are infants until they have attained the age twenty-one years.

The evident meaning of the 27th Section, is, that, when 30 scholars are on the Teacher's Roll, or that the average attendance is above 30, the teacher shall be entitled to the yearly allowance under the Act, and that children being prevented from attending through sickness or want of clothing, for a short time, will not prevent the teacher from receiving his pay, or authorise the Visitor to declare the School closed under the Act.

Phisiographus and Mentor will find the above an answer to most of their queries. We shall be glad to hear from them again, when we hope we will be better able to print their communications.

Our other Correspondents are not forgotten.

Association for Mutual Improvement.

On Friday 13th inst. Mr. Taylor, as previously announced, delivered a very pleasing and instructive Lecture on "The Fine Arts," to a numerous and intelligent audience.

On Friday last, 20th inst., the Association closed its session by an adjournment for the summer—passing and passing a unanimous vote of thanks to the proprietors of those papers, in which its notices have been gratuitously inserted.

EXPERIMENTAL TRIP OF THE STEAMER FAIRY QUEEN.—This Steamer, which the Government contemplate engaging, to perform the summer Mail service between this Island and the neighboring Provinces, returned from her experimental trip to Shediac to day at 12 o'clock Several members of the Government were on board; and have, we understand, expressed themselves well satisfied with the capabilities of the Boat, as manifested during the trip. The politeness of the Captain has enabled us to give, below, a copy of "the Log":

"Steamer left wharf Monday night a little after nine, and arrived in Bedeque 3 o'clock; left Bedeque at 7h. 30m. and arrived in Shediac harbour at 11h. heavy head wind; left Shediac at 11h. 30m. evening, and arrived at Bedeque at 4 this morning—left at 6 o'clock for Charlottetown, and arrived at the wharf at 12."
