

MARTINE CAROL BACK IN FILMS

LONDON (Reuters) — Martine Carol, French actress who took a bath in most of her films in the days when she was one of the screen's hottest sex symbols, has announced her return to the movies in a role in which she will keep her clothes on.

Lucien Rivard Has Apologies

QUEBEC (CP) — Lucien Rivard the letter-writer is at it again.

The Quebec justice department has received a letter from Rivard, now in a Texas prison, apologizing for all the inconvenience and concern he caused the department in 1965.

He was especially apologetic for his "stupid act in climbing the wall at Bordeaux Jail."

Rivard added some warm words of praise for Justice Minister Claude Wagner, and thanked on some season's greetings.

Convicted by a U.S. court on narcotics smuggling charges this fall, Rivard was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment and a $20,000 fine. He has appealed.

He escaped from Bordeaux Jail in Montreal March 2 while awaiting the outcome of extradition proceedings. He was recaptured in July.

Shortly after conquering the wall at Bordeaux, Rivard wrote the governor to express regrets over any inconvenience caused by the sensational flight.

Every year the familiar pattern of Christmas unfolds. The sights and the customs and festivities may seem very much the same from one year to another, and yet to families and individuals each Christmas is slightly different.

It may be the first Christmas for many as husband and wife, or the first Christmas with grandchildren.

Some may be far from home, and others lonely or sick, yet Christmas always remains as the great family festival. A festival which we owe to that family long ago which spent this time in extreme adversity and discomfort.

I think we should remember that in spite of all the scientific advances and the great improvements in our material welfare, the family remains as the focal point of our existence.

There is overwhelming evidence that those who cannot experience full and happy family life for some reason or another are deprived of a great stabilizing influence in their lives.

At Christmas we are also reminded it is the time of peace on earth and good will towards men. Yet we are all only too well aware of the tragic fighting, hatred and ill will in so many parts of the world.

Because of this, cynics may shrug off the Christmas message as a waste of time, but that is only the gloomy side of the picture; there are also brighter and more hopeful signs.

The great churches of the world are coming to understand each other better and to recognize that without their inspiration and great ideals

NO PEACE AT CHRISTMAS TIME

Queen Sees Familiar Pattern Unfolding At Christmas Time

LONDON (Reuters) — Following is the text of the Queen's annual Christmas broadcast to the Commonwealth Saturday:

Every year the familiar pattern of Christmas unfolds. The sights and the customs and festivities may seem very much the same from one year to another, and yet to families and individuals each Christmas is slightly different.

It may be the first Christmas for many as husband and wife, or the first Christmas with grandchildren.

manifold will be smothered by its own material wealth. We must have dreams and ambitions for peace and good will and they must be proclaimed.

Perhaps the most practical demonstration of good will towards men is to be found in the growing practice among young people to give some form of voluntary service to others.

HELPING OLD PEOPLE In Britain and throughout the world they are coming forward to help old people or to serve in every kind of capacity where they may be needed at home and overseas.

A new army is averse on the march which holds out the brightest hopes for all mankind. It serves in international work camps, in areas hit by natural disasters or emergencies and in helping the poor, the backward or the hungry.

Peace on earth—we may not have it at the moment, we may never have it completely, but we will certainly achieve nothing unless we go on trying to remove the causes of conflict between peoples and nations.

'Good will towards men' is not a hollow phrase. Good will exists, and when there is an opportunity to show it in practical form we know what wonderful things it can achieve.

To deny this Christmas message is to admit defeat and to give up hope. It is a rejection of everything that makes life worth living, and what is far worse it offers nothing in its place.

SEES MANY CONFLICTS In fact it is just because there are so many conflicts in the world today that we should reaffirm our hopes and beliefs in a more peaceful and a more friendly world in the future.

This is just the moment to remind ourselves that we can all find some practical way to serve others and help to create a better understanding between people.

To each one of you I wish a very happy Christmas and if throughout the Commonwealth we can all make a sustained effort, perhaps Christmas next year will be a much happier one for many more people.

ARKHAT, N.S. (CP) — A college for blacksmiths is being rebuilt here as a Centennial project.

The French brothers Thomas and Simon Lenoir, both master blacksmiths, 10 c k smiths and stone-cutters, settled in this Isle Madam community early in the 19th century and built what became known as the Old Stone Forge.

