

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH GALLANT AND ATTENDANTS

Pretty Autumn Wedding Held In Charlottetown

A pretty wedding took place in the Holy Redeemer Rectory on September 1st, 1956, when Rev. Father Allen united in marriage Glenda Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gregory of Parkdale and Mr. Joseph Francis Gallant son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gallant of Charlottetown.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina length gown of pink Chantilly lace bodice with a full skirt of fine net of taffeta featuring a pink lace jacket with a Peter Pan collar and three quarter length sleeves. Her matching head-dress was of nylon net. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Parkdale Hall. The bride's table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Fulton Pierce and responded to by the groom. The bride's going away costume was a blue dress and navy duster with blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations.—Photo by Meyers.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Porridge Still A Staple

The stars last night seemed promising. The sky too was clear. We said at breakfast, somewhat disappointed that the enchanting flames of the dawn were now overshadowed darkly with cloud in token of a sunless and perhaps showery day.

"There were too many stars, Ellen," James commented. "And when you see that, you may expect a change of weather shortly. And besides there have been Northern Lights of late."

"Meaning about the same thing" we nodded. . . If we miss the open door and the smiling flowers of some September mornings, breakfasts are cozy meals with the table no edged nearer the fire. Appetites too seem to have absorbed some of the zest which belongs to the cooler season. Porridge? Oh yes, it is still a staple of our breakfast-fare with a following of, today, toast and eggs from the little flock which nourishes the family in various ways.

Most attractive now the young maids of pullets are in their gowns so variegated we are brought to the yard at a hail from the children to "Say which!" of all is the prettiest. The thrifty or thin sounds of the males greeting fresh dawns amuse us as they drift in these times through the open window of our bedroom.

"No thrashing then?" "Not likely, though we'll find plenty of other things to do" he smiled.

"There are fallen sheaves to re-stock. And a granary to re-floor."

Post-Nuptial Shower Held

An event of interest took place at the home of Mae and William Found, when a shower was held honoring Mr. and Mrs. James Widdowson of Toronto, the former Earth Dunning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunning, Long River.

After the young couple were seated Rev. S. H. Haslam offered a few complimentary remarks, also expressing his regret that Earth had left our midst, but was glad to know that she now has a good partner on life's journey. Gifts and money were presented by Doris Bernard, assisted by Anna MacEwen and Joan Paynter.

Earth and Jim thanked all for their kindness including the Found's for opening their home, after which all joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows". The evening was pleasantly spent in music, both violin and piano by Mrs. Alfred MacKay. Mrs. Ernest MacEwen and Mrs. Ernest Dunning. Minnie also gave some of her favorite songs which were much enjoyed by all. Little Jennie MacKay also entertained by dancing the Highland Fling. After refreshments had been served all departed wishing Earth and Jim all the best in married life.

MARY HAWORTH

Remarks Hard To Evaluate

Dear Mary Haworth: I have a problem that may be quite common to many young women, but still I would like your advice. I was 20 just a month ago; and mentally and physically I am quite normal and healthy. At present I am going to a local college on a scholarship, meanwhile working part time for a local firm. My parents have had to work dreadfully hard to provide basic necessities for our family; and therefore I have had to earn a large part of my high school and college expenses.

Now, to explain my problem: It has been my good fortune to meet many wonderful men, and just this past week I was introduced to a very intelligent elderly man, about 40 years old. After only a short conversation, we seemed so intrinsically acquainted. Our talk ranged naturally from great music to political activities and eventually to more personal topics.

Well, today I received a letter from this man which puzzles and astounds me. In the letter he marvels at my "precious sincerity" and superior "mental maturity," and "great love and respect for life."

This isn't the first time that I have met older men; and it certainly isn't the first time that I've been complimented for my so-called maturity and "beautiful" sincerity. (I have been asking God to help me mature, so that I can love life more; but I can't see that any conspicuous changes are evolving.)

Now I ask, is it good to believe these remarks? Have these several acquaintances been sincere, in offering compliments of similar caliber? Or am I suffering from some delusion, by being myself, even at 20? I am sincere in this inquiry and would appreciate a sincere answer. L.C. IMMEMORIAL WAY.

Dear L.C.: To be specific, it is my impression that the complimentary letter from the 40-year-old man is a mash note. It means that he is smitten for the time being; preoccupied with memories of his exchange with you; going over in his mind your engaging qualities of person and behavior. Perhaps too, he was moved by pity or sympathy for your conscientious, indefatigable efforts to be self-reliant, in working part time to get a higher education, and touched by a certain naivete and intensity in your manner of discussing your interests.

In effect he wrote to say "Keep up the good work; you'll be a winner some day." He genuinely wishes you well and is pleased to give you a verbal boost. But the impelling motive that sparked his letter was simply the immemorial admiring response of the male (of any age) to female attractiveness. This fundamentally his message was: "Hey, you! You've made a big hit with me, and in telling you so, I'm hoping you will think twice of me too."

NATURAL THING As for the many compliment you get, often of similar substance—well, it is very much in the nature of things that a girl of 20, passably attractive, and in a position to meet men and boys, would receive a good deal of flattering attention from them. Especially in the first rounds of acquaintance. Indeed some masculine spokesmen tell us that a girl's best age is from 17 to 23—that this is the time when she is at the very zenith of effortless charm, from the male viewpoint.

As winsome girls differ from each other, just as flowers do, it is to be expected that your admirers would notice and remark the equality in you, that sets you apart from other girls. And I gather this is a trait of seriousness—which some may call "precious sincerity," and others call "mental maturity," and still other may designate as "great love and respect for life." All are synonyms for the

STELLA MARIS H. S.

The Home and School Association of Stella Maris Parish held their regular monthly meeting on September 28, in their modern new high school, with Mrs. Lawrence Doucette presiding.

The Secretary, Sister St. Patricia Anne, read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved as read. The Treasurer, Mrs. Leo Gallant, then read the Financial Statement which was followed by an interesting discussion on the problems brought up in the new business. Letters of thanks, received from Sister St. Catharine of Louvain and Sister St. Mary Eugenia in appreciation for the gifts received before their departure, were read by Mrs. Joseph Gaudin and Mrs. Lawrence Doucette.

Other items of interest were: to organize a Field Day for the pupils on the following Wednesday, if weather permitted — and that prizes and ribbons be procured to distribute as awards to the winners. It was also suggested that a canteen be set up to serve refreshments to the children in order to raise funds. Furthermore, all agreed that the practice of serving hot soup to the children, remaining for dinner be resumed for the coming year.

A new programme Committee Convenor, Sister St. Mary Sixtus, was appointed to replace Sister St. Mary Eugenia. The parents expressed a desire to have a Spelling Match, Debate or some other interesting entertainment prepared and presented to the parents before the meeting commences.

After a lengthy and enjoyable evening the meeting closed with the singing of "Ave Maris Stella" same thing.

It is good to believe these sayings; I think the sound reaction is to recognize the truth or falsity of the appraisal. Don't base your self-judgments on the estimates of other persons. "Know thyself," as the ancients said. One is in danger of losing perspective, if he begins to take compliments as gospel. M.H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.
