

ANTI-GREEK RIOTING IN ISTANBUL

Reaction To Greek Bombing Of Consulate

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Violent anti-Greek rioting exploded in Istanbul Tuesday night. Tens of thousands of young Turks roamed through the city, smashing Greek store windows, wrecking store interiors and over-turning automobiles.

The rioting erupted in a sudden reaction to the dynamiting of the Turkish consulate in the Greek city of Salonika.

It broke out at 6:30 p.m. and more than two hours later mobs still charged through the streets bent on destruction.

The crowds attempted to set fire to one big Greek Orthodox church in the city but were driven off by police and firemen.

The rioting broke out in the Greek city of Salonika because of a statement by Turkish Foreign Minister Fatma Rustu Zorlu in London, where Britain, Greece and Turkey are conferring on the future of the island of Cyprus.

Zorlu told newspaper men the Greek government must prevent terrorism on Cyprus. "If they want peace in the east Mediterranean and if they want continued friendship with Turkey and Britain," the rioters ripped out store furnishings and hurled them about the cobbled streets. Merchandise, from groceries to high priced furniture, was strewn about the streets, sidewalks and squares of the ancient city.

Thousands of other residents poured into the streets or hung out of windows to cheer or just watch the destruction.

NO CASUALTIES REPORTED There were no immediate reports of casualties, but scores of ambulances were seen dashing through the streets with sirens blaring.

The Salonika explosion occurred early today. The dynamite went off in the consulate yard. No one was injured, but windows of the consulate and nearby houses were broken.

The blast came as unrest increased in Greek political quarters because of a statement by Turkish Foreign Minister Fatma Rustu Zorlu in London, where Britain, Greece and Turkey are conferring on the future of the island of Cyprus.

New Storm Is Brewing In Gulf of Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Hurricane-hunter planes probed a highly squall line off the coast of Texas Saturday and weathermen eyed a potential new storm in the Gulf of Mexico.

The gusty, wet weather in the Gulf was part of a torrential squall from tropical storm Gladys, blowing itself out in Mexico.

Gladys smacked the Mexican coast late Monday, did an unexpected turn and headed toward Tampico instead of the lush Rio Grande valley of Texas.

Heavy rains blamed on Gladys affected 40,000 families in flooded low portions of Mexico City.

They touched off rains up to six inches in southern Texas.

AMNESTY OFFER

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — Singapore's Chief Minister David Marshall announced Tuesday night his government would offer an amnesty to Communists in the colony this week.

Although Communist cells are known to exist in Singapore, there has been little overt activity by Communists for some time.

Multi-Million Dollar Scholarship Program In United States Announced

CHICAGO (AP) — A multi-million dollar scholarship program to finance the college education of the most talented high school seniors in the United States was announced Tuesday. Sponsors said it was the biggest undertaking of its kind in history.

A $20,500,000 corporation, financed largely by the Ford Foundation, has been founded to handle the program. It expected contributions from private industry materialize, the corporation expects to award 1,000 to 5,000 scholarships a year within five years.

In the first year, beginning in the fall of 1956, the corporation's own funds and contributions from industry will provide about 350 scholarships, worth approximately $2,000,000.

Details of the program were told at a press conference by officers of the newly-founded National Merit Scholarship Corporation of Evanston, Ill.

HUGE TALENT HUNT

"It is a talent search on a large scale," said Laird Bell, a Chicago lawyer who is chairman of the corporation's board of directors.

"About one-half of the superior students in our high schools do not go to college. This seems to be a national waste. Several foundations have been studying the problem. The Ford Foundation finally crystallized its ideas into this corporation."

Of its capital, Bell said, the corporation will spend $1,000,000 a year for 10 years on four-year scholarships for talented students and payments to the colleges they choose to attend.

BIG FIRMS CONTRIBUTE

An additional $8,000,000 is available as matching funds for contributions by private industry.

Another $2,500,000 for administrative expenses was given by the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

T. V. Houser, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck and Company, said the Sears Foundation would give $150,000 the first year for 100 scholarships to students interested in business.

He said Sears intends to add another 100 scholarships each year for the second, third and fourth years of the program.

Time Inc. has made a grant of $30,000 to provide five four-year scholarships.

Output Of All-Weather Jet For RCAF Cut Sharply

Canadian Press Staff Writer FARNBOROUGH, England (CP) — Orders of the RCAF, production of the CF-100 all-weather jet for Canadian fighter squadrons has been cut to 10 a month, it was learned Tuesday.

Production by A.V. Roe of Montreal, Ont., was reduced previously this year from 25 machines a month to 15. Avro staff consequently has been cut to 14,000 from 16,000.

