Tenders Will Be Called On New Swimming Pool

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Tenders will be called this week for construction of a central swimming pool in Summerside, a project being spearheaded by the local Kinsmen Club.

Provincial treasurer T. Earle Hickey — subbing for Premier Alex Campbell, still out of the province — Mayor George Key of Summerside, Board of Trade President Roy Johnston, and representatives of town service clubs spoke in support of the $100,000 project at a Kinsmen Club meeting here Thursday night.

Committee chairman Chester MacDonald told the dinner meeting that the swimming pool was something of vital importance to the town of Summerside.

He said that it was in October, 1965, that the club had committed itself to spearhead the drive for a swimming pool, thus completing the recreational set-up in town. After much red tape, he said, the club was ready to go ahead with the project now and complete it.

He paid tribute to Premier Campbell and Hon. Mr. Hickey for their part in the realization of the project, and also Mayor Key and Councillor Frances Perry, for the support evident from the town council.

PLANS DRAWN Architect Keith Picard told the meeting that the original plans for the swimming pool were drawn in the fall of 1961. Official word was received at noon yesterday to call tenders and he said a tender form was going out today. Construction will begin almost immediately after tenders are received, he said.

He said that the project deserved the support of not only Kinsmen but all other groups within the town. He said that the swimming facilities would be of special significance to the young people in town.

Other speakers were Don Simpson, chairman of the fund raising committee; Elmer Murphy, president of the Rotary club; Y's Men Club president Bob Schurman; Harry Barlow

BURGLARS Continued from Page 1 contained money, shares, bonds and "other legal documents," he said.

All that was known about them was that they had been gnawed by banks, large firms and individuals to points in Canada and the United States.

for a winter works grant, Mr. Hickey said. This phase has been approved by the province and is awaiting federal endorsement.

Mayor Key said Summerside was blessed by many facilities, but up to now, lacking was year-round swimming facilities, and he congratulated the Kinsmen for the giant — but not insurmountable — task of spearheading the endeavor.

DESERVES SUPPORT He said that the project deserved the support of not only Kinsmen but all other groups within the town. He said that the swimming facilities would be of special significance to the young people in town.

Other speakers were Don Simpson, chairman of the fund raising committee; Elmer Murphy, president of the Rotary club; Y's Men Club president Bob Schurman; Harry Barlow of Lions, and Centennial Committee chairman, Councillor (Mrs.) Frances Perry.

All service club representatives endorsed the project personally but informed the meeting that they were not speaking for their individual clubs.

Among special guests at the meeting were coach F.O. Bernard Poole and his Kinsmen little leaguers, headed by team captain, Steve Kelly.

Co-chairmen of the meeting was President Richard Wedge and Tim MacGuigan.

Mr. Cormier said the post-office building, a former aircraft maintenance shop, has two doorways, one onto the roadway and one onto the tarmac. Both had been locked.

Mr. Cormier said the post-office building, a former aircraft maintenance shop, has two doorways, one onto the roadway and one onto the tarmac. Both had been locked.

HOLE WAS MADE "There is construction work going on next door and in the course of this work a hole was made in the wall of the post office building. "The thieves made their way in by removing a number of the concrete blocks which had been used to close up this hole."

Mr. Cormier said a supervisor had remained in the post office building while the other workers went to eat, but he had heard and noticed nothing.

"We have questioned this man thoroughly and we have no reason to believe he was a party to the burglary."

No guards are stationed in the building, because, said Mr. Cormier, "it is against the department's policy to employ armed guards."

Montreal police, acting on a tip, found what appeared to be a mailbag in business premises in the north end of the city.

Though the canvas bag carried no post office identification, it contained wrapping of parcels intended for Froisher Bay, N.W.T.

Insp. Fernand Daoust said later the bag did not appear to be connected with the airport theft, but might be evidence of another theft.

DAMAGED CAGE The only damage caused in the airport burglary was a hole cut in the wire mesh of the safety cage. The hole was just big enough for a man to put his hand through and unlatch the lock on the cage door.

SDU Students' Union Has Semi-annual Meeting

A discussion on the relative merits of the Canadian Union of Students resulted in a call for a referendum at St. Dunstan's University on withdrawal from CUS, it was learned from Charley McMillan, president of the students' union.

The discussion arose at a semi-annual meeting of the Student Body held Wednesday night. In his address, Mr. McMillan spoke of the need at St. Dunstan's, in the light of the union's financial position, "to reassess some of our past programs, and to consider whether the money which has been put in one area might not be better used in other student activity."

"I refer to such campus organizations which have a national or international affiliation. Aside from the dubious benefits of mere fact of membership in such organizations, it is now important to consider what else is worthwhile from them. If these organizations (CUS and World University Service) can't stand the pressure of a reexamination, or even convince the student body of their worth, both in terms of their cost to this campus and to the positive results accomplished, then we have no other choice but to spend our money elsewhere."

MOTION PRESENTED Later in the meeting, a motion was presented which stated that because CUS can't provide to students the services needed, and can't justify some of its spending program, then St. Dunstan's should withdraw from CUS.

Phil MacDonald, Senior Class President, supported the motion, declaring that CUS is an in-grown organization dominated by the large universities and so involved in every topic from O'LEARY — The O'Leary Regional Lions Band is to form a majorette corps.

The invitation letter was sent out this week by Chester MacMackin, chairman of the O'Leary Lions Club Band Committee. Girls in grades five to nine have been invited to attend the first practice to be held in the O'Leary Regional High School tonight (Friday) at seven o'clock.

In his letter to parents, Mr. MacMackin, bank of Nova Scotia manager in O'Leary, said that the band has been making very good progress in the few months it has been formed.

He says that they will be ready to start parading next summer. He said that a majorette corps would add much to an already impressive display of 35 boys and girls.

There will be one practice each week, on Wednesday nights, for about an hour during the practise period. A baton costing about $3.50 and a weekly tuition fee of 25 cents are the only expenses.

The instructors will be Mrs. Ida Peppin, Kensington's majorette director, and Mrs. Wilfred Dennis, O'Leary.

Mr. MacMackin states that if any parent would like their daughter to become a majorette, they should send them to the O'Leary R.H.S. tonight at seven o'clock for enrollment. The letter points out that the parents must co-operate in having their daughters come to all practices and to have her initiation fee available.
