Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

RETAIL IS REMINDED

The seeming little things we see At times the biggest proof to be. —Farmer Brown's boy.

That sounds queer and contradictory, but it is true. Over and over, all through life, you'll find it true. What Farmer Brown's boy means is that things that don't seem the least bit important, perhaps not even worth noticing in time may have tremendous results. Happy Jack Squirrel hides an acorn, buries it in the ground, then forgets it. From that little brown acorn grows a great oak tree, the acorns from which year after year feed many Squirrels. Little deeds, thoughtless little deeds, are often like that buried and forgotten little acorn.

Retail the Hawk and Mrs. Redtail were back at their tall tree in a tall tree in the Green Forest. That nest looked from the ground to be nothing more than a great mass of sticks in the top of a tree as bare as the sticks of which the nest was made. To be sure there were small closely wrapped brown leaf buds on every twig of that tree, but they had not yet begun to swell and there was no hint of greenness anywhere.

They had been back from the Sunny South several days and each day Mrs. Redtail had spent much time looking the old nest over. This was the fifth year they had returned to it. Each year in the past Mrs. Redtail had spent a few days in the neighborhood, now and then visiting it, standing on the edge of it, pulling a decayed stick out here, and another out there, tossing them away all the time pretending to be making up her mind whether or not to use that nest again.

Always in the end she had decided that there could be no home like the old home. Then they had become busy and fixed up the old nest, adding to it, building it bigger, not much bigger, but enough so that now it was perhaps twice as big as it had been that first year. Now it was just the beginning of daylight. They had spent the night perched in a neighboring tree. Like most other folk they are early risers. The Black Shadows were hurrying out of the Green Forest back to the Purple Hills. Retail was thinking of breakfast. So was Mrs. Redtail. They were trying to decide where to go hunting this morning. "Probably Reddy Fox hunted all night on the Green Meadows," said Retail. "And where he didn't, Jimmy Skunk did," said Mrs. Redtail. "And we may be sure that Hooty the Owl caught his share of Mice in the night. It is a wonder to me that there is a Mouse left. There should be some young Rabbits soon, but I suppose it is too early in the season to find any yet," said Retail.

"I have a notion to go over to the Smiling Pool. A Frog or two for breakfast would suit me fine."

TWO KINDS OF REASONING

The following deal, from a team-of-four contest, pointed up the difference between superficial and thorough reasoning, as applied to the bidding.

North dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K 9 3	♥ 10 8 7
♦ 9 8 5	♣ 5 2
♠ A 8 4	♥ A K Q 3
♦ K J 7 2	♣ Q J 9
♠ Q 6	♥ 10
♦ J 10 8	♣ 10
♠ 4 2	♥ A J 4
♦ 7 5 3 2	♣ 7
♠ 6 4	♥ K 10 6
	♣ A Q 8 5 3

This was the auction at the first table:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

East laid down the heart king, and when West showed his enthusiasm by signalling with the jack, East naturally continued to lead hearts. The outcome was, down one.

Discussing the hand, South said: "Gee—my two club overall was conservative, so when you (North) bid two notrump, I had every reason to think we'd be safe at three notrump."

The South player at the other table did not share this view. His bidding had been quite different at the critical stage:

Hearing North's two notrump bid, this South, far from "relaxing," did some thinking. If North had a spade stopper, (this South reasoned), along with the other material he needed for a bid over two clubs, there was good reason to fear a notrump contract, because if East was that weak in spades, he must have considerable strength elsewhere—and where was that most likely to be? Surely, in hearts, South's singleton. So South took the precaution of cue-bidding spades, thus implying in one breath that he had a very good hand and that he had some reason to dislike notrump. North, while nothing in hearts, now had a clear course.

South easily made five clubs, even though West opened a heart instead of a spade, by stripping hearts, then leading three rounds of diamonds. East, thrown in, had to return a spade.