When the forge was built there were five shipyards here and Arichat was the second most important port in Nova Scotia. The forge did a thriving business making anchors, chains and other ship hardware.

It was also the place where Nova Scotia blacksmiths learned their trade. The course for apprentices lasted three years and the successful graduate left with hefty muscles, a certificate, £15 and a new suit of clothes.

The 46-foot-by-28-foot structure, built of heavy stone from nearby Port Hood, stands perfectly level today but doors, windows and the roof are missing. After it was abandoned as an ironworks it served many years as a bonded warehouse, a coal shed and an ice house.

OBITUARY

MRS. ALEXANDER CAMPBELL

Inserted by the family.

The communities of Irish town, Burlington and vicinity were saddened when they learned that Mrs. Alexander Campbell had passed away in the Prince County Hospital after a brief illness.

Although always active and possessing good health, she contracted congestion and on the advice of her physician entered the Prince County Hospital for treatment on October 22. Her condition at that time was not considered serious but all medical skill and tender loving care seemed of no avail as she gradually grew weaker and quietly, without pain or suffering, she entered her eternal rest on Sunday afternoon, November 21.

During her illness she was comforted by visits from her pastor, Rev. E.J. Flander and for two weeks previous to her death members of her family were constant companions at her bedside tending to anything that might add to her comfort.

Born at Burlington in 1868, she was the daughter of Jessie MacLeod and John A. Millman. A life-long resident of this community she took an active part in all community life where she worked faithfully for home, church and community. She was a staunch member of St. Stephen's Anglican Church, a Life Member of the Women's Auxiliary and a Charter Member of the Irishtown Women's Institute.

Left to cherish the memory of a kind and loving mother are four daughters and two sons namely: (Hilda) Mrs. Walter Moase, New Annan; (Alma) Mrs. Wallace Adams, Darvel; (Jean) Mrs. Clayton Staver, Burlington; (Marjorie) Mrs. Elmer Moase, New Annan; (Borden) F., Irishtown, with whom she resided; (Earle) Graham's Road. Also 17 grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren to whom she was devoted.

Her funeral which was largely attended was held on Tuesday, November 23. A short family service was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clayton Staver at 1:30 p.m. followed by service in St. Stephen's Church, Burlington at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. E.J. Flander.

Hymns sung were "When The Day Of Toil Is Done" and "Abide With Me". Her remains were tenderly laid to rest in the family plot in St. Stephen's Cemetery. Burial was by Mrs. Clayton Staver at 1:30 p.m. followed by service in St. Stephen's Church, Burlington at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. E.J. Flander.

Flowerbearers were: James Evans, John Evans, Col. E.W. Johnston, Archie Mann, Kenneth MacLeod, LeRoy Campbell. Flowerbearers: Lloyd Profit, Clair Profit, Donald Staver, Clair Campbell, Harold Evans. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Flowerbearers: Family: Spray — Grandchildren: Lid Spray — Great Grandchildren: Bouquet — Julie Gwendy, Gary, Alex; Floral basket — Principal and Teaching Staff of Elm Street School; Profit nieces and nephews: Wreath — Mrs. William Staver, Ruth, Elsie, Fenton; The Andrews Family; Faded Plants — Terence Reeses; Mary, Bob and Roy; Pupils: Grade III, Elm Street School; Darnley Women's Institute; Girls on Day Shift, Seabrooks Frosted Food Plant; Leroy, Ruby, Katherine, Ronnie; Memoriams — St. Stephen's Women's Auxiliary; Irishtown Women's Institute; Glenn and Eddie Murphy; Ruth and Annie Jane Williams.

Where the Light forever shines, Where no storm ariseth more, There the Saviour meets His loved ones on the shore.

We can spare her, loving Saviour. For we know thou guardest well Those who now with all the ransomed Sinless dwell.

CARD OF THANKS The family of the late Mrs. Alex H. Campbell wish to express their sincere thanks to Rev. E.J. Flander, Rev. Tannahill, J.L. Davison, Hillard Woodside, Mrs. Ken Pidgeon, doctors Auld, Clark and Downing also to the nursing staff of the Prince County Hospital and special nurses for kindness shown during the illness and death of their mother. A special thank you to all kind neighbours, relatives and friends who sent floral tributes, memoriams, letters and cards of sympathy or helped in any way during our recent bereavement.

We assure you, every act of kindness was deeply appreciated.

