Back to Canada.

AN OLD ONTARIO FARMER RETURNS DISGUSTED FROM THE WESTERN STATES.

According to a Windsor, Ont., despatch, a regular old-time canvas-covered pioneer wagon, drawn by two mules, attracted a great deal of attention at the ferry dock at that place one day recently. The turn-out was the property of Mr. T. Hinckley. Mr. Hinckley, who is accompanied by his wife and six children, tells the following story: "Fifteen years ago I was a prosperous and happy farmer on Wolfe Island, opposite Kingston. I heard many glowing accounts of the far west, and becoming fascinated with them, sold my handsome piece of property and went to Southern Kansas. It would take more than words to describe to you the suffering and misery we have gone through since we struck there; but I may be thankful that I was able to leave. The only people making any money there are land sharks, who, by their falsehoods, lure innocent people to their lands. If we were successful in our crops we could not realize anything on them. To give you some examples: Corn is selling at ten cents a bushel, oats at five cents, wheat thirty-five to forty cents, and other things in proportion. Five weeks ago we left the town of Coleridge, and although we have had some rough weather, yet the trip has not been unpleasant. I tell you, when I laid my eyes on Canadian soil yesterday, my wife and I felt like new people. I am going back to my friends a few miles from Toronto."

England and Portugal.

WILL AMICABLY SETTLE THEIR EAST AFRICA DISPUTE.

The Cologne Gazette publishes a despatch from its correspondent at Lisbon stating that in consequence of the change of the Portuguese ministers at London, the proposal of Portugal for holding an international conference to settle the Anglo-Portuguese dispute concerning the territory in East Africa will not be dispatched before Thursday. Portugal, the despatch says, is willing to submit the questions in dispute to the conference now sitting at Brussels, but would prefer a special conference. Spain, France, Italy, Austria and Russia favor holding the conference. Germany made no official statement as to her position on the subject. The despatch says Glynn Petre, the British minister at Lisbon, informed the Portuguese government that England will agree to the holding of the conference.

Bad For the Master.

SCHOOL BOYS TURN UPON THE TEACHER AND THROW HIM DOWN STAIRS.

A Campbellton, N. B., despatch of the 5th says: Yesterday before dinner a row took place at the High School here, in which one of the teachers named Steeves from near Moncton, was badly wounded. It appears that a young son of J. A. Johnson, locomotive foreman here, was ordered to leave the school and go home, and when he started to go he was ordered to return and take his seat but refused to do so; wherefore the teacher seized him and attempted to thrust his head against the wall. At this juncture the son of Conductor A. McLellan took a hand in, and another boy named Murray came to the aid of his schoolmates, and in less than five minutes the teacher was badly slugged and thrown down stairs, where he was afterwards attacked by a mob of school boys and run from the premises. The school was thrown in a commotion, the trustees had to be called together, and the affair is still unsettled. A strong feeling has been aroused against the teacher, who, it is claimed, is all to blame. His assailants are said to be good scholars and noted for their good behaviour.

Gods and Ends.

"Poor fellow, he died in poverty," said a man of a person lately deceased. "That isn't anything exclaimed a seedy bystander. "Dying in poverty is no hardship. It's living in poverty that puts the screw on a fellow."

He had turned and twisted in his seat for some time, vainly trying to make an impression on the young lady who sat opposite to him. At last he broke forth with, "Does this train stop at the next station?" "I don't know," she quietly replied; adding, "I hope so, if you think of getting out there."

An Irishman tried to shoot a sparrow with an old Queen Ann musket. He fired. The bird with a chirrup or two flew away unconcerned in the foreground, and Pat was in the background. Picking himself up and shaking his fist at the bird he exclaimed, "Be jabbers, ye wouldn't a-chirruped if you'd been at this ind of the gun."

At dinner, one evening, Miss Jay was most amiable to a very young captain, who sat next to her. He was highly pleased at being on such nice terms with a live actress. Suddenly she said, in her artless, pretty manner, "I am to take a buy's part in a new play, and I have been watching you ever since we were introduced. You don't mind, do you?" "It made a fellow feel such a fool, don't you know," remarked the captain, as he told the story in confidence.

Bassompierre one day amused Louis XIII. and the Court by telling them how, when serving in the capacity of ambassador to Spain, he first entered Madrid. "I was mounted on the very smallest mule in the world—" "Ah!" interrupted the joke-loving king, "it must indeed have been an amusing sight to have seen the biggest ass in the place mounted on so small a quadruped." With a profound obeisance, came the quiet rejoinder: "I was your Majesty's representative."

