THE ELECTIONS.

Some Comments of the Press.

THE St. John Telegraph says:—"The victory that was won yesterday, by the liberal party at the polls is a splendid vindication of the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and of the conduct of the men who compose his cabinet."

The contest in this constituency was in reality one between Mr. Blair and the Canadian Pacific Railway, for Mr. Foster could not have obtained votes enough to save his deposit if he had run in St. John without its aid. As it was the Canadian Pacific used all its power and a good deal of money in a vain attempt to defeat the minister of railways, the only head of the railway department that has ever dared to set it at defiance. No doubt the time was well selected for its attempt to snatch all the profits of the Intercolonial Railway. A weak man placed in the position of Mr. Blair would have yielded to its demands, or at least endeavored to effect a compromise. But the minister of railways, relying on the good sense and spirit of the electors of St. John, faced the issue boldly, and the result proved that he has not relied in vain.

The Halifax Chronicle says: We congratulate the country on the result of yesterday's polling. It shows that the heart and judgment of the country are sound. It indicates that a new political era for Canada has dawned. The men and the methods of by-gone days are alike discredited. The people of Canada are no longer to be befooled or misled by slanders, appeals to prejudices or deceptive promises. They are not to be gulled by wild and unfounded prophecies of success on the part of a discredited party. * * * Canada has never had an Administration as worthy of confidence in all respects as the one which has just been given another lease of power. It has never had one so fiercely and unfairly assailed, so unjustifiably maligned.

STRENGTHENING THE MEMORY.

Many women complain of having a poor memory, and yet that faculty can be developed easily. Nor is it necessary to go to any professor of memory or to master any elaborate system in order to accomplish this result. One does not have to go to a gymnasium to strengthen one's arm or back. Sawing wood or rowing a boat will do it. Similarly memory may be cultivated by one's own efforts, and amid one's ordinary pursuits.

One man made the Sunday service of his church serve as a memory exercise. After the service he would endeavor to recall the numbers of all hymns sung, the chapter and verse of the Scripture lesson, words of anthem, text, and points of sermon. This required the paying of close attention and a conscious effort to impress these things upon his mind. By this and other equally simple means he developed a memory that was absolutely at his command.

Famous speakers who have memorized their speeches have adopted various simple devices to aid them. The late Hon. John Bright fixed in his mind different points in his speeches by first drawing little figures or pictorial representations. If part of his speech had to do with a bridge, he would make a sketch of such a structure, or if with Ireland or Scotland he would sketch a small map of the country or the district. He could remember these little figures or pictures. When he rose to his feet he could see them in imagination, and select them one by one as he proceeded from point to point in the address—not having any note or manuscript by him at all. That was the method best suited to him.

Bishop Courtney in Australia.

(Halifax Chronicle.)

The Bishop of Nova Scotia has created even in a field of twenty other bishops great enthusiasm in Australia wherever his eloquent utterances have been heard. Extracts from a letter received from Sydney, Australia, by the last mail written by a Nova Scotian. I was at the cathedral here this morning and heard the Bishop of Nova Scotia preach a grand sermon. I have heard him preach twice and speak at two meetings. On Friday night he was advertised to speak in the town hall, which was crowded with between 4,000 and 5,000 people. He kept the attention of the whole house all the time and was enthusiastically received. The chairman had to remind him that his time was nearly up; still he went on and finished a splendid speech amid great applause. He is, no doubt, a splendid speaker, and I was proud of Nova Scotia, for though there were twenty bishops there, none had the attention of the audience more than Bishop Courtney. On Wednesday, when the bishop arose to address the synod, the whole synod rose to greet him. So you see he is appreciated here. He is a fine man in every way."

The Montreal Witness remarks that Lord Roberts' splendid tribute to the army under his command in South Africa enables the world to form an idea of why he is so popular with all ranks in the service. Mr. Aitkins is a man concerning whose character and ways of thinking those who have not been brought into intimate relations with him know but little, and that little is erroneous. As a rule he is proud and reticent, and no man has a more hearty hatred of shams than he. If what Lord Roberts says of his army were not true, he dare not utter it, for he knows that the men of whom he speaks cherish no illusions on the score of character and conduct. Nowhere is blarney more thoroughly despised than in the barrack room, where men live every moment of their time under the full glare of a comradeship which reveals every man in his true nature and tolerates no pretences. It is this consideration as much as any other which should make the people of the British Empire feel a glow of justifiable pride in contemplating

Lord Roberts' tribute to his army. And if anything could have influence with the people it is his solemn warning against leading the men he praises to forget the magnificent reputation they have established. Lord Roberts, like Lord Wolseley, Lord Kitchener and all our most successful generals, are temperance men in the broad sense of the word, and fear nothing more for the British army than its demoralization by strong drink.