Little European Aid Due U.S. Effort In Viet Nam

By JAMES F. KING LONDON (AP) — As far as most Europeans are concerned, Americans are largely on their own in Viet Nam.

A survey by Associated Press correspondents in West European capitals makes clear that the most the U.S. effort can expect is some medical and technical aid, official moral support—and advice.

American soldiers who fight and die in Viet Nam have aroused sympathy among Europeans. But nearly everyone from government leaders down seems convinced the end of the conflict can come only at the conference table and not on the battlefield.

President Johnsons repeated offers to enter into unconditional discussions with the Communists strike a note in tune with European thinking. The bombing of North Viet Nam brings doubts of U.S. policy and some bitter criticism.

Washington's warnings of a China threat to Southeast Asia and world peace have not stirred noticeable apprehension among Europeans.

Viet Nam, gauged by the talk heard in European streets, pubs and coffee houses, seems a long way off.

RACKED BY BRITAIN The British government is an outspoken champion of U.S. policy in Viet Nam among members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Other NATO allies tend to go along—except for France—but in a more tacit manner.

British Prime Minister Wilson, in going down the line backing the Americans in Viet Nam, has stood against a powerful leftist bloc in his own Labor party who protest particularly the bombings of North Viet Nam. British support is strictly diplomatic, with no other direct aid.

President Charles de Gaulle, calling the Viet Nam conflict a "stupid war," has kept France aloof while advocating neutralization of South Viet Nam and withdrawal of all foreign influence.

The French leader, without going into details, has suggested the neutrality be guaranteed by China and the U.S. 7th Fleet. He insists that settlement of any conflict in Southeast Asia can not be achieved without China's concurrence.

West Germany is lined up behind the U.S. in Viet Nam and is giving both medical and economic aid to the Saigon regime.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said in a statement in September: "The defence of the free world by our American friends in Viet Nam is guarantee for us of American resolution and faithfulness in alliance. No form of military obligation has been asked of us nor is there any question of one."

Premier Aldo Moro says Italy has an understanding of the U.S. position in Viet Nam. He stops short of endorsing Washington's policy. He has been under pressure from socialist partner in the government to back admission of China into the United Nations and to take a more independent line on Viet Nam.

The Italian government sent to South Viet Nam a fully equipped field hospital, staffed with army doctors and attendants. Italian leftist organization are sending medical aid to the Communists.

Norway, sending medical supplies to South Viet Nam through the Red Cross, and Denmark, which has sent no aid, officially take a stand—that reflects a widespread attitude in Europe. Leaders in both countries appeal for ending the war through negotiations but warn against American troops pulling out under present circumstances.

Some anti-American demonstrations have broken out but these couldn't compare in size with the "stop-the-war" demonstrations in the U.S. itself.

Scientists Perfect Fish Flour

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. government scientists have perfected a cheap fish flour that could end the protein starvation that afflicts much of the world's population, the New York Times reports.

The newspaper says scientists in the bureau of commercial fisheries of the interior department say the flour could provide the normal protein requirements of 1,000,000 persons at a cost of half a cent a person a day.

The flour is made by grinding and processing fish, the paper says; it is almost odorless and tasteless and is light grey in color; it can be mixed with baked goods, noodles or gravy, milk shakes or baby foods.

EARLY PRODUCT BANNED The Food and Drug Administration banned a similar product in 1962 on grounds it was "polluted and filthy." The Times says the new flour has been certified "pure and wholesome."

United Nations studies show that 80 per cent of the world's people do not get enough protein and 60 per cent verge on protein starvation.

An Academy of Sciences study puts the world's annual catch of fish at 50,000,000 tons and estimates that it could be increased to 250,000,000 tons. That would produce 50,000,000 tons of the flour.

HIT BY FIRES BAHIA BLANCA (AP) — Bush fires fanned by strong southerly winds destroyed an estimated 90,000 acres of Argentine bushland and cattle pastures in scattered areas of southwestern Buenos Aires province. Reports said more than 600 head of prime cattle died.

TRIBES HAVE GROWN The Navajo population of the United States is about 80,000, appreciably larger than when the Spaniards first discovered the community.

MAO IS 72 TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung, chief of the Chinese Communist Party, observed his 72nd birthday Sunday. In line with a policy of regarding private lives of leaders as unimportant, no mention was made of the birthday in Peking radio broadcasts.
