

COME ON GILES

Andrew Mitchell, 2, wanted to go to the Fort Garry Kennel Club dog show in Transcona, Man., during the weekend but wasn't enthusiastic about the his 170-pound mastiff Giles trip. (CP Wirephoto)

2nd Conjoint Assembly Is Underway At Centre

The second conjoint scientific assembly of the Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Chapters of the College of General Practice of Canada opened here Monday in Confederation Centre.

The morning session dealt with adult cardiology with Dr. R.N. Anderson, Halifax, N.S., Dr. R.D. Rowe, of Johns-Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland, as guest lecturers. Delegates were welcomed by Dr. J.M. Williston of New Glasgow, N.S., general chairman of the planning committee.

During the day papers were given by Dr. Albert Pessin of Sydney, N.S., Dr. Alan MacMillan, Charlottetown, N.S., Dr. R.C. Hurley, Fredericton, N.B., Dr. John Hamm, New Glasgow, N.S., and Dr. Marvin Clark of Kensington, P.E.I.

Youth Post Has Meeting

MONTAGUE — Montague Senior Allied Youth post held its third meeting of the year on Friday night October 7th, at Montague.

Reports from various committees were given, among them the report on the raffle by Marlene McGowan, head of the projects committee; and a report by Jim Cudmore, head of the social committee.

The program for the evening included a discussion on adult education and public awareness of Allied Youth's roll in the community.

The meeting was adjourned and most of the members met again at the A.Y. sponsored dance at Montague Y Centre. During the evening the draw for prizes was made by Richard Collins. The winners were: Olga Hennigar, winning a stuffed tiger; Ralph Anear, winning a fifteen pound turkey; William Irving a ten pound turkey.

The dance was considered a big success and the money from this dance will be used to send delegates to the International Conference in Halifax in November.

CITY AREA FUNERALS

CAMPBELL FUNERAL — The funeral for Flora Ann Campbell was held Saturday morning from the Charlottetown Funeral Home to St. Peter's Church Seven Mile Bay where Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. F.R. MacDonald, parish priest. Deacon and sub-deacon were Rev. Floyd McGough and Rev. Eric Robin. Interment was in the church cemetery where service was conducted by Father MacDonald. Pall bearers were Leonard MacCarville, Augustus Peters, Alban Keough, Thomas Keough, Daniel Keough, and George Green.

RODD FUNERAL — The funeral for Mrs. George Amos Rodd was held Saturday, October 8, 1966, from the MacLean Funeral Home where service was conducted by Rev. A.E. Piercy. During the service Mrs. Robert Farquharson sang My Aim Country. Congregational hymns were The Lord Is My Shepherd and Hark My Soul. Pall bearers were, Robert Farquharson, Allan Rodd, James Boer, Finley MacLeod, Sterling MacLeod and Walter Auld. Interment took place in St. John's Anglican Church cemetery.

Island News Page Eastern and Central Districts

The Guardian, Charlottetown, Tues., Oct. 11, 1966. 5

Progress Is Announced In United Fund Campaign

The P.E.I. United Fund has reached the 30 per cent mark in its campaign for $253,191 for the 34 participating health, welfare and recreational agencies. The total reported to date is $77,237 with the Summerside Advance Gifts Division, chairman V. Howatt, having reached $10,336.00 or 36 per cent of its quota. Some of the other division results to date are as follows:

Charlottetown, advance gifts $25,485 or 58 per cent. National Firms $9,833 or 46 per cent. Residential $3,374 or 51 per cent. Summerside Residential $2,238 or 64 per cent and Albert Regional High School District $1,677 or 36 per cent. Several other divisions have reported smaller amounts and the Charlottetown city total stands at $43,167 or 34 per cent and the Summerside town total $13,139 or 39 per cent.

LEADERSHIP

Continued from Page 1

mittée began hearings on the proposals for regular leadership conventions and for more "democratic" machinery inside the party.

Mr. Pearson said the government stands firmly by its decision to defer the implementation of medical care insurance to July 1, 1968, despite scores of resolutions blasting the delay.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this. "You see, I'm getting rather accustomed to the heat. I've been in the political kitchen for quite a while and I've stood over some pretty hot stoves."

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

"I do not think the leader of our party should have to appear automatically at a formal leadership convention every two years and compete with other candidates for leadership at that convention."

"The responsibilities and the labors of a prime minister are already sufficiently crushing at times they seem almost unbearable."

RESPONSIBLE TO PEOPLE
Mr. Pearson bluntly told the delegates that his first responsibility is to Parliament and the people of Canada, not to the Liberal party.

His remarks appeared aimed at the Ontario and university Liberals, who have accused the party leadership of ignoring the "grass roots" in major policy decisions.

The Ontario wing, led by Prof. Mark MacGung of the University of Toronto, proposed that basic Liberal policies be established every two years; that the cabinet report at each conference what had been done to implement previous resolutions, and that a leadership convention "must be called within two years after a federal general election."

