Busiest Season Predicted As Seaway Traffic Begins

MONTREAL (CP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway opened for traffic Monday with shipping officials predicting this season will be the waterway's busiest yet.

The 26,000-ton Montrealais, a Canadian lake vessel, was the first ship to clear the locks heading westward.

The vessel, skippered by Capt. John A. Simpell, was followed by the tiny laker Soreldoc, a veteran of the days when traffic between Montreal and the Great Lakes used the old Lachine Canal, and the West German freighter Polaris, first ocean ship through the Seaway this year.

This year ships like the 730-foot Montrealais will be able to use their full cargo-carrying capacity for the first time in the five-year history of the Seaway because authorities have extended the permissible draft to 25½ feet.

MEANS EXTRA CARGO

The maximum draft allowed until now was 25 feet. Shipping officials estimated that the extra six inches will permit lakers to carry another 20,000 bushels of grain or an extra 600 tons of iron ore on each trip.

This is also the last year that shipping companies are expected to pay the temporary rates set for the Seaway when it opened in 1959.

Seaway legislation calls for a review of tariffs for ships and cargo after the fifth season.

Last season, 25,500,000 tons of cargo moved through the system, an increase of 5,000,000 tons over the previous year, but still 10,000,000 tons below the figure predicted by the Seaway experts before the 1962 season.

As the Montrealais, Soreldoc and Polaris were clearing the locks other ships waited their turn. They included two West German freighters, the Annemarie Kruger and Innstein, the Norwegian freighter Stolt Avenir, the British freighters Carrigan Head, Manchester City and Cleveland, the Canadian laker Iroquois.

The Polaris, will make its first stop at Toronto, where a prize awaits the first ocean-going vessel to reach there.

Traffic will move only during daylight hours because flashing buoys have not been installed along the navigation route.

FEAR ICE FLOES

The hazard of drifting ice that could force the buoys out of position.

Another Canadian freighter, the Cove Transport, cleared the locks down bound at Lake Ontario. Four other freighters, all bound for Montreal, were behind her.

Meanwhile, the giant floating crane Hercules was towed towards Montreal from Sore, 40 miles down the St. Lawrence River from here.

The huge crane, built last year for the Seaway authority, will be available for use in Montreal harbor when not required along the channel.

At Sept-Iles, Que., 325 miles northeast of Montreal, the first ore-carrier arrived to open the 1963 iron ore shipping season.

The 16,000-ton laker Ningpon Bay will be loaded with 15,000 tons of ore for Toledo, Ohio.

Last season about 10,500,000 tons of ore were shipped from Sept-Iles to Great Lakes ports.

Washington Post Acquires Interest In Mersey Plant

LONDON (AP) — The Washington Post has acquired a 49-per-cent interest in its main newsprint supplier, the Bowater Mersey Paper Company of Nova Scotia, it was announced Monday.

The company has a mill at Liverpool, N.S., with productive capacity of more than 160,000 short tons of newsprint a year.

Under the agreement, Bowaters retains control of the mill and its management will continue unchanged.

Bowater Paper Corp., said he viewed the agreement with a great deal of satisfaction and was convinced it will be to the long-term advantage of Bowaters and the Washington Post.

Philip L. Graham, president of the Washington Post Co., also expressed personal satisfaction with the agreement, a statement issued here said. He said newsprint from the Mersey mill had played an essential part in the growth of the Washington Post during the last 25 years.

New Fighting Reported On Plain Of Jars

VIENTIANE (AP) — Reports of new fighting of the Plaine des Jarres in violation of a cease-fire pledge kept the Laotian military crisis at the boiling point Monday.

Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma, neutralist head of the coalition government, obtained the pledge after a meeting with the neutralist and pro - Communist military leaders Sunday. But even then he seemed doubtful the pledge would be kept.

Fighting erupted on the Plaine des Jarres on March 31 in which the neutralists came off seconds best. Efforts have been under way since to avert resumption of civil war in Laos, in which the Communists might win the upper hand.

Avtar Singh of India, chairman of the International Control Commission, returned from the area late Monday and told reporters "the situation continues to be dangerous." The commission, made up of Canadian, Polish and Indian representatives, is trying to keep the situation from growing worse.

Neutralist forces of Gen. Kong Le have been forced out of Xieng Khouang.

Kong Le said fighting erupted after the effective hour of the cease-fire agreement, 5 p.m. Monday. He claimed six of his men were wounded.

Another amazing Volkswagen

(It could use a few good jokes.)

Remember some of the wise-cracks about our beetle-shaped car?
"Hey, George. When are ya gonna get one for the other foot?"
Or the one about the lady who thought the engine in the rear was a spare.
Very funny. Very good publicity.
Now we've added a new model and everyone is taking it seriously. (Even our competitors say it's nothing to laugh at.)

Can you help us? Just for fun, apply your sense of humour to these sobering features:
The VW 1500 Sedan has two luggage trunks. One at the back, like a conventional car, and one at the front, like a Volkswagen.
The engine is in the back (over the drive wheels) to give better traction. And it's cooled with air so it can't boil over.
Standard equipment includes: bucket seats that adjust to 49 different positions; heater/defroster; electric clock; windshield washers; five arm rests; padded dashboard; padded sun visors; side view mirror; and a floor mounted gear shift.
If you need more inspiration, your VW dealer will let you test drive the new Volkswagen 1500. But be on your guard. Once you find how well it performs, you'll be inclined to take it seriously too.