WHAT CAUSES DEAFNESS.

THE PRINCIPAL CAUSE IS CURABLE BUT GENERALLY OVER-LOOKED.

Many things may cause deafness, and very often it is difficult to trace a cause. Some people inherit deafness. Acute diseases like scarlet fever sometimes cause deafness. But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is catarrh of the head and throat.

A prominent specialist on ear troubles gives as his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably overstated but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of poor hearing were caused by catarrh.

The catarrhal secretion in the nose and throat finds its way into the Eustachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the catarrh which caused the trouble is cured.

Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far fetched, but any one at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause deafness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and a person suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which in the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or opiate and is as safe and pleasant for children as for their elders.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are a wholesome combination of Blood root, Guaiacol, Eucalyptol and similar antiseptics and their cure catarrh and catarrhal deafness by action upon the blood and mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

As one physician aptly expresses it: "You do not have to draw upon the imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvement and relief are apparent from the first tablet taken. All druggists sell and recommend them. They cost but fifty cents for full sized package and any catarrh sufferer who has wasted time and money on sprays, salves and powders will appreciate to the full the merit of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

The National Review of London publishes striking articles forcibly pointing Great Britain's need of political and economic reconstruction, the inadequacy of both the navy and army, as a present organized, to meet possible and even probable emergencies, and the inability of the country to cope with a sudden invasion. These come from the pens of the English authorities which are neither hysterical nor ignorant. George J. Goschen, the retiring first lord of admiralty, it is said, has let the British squadron in the Far East be out-numbered by the German, and the British fleet in the Mediterranean is asserted to be far below the necessary strength, without cold stores and basis, while the home dockyards are congested with reserve ships that cannot be kept in good order, and an effective mobilization at short notice is out of the question. Captain Cairnes, with convincing detail, exposes how comparatively easy it would be for France to land several hundred thousand men in England (basing his belief on the landing of the American troops near Santiago,) and to march them to London before the home mobilization scheme could be put in action.

The celebration is over. The shouting is done. The soldier boys are home, but not all. And now for a souvenir—a souvenir of those who have come home, of those who are still in Africa, and of those who will never return. Something which you can keep, something dainty, something which you can send to your friends away, something which contains pictures of ALL of the Island heroes. Such a souvenir can now be had at all of the bookstores and news stands. The price is ten cents each.

ABSOLUTELY DEAD

To facts is the condition of most of our fur dealing friends in Charlottetown. One fur man says he is the only man in Charlottetown who has enough money to buy a certain line of furs. Another man says he is the only man in town who knows anything about furs. "They are both right, of course." Again they all agree on one point, that is that they each sell more furs than anyone else, therefore buy more and sell cheaper.

BUT THEY SUPPORT

Their arguments with nothing but wind and gall, and cannot advance

ONE FACT

By which independent men can judge who is right. Now, we have not been blowing much about our magnificent stock of furs, but just now we are going to give you a few

FACTS

- 1st—Everybody knows that we have the largest store in the city and that we do the largest business.
2nd—We have a store in Sydney just as large as this one.
3rd—Our buyer buys the furs for both stores.
4th—That the more furs we buy the cheaper we can buy them.
5th—That when we buy for two of the largest stores in the Maritime Provinces we naturally buy more than the one store man, especially when it's store and business is smaller by a good deal than either of our stores or businesses.
6th—When buying so much the manufacturers naturally give us bigger discounts than to the little fellow, even though the little fellow does "feel as big as a balloon."
7th—He naturally shows us the very best values he has, so that he sells us if possible.
He naturally gives us the utmost satisfaction so as to assure our buying from him again.
Anyone can see that all these facts point to the one conclusion, that is that we buy most furs, buy them cheaper and get a better choice than any other fur dealers in Charlottetown.

We Buy More Furs Than any Other Man on P. E. I.

We Buy them Cheaper
We Sell them Cheaper
We Guarantee Every Fur
We'll Give the Money Back Every time if you Want it

We can buy any Fur garment in the known world today, provided always that we want it. If it's not good enough for our customers we do not want it. Now, when any fur dealer tells you that he buys more furs than WE do, if you are a big man just tell him what you think of him, but if you happen to be a small man, then 'tis better to leave him in his ignorance and conceit.