The university Liberals went even further, proposing a leadership contest every two years at regular party conferences.

The co-chairman of the constitution committee, Jean Richard of Ottawa and Roy Power of Halifax, recommended a milder formula.

They proposed that the party leader report on his stewardship at the annual conference and submit to a motion of confidence. A leadership convention would be called only when a confidence motion was defeated or when the leader requested one.

Barbara Ward, British author on international affairs, praised Mr. Pearson warmly and congratulated the government for increasing foreign aid.

She spoke in favor of eventual rule by the Negro majority in Rhodesia and South-West Africa.

She also advocated neutrality and self-government in Vietnam, guaranteed by international agreement and control.

Mr. Pearson said the party leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Borden Councillors Discuss Boundaries

BORDEN — A suggestion was made at the monthly meeting of the town council here that the limits of the town be extended. It was proposed the boundaries be enlarged to take in an area considered necessary for the expansion of the community.

Mayor Gilbert Bell presided. Councillors present included Ernest McKenna, William McIvor, Arthur Jay, Reginald McAlver and Red Fred Leard. Bills amounting to $210.15 were approved and ordered paid.

Others presented to await approval amounted to $410.17. FORMAL APPLICATION
It was decided formal application must be made for any hookup to the sewage system of the town.

The report of town solicitor J. Plomp was submitted by Councillor McAlver. The total number of cases disposed of was 41. Additional fire hose has been ordered.

It was suggested a man be appointed to look after manhole flushing. The council heard from its legal adviser that some taxes in arrears have been collected and that the remainder would be obtained before the end of the year.

Volume swelled to 9,630,000 shares from Friday's 8,140,000 and was the largest since Aug. 30 when 11,210,000 shares changed hands in a rebound from the Aug. 29 low.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed an early loss of 5.24. But it closed with a net gain of 10.19 at 754.51 — its largest rise since Sept. 14.

Bargain-seekers began to nibble when the Dow had reached an intra-day level of 739.08, which would be the lowest close since Nov. 22, 1963, the day of the Kennedy assassination, when the final Dow reading was 711.49.

Xerox closed at 143 1/2, recovering 1 1/2 points of the 42 1/2 it lost last week. It recovered 10% of 23 1/2 points lost last week; IBM regained 16% of 24% it lost.

Sperry rained was the most active stock, rising 3 to 24 1/2 on 240,900 shares. It lost 6% last week. Of 1,422 issues traded, 725 advanced and 453 declined.

was voted down the delegates approved almost unanimously a motion by Mr. Wither applauding the imaginative and progressive reorganization program and the vigorous and courageous defence minister and his associate minister, Leo Cadieux.

Both proposals resulted from a conference of Western Liberals earlier this fall and were passed unanimously by the workshop. They were referred to a full session of the conference, with several others including a request to rename the department of agriculture.

The federal government should attempt to raise the floor price of wheat to $2.05 a bushel for No. 1 Northern from $1.82 1/2 when the International Wheat Agreement is renegotiated, the price resolution said.

The workshop requested that the interim payment to farmers when they deliver their grain be raised by 25 cents for wheat, 14 cents for barley and 10 cents for oats.

WOULD WIN SEATS
Rodney Clement of Russell, Man., said the increase in the interim payment would be more "than anything else to help Liberals win a few seats in the west."

Farmers receive an interim payment for their wheat and then received a final payment based on the price received when it is marketed.

Workshop delegates also approved a resolution calling for a more broadly named agriculture department with control over the Canadian Wheat Board and all other agricultural products.

Senator A. H. McDonald of Saskatchewan said it would permit the minister of agriculture to capitalize on Canadian wheat sales to win political support on the prairies. The suggestion drew applause from the 150 attending the workshop meeting.

The Canadian Wheat Board now falls under the jurisdiction of the finance department. DISCUSS MARKETING

Marketing techniques evoked lengthy debate as delegates formulated proposals for the plenary sessions. A question arising whether the government should introduce a "cheap food" policy drew sharp criticism.

Greg Poulton of Manitoba said Canada has cheap food and prices should be allowed to climb.

Rural delegates expressed concern that a cheap food policy would hit them in the pocketbook.

Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner of Saskatchewan suggested that, although he is opposed to subsidies, if food prices were to be kept down, farmers should be subsidized.

"As long as protection is provided to other industries, then we have no alternative but ask for our share of the subsidies."

Mexico Hit By Hurricane

CIUDAD VICTORIA, Mexico (AP) — Hurricane Inez hit the Mexican coast north of Tampico and continued inland Monday, causing damage to about six small villages with winds up to 140 miles an hour.

Communications with Tampico itself were cut off, but the highway patrol, about 140 miles northeast of Tampico, said the hurricane swept inland between Soto la Marina and Aldama.