A woman who had suffered from a bad back's rheumatism, traced him to a tavern and where he was playing cards with several companions. Setting a covered dish she held in her hands down upon the table she said: "Presuming, husband, that you were too busy to come home to dinner, I have brought you yours," and departed. With a forced laugh he invited his friends to dine with him, but on removing the cover from the dish, found only a slip of paper, on which was written: "I hope you will enjoy your meal; it is the same that your family has at home."

The Princess of Wales, hearing that Gay had written a tragedy called "The Captives," desired to hear it read by the author. He accordingly attended at her residence. Unfortunately the poet, being an extremely nervous man, was so overcome with excitement at the introduction that he never observed a large Japanese screen until he respectfully backed upon it, and sent it crashing to the ground, amid the screams of the Princess and her ladies. It is needless to say that his subsequent reading of the tragedy did his work little justice, and the Princess appears to have been but slightly impressed by his genius.

The story is told that Longfellow and Fields were making a short pedestrian tour some few years ago, when to their surprise an angry bull stood on the pathway, evidently determined to demolish both poet and publisher. "I think," said Fields, "that it will be prudent to give this reviewer a wide margin." "Yes," replied the poet, "it appears to be a disputed passage."

Dr. Radcliffe, physician to William III., lost the favor of his royal patient by a too candid reply when pressed to give his real opinion regarding a complaint in the ankles from which the king was suffering. "I would not take your majesty's two legs for your three kingdoms," was the too truthful answer which would never have been uttered by a man of readier wit.

Local and Other Items.

RE-ELECTED.—Mayor Jones and the old town council for Parrisboro, N. S., have been re-elected.

AN UNIQUE QUILT.—Mrs. John Murray, Newton Faim, Pictou County, N. S., who is 84 years of age, is engaged in making a quilt the material of which was brought from Scotland 63 years ago.

LIFE INSURANCE.—The growing popularity of life insurance is illustrated in the statement that a total of $650,000,000 new insurance was issued in this country in 1889. The policies in the stronger companies average very much larger in amounts, showing increased confidence in the business.

FOR HIGH LICENSE.—The recent civic elections in Montreal were a victory for the high license party. A mayor and ten aldermen who favor a special tax of one thousand dollars on saloons, one who is not in favor of the tax, and one whose intentions have not been publicly declared, have been elected.

ANOTHER SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. D. E. LeBlanc, of Coeque River, died suddenly on Wednesday morning, January 29th, of heart disease. He got up in the morning to light the fire, and went back to bed, telling his adopted son to look after the cattle. He died on lying down on the bed. He was about 50 years old.

IN THE FOG.—On Tuesday afternoon last, at St. John, in the midst of the fog, shunting engine No. 100, backing out of the I. C. R. yard, ran into another shunter coming in. The tender of No. 100 was slightly damaged while the cowcatcher of the other was badly smashed. No one was injured but the drivers and firemen of both engines were shaken up considerably.

HE WINDS UP THE CLOCK.—The people of West Chazetook, N. S., and the neighborhood have been annoyed and frightened lately by a mysterious character, who goes from house to house demanding food and taking liberties. He gives no account of himself, but he makes himself at home wherever he goes. When leaving a house he winds up the clock and marks the door with red chalk as payment for his entertainment.

AN EXPENSIVE TRAIL.—The St. John Sun says: The Finance and Accounts Committee of the Municipal Council met yesterday afternoon to consider the various claims in connection with the McDonald murder trial. No action was taken, as only a few of the members were present. Another meeting will be held next week. There is a disposition on the part of several members of the committee to refuse to pay the bills, which amount to something like $2,000.

A PLOT FOILED.—A Montreal despatch of the 4th says: A plot to escape arranged by a number of convicts in the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary has been revealed to the authorities by one of their number. The plotters were to open a wall in the chapel leading to the corridor where exit could be easily obtained. The work could be done quietly during the day in the chapel where there was no one after mass. A number of tools were found concealed in the chapel. The leader of the gang, an English speaking convict, has been severely punished. Alarm was given a few days ago when the large wooden wall through which the convicts came nearly passing at the time of the revolt, came near toppling over, leaving the yard open. This has since been made secure.

THE KENTUCKY WAY.—A recent Louisville, Ky., despatch says: For two years George Waddle, a young man belonging to a prominent family of Somerset, has been paying attentions to Miss Virginia Brown, also of a well known family. Waddle had promised the girl to marry her on Thursday, but yesterday he sent her a note stating that he was going to leave the country, and asked an answer. The girl secured a pistol and answered the note in person. Upon meeting Waddle in the road she put the pistol to his head and told him to choose between marriage and the grave. He chose marriage and started to walk with her, but at the first opportunity he grasped the pistol and fled, and nothing has been heard of him since. The girl swears she will hunt him down and kill him on sight.
