MIDNIGHT SHOW — BIG BORDER SPY PLOT!

Honoured At Shower

Miss Ethel Beck, Alliston, and Mr. Don MacQuarrie, Roseneath, who will be married this week, were honored Friday evening by members of the congregation of the Church of Christ, Montague, at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. MacLure, Montague.

The guests of honour were escorted to special chairs by Miss Betty Anne Beck and a short program included an original song by eight young people, Janet Campbell, Beverley Beck, Laurel Nelson, Faye MacDonald, Malcolm MacPhee, Barry White, Errol MacLure and Donna MacLure, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Ralph Beck. The children then retired and later returned bearing many lovely gifts for the guests which were opened by Misses Barbara Beck and Anna MacLure, while the accompanying verses were read by Miss Shirley MacGregor. On behalf of himself and his bride-to-be, Don thanked their friends for their kind remembrances. A reading, "Memoirs of a Patient" by Mrs. Bruce MacPhee was very much enjoyed.

The program closed with the singing of the National Anthem and the graduates, a pleasant sight as their white mortar boards and gowns, marched out in a happy procession to receive the warm and well deserved congratulations of relatives and friends upon their achievements.

Graduation

Continued from page 1 must be ready to meet new complexities and challenges. The speaker advised them to be well informed and articulate, to possess knowledge and truth, in order to better the world about them. The greatest help, he said outside of the liturgy and the Sacraments, lies in the great Catholic classics and in the best of Catholic literature of today. In conclusion he quoted a few words of His Holiness Pope Pius which sum up Professor O'Grady's excellent address last night: "Never in history have events required so much heroism from women."

Graduating Ceremonies The program of the graduation ceremonies opened with the professional, and the salutatory by Miss Margaret Smith, who invited all those present to share with the graduates the joy of a day which, though to many commonplace, marked for them the end of one epic in life and the beginning of an even greater one. The graduating class and Grade IX and X students receiving certificates sang Franck's "Ye Fields of Light." His Excellency Bishop Boyle, assisted by His Honour Lieutenant Governor T. W. L. Prowse, then presented the Grade XI graduates with their diplomas Grade IX and X certificates were presented, and the prizes to those meriting them.

Following the singing of three songs, "Follow Me Down to Carroll," a French folk song, and "Al Dawn," by Gulesian, the valedictory was given by Miss Joan Aylward. She emphasized the importance of having high ideals, and being prepared to make the sacrifices required by those ideals, describing visions as the seedlings of reality. The valedictorian urged her classmates to follow the lofty example set by their patroness, to apply courage and strength similar to hers to their efforts to realize their long cherished dreams. Their high school diplomas, she said, were a pledge of even greater achievement in the future. In closing she expressed the gratitude of herself and her classmates to His Excellency, Bishop Boyle and to the clergy, for their interest and encouragement, to the Mother Superior and their teachers, and to their parents, to whom she offered the assurance that their sacrifices were not in vain.

After the singing of the school hymn, "Our Lady of Notre Dame," and Professor O'Grady's address to the graduates, His Excellency Bishop Boyle spoke briefly for a few minutes, congratulating the graduates, and commending the lofty idealism of their valedictorian. He remarked that he hoped that some of their white mortar boards and gowns, marched out in a happy procession to receive the warm and well deserved congratulations of relatives and friends upon their achievements.