Damages to farming and livestock were high, but could not be determined immediately. No casualties were reported in early information received here.

Cotton and sorghum crops were threatened, as well as citrus and sugar crops to the north. Their value was estimated at around $24,000,000. Rescue squads were immediately rushed to the damaged areas.

Far to the north, Matamoros, across from Brownsville, Tex., and Reynosa, across from McAllen, Tex., reported early rains and later sunshine.

Egypt-Tunisia Break Relations

TUNIS (AP) — The ideological wedge between the moderate and revolutionary Arab states was driven deeper "as ever with the abrupt break in diplomatic relations between Tunisia and Egypt."

The move further weakened Arab unity against Israel and was a new blow to the shaky, Egyptian-dominated Arab League.

APPEARING ALL WEEK!

"Jimmy Poulton" Vocalist
Les Alexander & The Smoothies

THE GRANADA

Members and guests only

CIVIC TAX APPEALS

Notice is hereby given that the 18th day of October, 1966 at 10 a.m. in the Council Chambers in the City Building has been fixed for the time and place for the hearing of all Appeals against Civic valuations and assessments. Charlottetown.

JOHN J. BUTLER, City Comptroller.

STARTS WEDNESDAY SHOWS 3:30 - 7:30

ALPHABET MURDERS
WHY THE GUY IS MURDER
...it's as simple as ABC if you look hard enough!
CAPITOL

Leadership

Continued from Page 1

Mr. Pearson said the government stands firmly by its decision to defer the implementation of medical care insurance to July 1, 1968, despite scores of resolutions blasting the delay.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

"I do not think the leader of our party should have to appear automatically at a formal leadership convention every two years and compete with other candidates for leadership at that convention."

"The responsibilities and the labors of a prime minister are already sufficiently crushing at times they seem almost unbearable."

RESPONSIBLE TO PEOPLE
Mr. Pearson bluntly told the delegates that his first responsibility is to Parliament and the people of Canada, not to the Liberal party.

His remarks appeared aimed at the Ontario and university Liberals, who have accused the party leadership of ignoring the "grass roots" in major policy decisions.

The Ontario wing, led by Prof. Mark MacGung of the University of Toronto, proposed that basic Liberal policies be established every two years; that the cabinet report at each conference what had been done to implement previous resolutions, and that a leadership convention "must be called within two years after a federal general election."

The university Liberals went even further, proposing a leadership contest every two years at regular party conferences.

The co-chairman of the constitution committee, Jean Richard of Ottawa and Roy Power of Halifax, recommended a milder formula.

They proposed that the party leader report on his stewardship at the annual conference and submit to a motion of confidence. A leadership convention would be called only when a confidence motion was defeated or when the leader requested one.

Barbara Ward, British author on international affairs, praised Mr. Pearson warmly and congratulated the government for increasing foreign aid.

She spoke in favor of eventual rule by the Negro majority in Rhodesia and South-West Africa.

She also advocated neutrality and self-government in Vietnam, guaranteed by international agreement and control.

Mr. Pearson said the party leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was rescued from a typical "blue Monday" decline and late in the day mounted a vigorous technical rally in heavy trading.

Volume swelled to 9,630,000 shares from Friday's 8,140,000 and was the largest since Aug. 30 when 11,210,000 shares changed hands in a rebound from the Aug. 29 low.

The Dow Jones industrial average showed an early loss of 5.24. But it closed with a net gain of 10.19 at 754.51 — its largest rise since Sept. 14.

Bargain-seekers began to nibble when the Dow had reached an intra-day level of 739.08, which would be the lowest close since Nov. 22, 1963, the day of the Kennedy assassination, when the final Dow reading was 711.49.

Xerox closed at 143 1/2, recovering 1 1/2 points of the 42 1/2 it lost last week. It recovered 10% of 23 1/2 points lost last week; IBM regained 16% of 24% it lost.

Sperry rained was the most active stock, rising 3 to 24 1/2 on 240,900 shares. It lost 6% last week. Of 1,422 issues traded, 725 advanced and 453 declined.

was voted down the delegates approved almost unanimously a motion by Mr. Wither applauding the imaginative and progressive reorganization program and the vigorous and courageous defence minister and his associate minister, Leo Cadieux.

Both proposals resulted from a conference of Western Liberals earlier this fall and were passed unanimously by the workshop. They were referred to a full session of the conference, with several others including a request to rename the department of agriculture.

The federal government should attempt to raise the floor price of wheat to $2.05 a bushel for No. 1 Northern from $1.82 1/2 when the International Wheat Agreement is renegotiated, the price resolution said.

The workshop requested that the interim payment to farmers when they deliver their grain be raised by 25 cents for wheat, 14 cents for barley and 10 cents for oats.

