Relaxed Dining Called Aid To Good Digestion

"Good food arrests anger. Re-train from an argument before a meal and an hour later you will forget all about it."

This advice is from Peter Roberti, proprietor of the elegant Le Chateau Richelieu restaurant in New York City.

"It is also necessary to be comfortable while dining, as this induces relaxation which, in turn promotes the feeling of well-being essential to good digestion."

"Do you find the settee comfortable, Madame?" he asked as I slipped gratefully onto it.

"We designed the settees to avoid being too low; the upholstery was chosen to support the body and not be so soft that it would cause clothing to wrinkle or crease."

I nodded approval. After a delightful dinner, we visited the beautifully appointed

FOR THE YOUNG AND GAY

This eye-catching frock of red and gray dacron and cotton, with its square, bare, neckline and wide full skirt falling in unpressed pleats and big red rose at waist of wide belt, was modeled by Miss Annie-Laurie MacLean in the fashion show held last week at the Charlottetown Hotel, sponsored by the Junior Ladies Aid of the P.E.I. Hospital. With this charming youthful costume Miss MacLean wore a hat of white woven straw with shaded organza band.

Miss Bonita Smallman models this lovely afternoon dress of blue and cherry fuz print with softly gathered skirt falling from a waist - flattering cummerbund. With this attractive costume she wears a nylon braid cloche in hot cherry fuz shade with pert back flowers. A petite shoulder cape of dyed Russian squirrel added the finishing touch to this very smart outfit.

W.I. Convention Dates Chosen By The Executive

A wave of suppressed excitement pervaded the Thursday's meeting of the Provincial Executive of the Women's Institute. The BIG NEWS was that the Prince Edward Island Women's Institutes are being hostesses to the Biennial Board Meeting of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, when they meet July 8th to 11th, in Prince Edward Island.

It was announced that the entries to the Quilt Contest were assembled and the judges chosen. Three entries are to be sent to the F. W. I. C. for forwarding to the Associated Country Women of the World's Convention, which is to be held in Scotland during the month of August. Mrs. Lloyd Wilkie and Mrs. Harold Laird are the two members intending to be present at this international meeting of the countrywomen of the world. Mrs. Wilkie is our provincial president, and Mrs. Laird is the editor of the Federated Women's Institute News.

On March 15th, the members of St. Peter's Parish Council of Seven Mile Bay C.W.L. met in the Church for their regular monthly meeting with a good attendance.

The meeting was devoted to outlining plans for the annual Convention and the entertainment of the delegates to the F. W. I. C., as well as developing the program for the Leadership Course for District Officers which is to be held in Parkdale Hall on April 1st and 2nd.

Obviously your husband and your parents can't help; because if they had good sense, they wouldn't have steered you into this hellish mistake in the first place. M.H.

In the absence of the president, the first vice-president, Miss Florrie Green took the chair and called on the Rev. Director to open the meeting with the League prayer. Due to inclement weather the February meeting was not held and the minutes of the January meeting were read and approved. Correspondence was dealt with. The treasurer reported Mrs. Noonan gratefully declined the donation of five dollars on the stove for communion breakfast. Mrs. Carmichael and Mrs. Noonan reported $24.00 contributed from card parties they sponsored in hall. A mass was donated for Mr. George Sherry. It was suggested to renew the rosary pledge on first Saturday of the month. It was also suggested members bring used Catholic papers, cassettes, messengers, etc., place them in back of the church, that non-subscribers may take them for reading. A discussion took place on attending mass and the Rev. Director consented to have mass two evenings a week for duration of Lent.

As you were minor-age (less than 21) when you took the step, and you had been pressured into it by your parents, who sold you down the river to solve their financial difficulty; and inasmuch as your buyer (shall we call him?) denies you children, perhaps you have a case for freedom—if you will bring the matter to the attention of the church's "marriage tribunal."

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Gentle Rain-Fall Of Spring Is Refreshing

Spring-what did it mean today at Alderlea? It was raindrops on a window at breakfast, and back of them a gentle veil of mist on the hills. Spring-rain is as no other rain, it came to mind, as we poured James his morning-cup of tea.

es of children through the course of their years. What tales time can weave! And some are beautiful and others so sad. For these two life has been good. City-dwellers, they enjoy their home and the family—the three sons and one maid of daughter which blesses it. They enjoy too the community of which they are a part.

"Your uncle doesn't care for coffee in the morning," we commented to a visiting nephew yesterday at supper when we spoke of favorite "cups." This is one, who as a child, liked to come away from his life in an island village to spend his holidays here on the farm—to angle along stream and pond, to bring home the cows to the evening-milking the dog his companion, and to join in the farming about. If he had been born to a farm, it is not unlikely he would have chosen it for an occupation because he seemed to have a natural liking for the life and its interests. However after schooldays, a Second World War called him off to service in strange countries overseas. Returning there were college days and afterwards a settling away to a vocation, a wife, and a home.

He fixed us with a teasing eye. "Are you sure, Aunt Ellen?" he grinned "he doesn't like coffee in the morning!" "Certain!" we giggled. Spring-rain is as no other rain. It is better. Better even than that of Summer which falls in gentle refreshment on the sometimes wistful fields. Or Autumn's which out of a blue and gold day, comes to pelt coldly, the colored leaves. Spring-rain is a promising element. It caresses the buds, washes Wintry leavings away and bespeaks much that is lovely to come.

On March 15th, the members of St. Peter's Parish Council of Seven Mile Bay C.W.L. met in the Church for their regular monthly meeting with a good attendance.

Spring today was rain. And after the joy of sunshine a d clearing. And now to crown it, a young March moon is hung above a star. For the farmers it was new-born stock at the barn-calves. And in the old sheaf-house which in recent years has been turned into a home-fold, more lambskins had come, sturdy youngsters, apparently "come to live."

On March 15th, the members of St. Peter's Parish Council of Seven Mile Bay C.W.L. met in the Church for their regular monthly meeting with a good attendance.

The day was lovely, like, we thought, a cloud—a ribbon of brightness lilac-hued or carmine, which floats away against the rose and primrose of the sunset. There are voices at the opening door now, parting, work of day done.

CARLETON SIDING W. I.
The regular monthly meeting of the Carleton Siding W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Joan Myers on Tuesday evening, March 10th. The president presided, and opened the meeting by singing "My Wild Irish Rose," followed by the collect. Roll call was responded to by fourteen members and two guests were present. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

"I guess by rights we should have saved our own timothy seed last year," James says, thoughts on costs of the seedtime ahead. "Can't very well save timothy and have hay in the mow" the younger farmer chuckles. And the night takes its own home to rest.
