DEATH OF PROFESSOR JOHNSTON.—We

(Daily Express) regret to record the death of our distinguished countryman, Professor J. F. W. Johnston of Durham, which recently took place at his residence in that city. Deceased, we believe, was a native of Kilmarnock, in Ayrshire, in which town—like Rennie, the naturalist, subsequently a Professor in King's College, London—he received the rudiments of his education. From his earliest years, he was devoted to scientific inquiry; and the success which attended his favourite pursuits was at length crowned by his appointment to the Chair of Chemistry in the University of Durham, where he laboured with great enthusiasm and the widest approval. He was born in the year 1796, so that at the time of his death, he was in his 59th year. He was the author of many excellent and popular works, which were issued from the press of Messrs. Blackwood of this city; and these, besides displaying considerable literary merit, stamped him as the first organic chemist of this age. His best known work, perhaps, was his latest—the "Chemistry of Common Life." In private life, he was distinguished by his amiability and a cordial warmth of disposition, which endeared him to his family and a numerous circle of friends.

GENERAL PELISSIER.—A letter, dated

Sobotsopol, says:—"I was rather surprised at the appearance of the French Commander of the forces. From his character I expected to have seen a young, active man, and not General Pelissier, is an enormous fat man, with very white hair, which is cut very close; he is so fat, that he is unable to ride any distance. He was in an open carriage drawn by four greys, and two soldiers as outriders, and an Arab with a white flowing robe followed it. The General was dressed in uniform, with a number of decorations on his breast, and over his shoulders he wore a white cloak somewhat similar to those worn by the Arab chiefs. He is not very tall, and his face has rather a good-humoured expression, and different from what your imagination would portray from his history, either here or in Africa."

DEATH OF A REMARKABLE PERSON.—A

short time since, a woman named Jennie Bell died at Hollowshillgate, Cannobie, at the advanced age of 100 years. The deceased was born, resided, and died in the cottage, where her father and mother began housekeeping more than a century ago. Her grandfather, who resided at Ridding, provided the Pretender with a bed on his march southward in 1745; and it was Jennie's mother that baked the bread for his supper, and waited on him.

JEWISH LIBERALITY.—Whilst the Rev. J. Mills (author of the "British Jews") was staying at Jerusalem recently, the Jews, during the service in synagogue, offered up the following prayer on his behalf, the result of friendly intercourse and respect:—"He who dispenseth salvation unto kings, and dominion unto princes, whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom; who delivered his servant David from the destructive sword; who maketh a way in the sea, and a path through the mighty waters; may he bless, preserve, guard, assist, exalt, and greatly prosper our most esteemed friend, James Mills. May the supreme King of kings, through his infinite mercy, preserve him and grant him life, and deliver him from all manner of trouble and danger."

HUMBOLDT.—Baron Alexander von Humboldt has just celebrated his eighty-sixth anniversary; at his great age, he still unremittingly continues his important labours.

AGED PARISHIONERS.—The Rev. Dr.

Emerson of Salem, Massachusetts, who is now in the fifty-first year of his pastorate, says the Salem Register, preached in the South Church pulpit on Sabbath forenoon, the 23d ult., to the aged, from the text, "when I am old and grey headed, O God, forsake me not." The venerable Doctor, who claimed the right to address his aged friends with propriety, on the score of being one of them, stated the remarkable fact, that in his congregation, there were yet living eighty persons who were upwards of seventy years of age.

A STRANGE CONJUNCTION.—Among the various curious and almost incredible things, in connection with the war in the East, which have recently turned up, is the following:—In a lecture lately given by the Rev. Dr. Cumming, he quoted the following lines, which he stated that he had copied from an old volume of the fifteenth century:

In twice two hundred years, the Bear
The Crescent will assai;
But if Clock and Ball unite,
The Bear will not prevail.
But mark in twice ten years again,
The Bull and Lion shall be seen,
The Cross shall stand, the Crescent wane,
Dissolve, and disappear.

JAPANESE LITERATURE.—One of the

specimens of Japanese literature brought home by Commodore Perry is a poem on tea, of which a stanza is thus translated in the Weekend Advertiser:
When the golden pipe sends out its curling smoke,
And the wind gently sighs through the thick blossoms,
Then choose some leaves from the fairy's blood-rose tree.
And make the light yellow tea we so much love.
At the first sip we feel the thrill,
And every vein and pore craves, Fill!
The tongue palpates the pleasant treat,
And spirits leap with glad'ning beat.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.—An interesting

experiment was lately performed by Professor Faraday. A diamond, held by a little platinum clamp, and ignited to whiteness in the oxy-hydrogen flame, was plunged while incandescent into a jar of oxygen. It was speedily dissipated into gas, which was found to be carbonic acid.

THE VICER REAL RESIDENCE AT TORONTO.

—"The Governor, says the Toronto Leader," will find us a frugal people, truly. Consulting history he will discover, that the mansion prepared for his reception was six years ago considered too costly for his predecessor. And if he is disposed to call in question our notions of respectability, let us reply that we are not ampie justice to our ideas of economy. "The concern intended for him all but escaped falling on the occasion of the Queen's birth day some two years ago. The verandah alone was worth the weight of some fifty men; and the whole structure was rotten enough in appearance to render its occupation a very considerable risk.

A rich man wears a torn coat, a thread-bare vest, or a worn hat; it is proper in him, if it best suits his fancy; but a man with moderate means must dress well, or he is despised by his fellows. The former will be content with a ragged coat, dress better; the latter must dress well, because he cannot afford to be. A man who has more money than he wants, can borrow as much as he pleases; the man who has no money and wants it often experiences difficulty, in borrowing a dollar. Poverty travels barefooted over a ragged path; industry is harnessed to a carriage and wealth rides in it.