WOULD WIN SEATS
Rodney Clement of Russell, Man., said the increase in the interim payment would be more "than anything else to help Liberals win a few seats in the west."

Farmers receive an interim payment for their wheat and then received a final payment based on the price received when it is marketed.

Workshop delegates also approved a resolution calling for a more broadly named agriculture department with control over the Canadian Wheat Board and all other agricultural products.

Senator A. H. McDonald of Saskatchewan said it would permit the minister of agriculture to capitalize on Canadian wheat sales to win political support on the prairies. The suggestion drew applause from the 150 attending the workshop meeting.

The Canadian Wheat Board now falls under the jurisdiction of the finance department. DISCUSS MARKETING

Marketing techniques evoked lengthy debate as delegates formulated proposals for the plenary sessions. A question arising whether the government should introduce a "cheap food" policy drew sharp criticism.

Greg Poulton of Manitoba said Canada has cheap food and prices should be allowed to climb.

Rural delegates expressed concern that a cheap food policy would hit them in the pocketbook.

Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner of Saskatchewan suggested that, although he is opposed to subsidies, if food prices were to be kept down, farmers should be subsidized.

"As long as protection is provided to other industries, then we have no alternative but ask for our share of the subsidies."

Leadership

Continued from Page 1

Mr. Pearson said the government stands firmly by its decision to defer the implementation of medical care insurance to July 1, 1968, despite scores of resolutions blasting the delay.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

"I do not think the leader of our party should have to appear automatically at a formal leadership convention every two years and compete with other candidates for leadership at that convention."

"The responsibilities and the labors of a prime minister are already sufficiently crushing at times they seem almost unbearable."

RESPONSIBLE TO PEOPLE
Mr. Pearson bluntly told the delegates that his first responsibility is to Parliament and the people of Canada, not to the Liberal party.

His remarks appeared aimed at the Ontario and university Liberals, who have accused the party leadership of ignoring the "grass roots" in major policy decisions.

The Ontario wing, led by Prof. Mark MacGung of the University of Toronto, proposed that basic Liberal policies be established every two years; that the cabinet report at each conference what had been done to implement previous resolutions, and that a leadership convention "must be called within two years after a federal general election."

The university Liberals went even further, proposing a leadership contest every two years at regular party conferences.

The co-chairman of the constitution committee, Jean Richard of Ottawa and Roy Power of Halifax, recommended a milder formula.

They proposed that the party leader report on his stewardship at the annual conference and submit to a motion of confidence. A leadership convention would be called only when a confidence motion was defeated or when the leader requested one.

Barbara Ward, British author on international affairs, praised Mr. Pearson warmly and congratulated the government for increasing foreign aid.

She spoke in favor of eventual rule by the Negro majority in Rhodesia and South-West Africa.

She also advocated neutrality and self-government in Vietnam, guaranteed by international agreement and control.

Mr. Pearson said the party leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal leader should account for his stewardship and submit to votes of confidence at party conventions every two years, but he drew the line at regular leadership conventions.

He said he has no doubt that some delegates will use the three-day policy conference to "put the heat on the government" and he welcomed this.

Liberals From Prairies Have Proposals Okayed

OTTAWA (CP) — Increases in the floor price of wheat and higher interim payments were recommended to the national Liberal policy conference Monday by its agricultural workshop.

Both proposals resulted from a conference of Western Liberals earlier this fall and were passed unanimously by the workshop. They were referred to a full session of the conference, with several others including a request to rename the department of agriculture.

The federal government should attempt to raise the floor price of wheat to $2.05 a bushel for No. 1 Northern from $1.82 1/2 when the International Wheat Agreement is renegotiated, the price resolution said.

The workshop requested that the interim payment to farmers when they deliver their grain be raised by 25 cents for wheat, 14 cents for barley and 10 cents for oats.

WOULD WIN SEATS
Rodney Clement of Russell, Man., said the increase in the interim payment would be more "than anything else to help Liberals win a few seats in the west."

Farmers receive an interim payment for their wheat and then received a final payment based on the price received when it is marketed.

Workshop delegates also approved a resolution calling for a more broadly named agriculture department with control over the Canadian Wheat Board and all other agricultural products.

Senator A. H. McDonald of Saskatchewan said it would permit the minister of agriculture to capitalize on Canadian wheat sales to win political support on the prairies. The suggestion drew applause from the 150 attending the workshop meeting.

The Canadian Wheat Board now falls under the jurisdiction of the finance department. DISCUSS MARKETING

Marketing techniques evoked lengthy debate as delegates formulated proposals for the plenary sessions. A question arising whether the government should introduce a "cheap food" policy drew sharp criticism.

Greg Poulton of Manitoba said Canada has cheap food and prices should be allowed to climb.

Rural delegates expressed concern that a cheap food policy would hit them in the pocketbook.

Public Works Minister Wilf Gardiner of