Ellen's Diary The Gray Dawns Breaks To A Perfect Harvest Day

And then, on the heels of the Fall night of rain and wind that the gray of the dawn, came this perfect harvest-day. Presently the sun rose, bright above the hills, gliding eastern windows, warming the wind from up the creek, and warming to the hearts of the farm-folk.

"Now this," we smiled approvingly "is the right day!" We opened the doors to the morning, so that, while breakfast, we might enjoy the colorful lawn-flowers, soon, to be lost to the frosts — So good that meal, which enters the household on its round, cheered, and well fed.

"See you!" Granddaughter smiled at the door in a blithe parting. Mack and Alex, his young shadow — and the pair as unlike in personality as can be, Mack with a smile and a match of songs on his lips, and Alex, a sober little lad, serious for his five years, came by.

"No call yet?" James questioned. "None," Alex said. "But" he smiled "I can tell you what we soon will have — I heard Daddy say it — a litter in that pigsty right in to be a fact. And returning from Zweibucken, Germany where they spent four weeks in the army, Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. Gulgus left for Greenwood, N.S. where Mr. Gulgus has been posted.

quite engaging, and interesting, the piglets are, in that being of "cross" lineage, their shoulders are white with white-yellow lines are spotted or banded with black.

"Let's take a walk" Alex begged in the afternoon, so "And which road shall we choose: the high road where we may find mud-spots, or the low, where the wild apples grow?" we asked.

"The low," he smiled. "So precious a time of day it was — the countryside sun-bathed and warm. And scented with the sweet ripeness of autumn. Here and there its tints were commencing to show on the maples, Gossamer floated, bees held high carnival in the meadow-flowers. Sparrows picked rows and berries, a dragonfly was on wing. Crickets sang of what they would be when summer had passed away."

"Here is where the little Junco had her nest, remember?" Alex said, pausing in the lane. "She hatched her three little ones. One egg was no good." "He stopped, and the ever-changing grasses and touched the little grassy nest."

"On feel," he suggested quietly. "It's all cold now. I wonder she'll come back to it in the spring? Perhaps she will. Anyway, we'll just leave it as we found it," he said rearranging the grasses, and turning away.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS L. CALLAGHAN

Young Couple Plight Troth In Ceremony At Kelly's Cross

St. Joseph's Church in Kelly's Cross, became the scene of a pretty summer wedding recently, when Mary Monica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McQuaid, Kelly's Cross, became the bride of Louis Leo Callaghan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Callaghan, Lot 65.

Rev. James Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony, and celebrated the nuptial mass. The altar was adorned with bouquets of multi-colored nuns.

Following the meeting lunch was served by the hostess and members of the committee in charge.

The groom's mother, wore a dress of black and white silk taffeta with white ac-rosories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Charlottetown Hotel for approximately 80 guests. Mr. James Callaghan, uncle of the groom, was the master of ceremonies, and Rev. Louis Callaghan, uncle of the groom, proposed the toast to the bride. Mrs. Clarence Coady, sister of the bride, circulated the guest book.

At the conclusion of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan left on a honeymoon trip to points of interest in the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a beige linen shantung dress with matching duster and coral accessories. Her corsage was of yellow carnations.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Charles Rowe, and Mrs. R. E. Spollett, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wilson, Mrs. Arthur V. Spillett and Mr. K. Cartwell, all of Charlottetown and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Platts of Tyne Valley.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

Margate UCW Plans For District Financial Convass

MARGATE — The Margate United Church Women met in the church vestry for the September meeting. The worship service opened with stinging scripture was read by Mrs. Arlene Whitehead, who also led in prayer. Mrs. Hillard Woodside read the meditation which was followed by prayer. The singing of "Happy the Home when God is There" closed this service.

The vice-president, Mrs. Heath Mayhew, occupied the chair. Thirteen members answered roll call, and two visitors were present. The treasurer gave a financial report. The community friendship secretary's report for the month included twenty-four home a nd hospital calls, six treats and twenty-nine cards.

It was decided that, instead of having a church supper this year, a convass would be made among the church women, in order to raise a sufficient amount of money. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for this convass.

The offering was received and dedicated by the vice president. The subject for program for next meeting will be "Missions with Mrs. Wilbur Dennis as leader. Roll call will be responded to with a verse of scripture containing the word, V.Thanks".

Mrs. Heath Mayhew conducted the program for the evening which consisted of Bible study with questions on "The Women of the Bible". Bills and pamphlets were distributed at the close of the study.

The Missagh Benedictine chapel meeting.

LAKE VERDE WI
The members of the Lake Verde Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Raymond Wood on September 12 for their regular meeting.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner and five members answered roll call. The minutes of the previous monthly meeting were read and it was decided to buy articles for the school.

The members decided to ship woollens in exchange for blankets at the next meeting.

Mrs. Owen Callaghan invited the members to her home for the October 2 meeting.

Following adjournment of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by the hostess and a special hour enjoyed.

"God's Greatest Nuisance"

Nova Scotia's famous "Father Jimmy" Tompkins was a true believer that God helps those who help themselves. In his "October Reader's Digest" read how this trail little priest became known as "God's Greatest Nuisance", and why he talked about the price of faith in the words of the apostle, and pioneered the self-help Anti-Gonorrhoea Movement to free fishermen and miners from his two pet hates — poverty and ignorance. Every year it gets harder to improve this car.

Isn't surprising. After all, we started with a sound idea, and we've been improving it for eleven years. So far we've made nearly 3,000 changes to make the Volkswagen a better automobile.

And they've noticed (with envy) that Volkswagen never goes out of fashion. If you want to see the small, but important, changes we've made for '63, visit your Volkswagen dealer. (If you prefer something completely new and exciting, he also has the Volkswagen 1500.)

Many people have decided that depreciation, caused by new models and style changes, is getting too expensive.

Here's where you can see and drive your favourite Volkswagen.