The twin-engine CF-100 being displayed and flown here is Canada's main defence weapon. It is being produced for 13 RCAF squadrons—nine at home and four on the 1st Air Division stationed in France and Germany.

The latter will get theirs next year. Avro officials say that overhead and administration costs must remain the same although production has been cut to less than half that of late last year.

Therefore, these costs are spread over 10 aircraft instead of 25 as previously.

A CF-100 originally cost about $1,000,000 but the price now has dropped to slightly more than $600,000.

Compared with Britain, Canada is having little trouble in fighter plane production.

SABRE JET BETTER The Hawker Hunter jet fighter now being delivered to the RAF for squadron service is said to be not as good as the RCAF's Sabre jet fitted with the Avro Orenda engine. The Hunter until recently was considered the best fighter available for the RAF.

Others are coming along now, but they aren't in full production yet.

Canada, on its first try, came up with an operational plane particularly suited to the country's needs—the CF-100. It took some time to work the bugs out of the day-and-night fighters.

But the latest version, fully operational, has a speed of some 600 miles an hour at about 55,000 feet and a range of nearly 2,000 miles.

The successor of the CF-100, the CF-105, will have a speed of about 1,500 miles an hour. If all goes well on the design of the plane, and with the prototype, the CF-105 probably will be flying about late 1959 or early 1960.

INSPECTED BY EXPERTS The CF-100 is the first plane from outside Britain to go on display.

This fighter, manufactured by Canadair Ltd. of Montreal, takes the same engine.

The CF-100 has attracted a lot of attention because the design is different from that of recent British war planes. The two engines are set close to the fuselage in contrast to its nearest British counterpart, the twin-jet fighter bomber, the Canberra.

Prime Minister Visits Alberta

(By R. J. Anderson, Canadian Press Staff Writer) CALGARY, (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent arrived Tuesday in an Alberta that was sunny as advertised. Calgary, his first stop in the province, lived up to its reputation for hospitality and the prime minister loved every minute of it.

On a non-political tour to help Alberta and Saskatchewan celebrate their golden jubilee, the 72-year-old prime minister was as beaming and ruddy as the bright sun overhead when he stepped from the RCAF aircraft that brought him from Regina.

He was ready for Calgary, the Stampede City, with a white, 10-gallon hat "broken out" for the occasion.

Mr. St. Laurent quickly set out on a round of ceremony that featured members of his party hardly half his age. He seemed not the least hindered by the walking cast on his left leg though he leaned heavily at times on his stick. The prime minister broke his ankle last month on a fishing trip.

China Ready To Grant 12 Exit Permits

GENEVA, (AP)—Red China announced Tuesday she is ready to issue exit permits to 12 detained American civilians. It was the first positive result of five weeks of secret conferences on freeing 41 U. S. civilians held by the Chinese Communists.

Wang Ping-nan, Peiping's ambassador to Poland, made the announcement during his 13th meeting with U. Alexis Johnson, U. S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

Wang said nine Americans, including four women and two young girls, can leave at once, while three others may leave as soon as they are able or willing.

438 Traffic Deaths In U. S.

CHICAGO, (AP)—At least 438 persons died in traffic accidents in the United States during the three-day Labor Day weekend, exceeding advance predictions but somewhat short of the record toll for a Labor Day holiday.

An additional 80 persons were drowned and 90 died in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 608, also somewhat short of the record. The toll was kept from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

Life-Savers Giving Up Too Soon Means Drownings

TORONTO (CP)—Would-be life-savers often give up too soon in attempts to resuscitate drowning victims, says Dr. Gordon Bates of the Health League of Canada.

In an editorial in Health magazine he writes that forgotten rules may be responsible for an increase in drowning deaths.

Artificial respiration should be applied for a minimum of four hours or until rigor mortis sets in. It should be applied immediately

Move To Soothe Red Delegates

By HAROLD MORRISON Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's top diplomat will play host to the leader of the Soviet agricultural delegation today in what appears to be a Canadian government move to soothe the ruffled feelings of three Canadian cities. They decided to by-pass Toronto altogether because of fear of further demonstrations and because of a newspaper report that the city would officially ignore their visit.

67 Men Escape In Globemaster Crash reached a low of 78.8 last September, but apparently has been easing upward ever since. Considered more indicative of employment conditions were the hours worked. With orders down and some factories closing for lack of business a year ago, average hours worked each week in the industry were 39.8 in June 1954. They had risen by some five per cent to 41.8 hours last June. But imports from Japan, the United States, India and other countries competing for Canadian sales were still maintaining a high level. As a result the Canadian manufacturers generally feel their position had not materially improved since they still shared no more of the home market than before.

and within the Canadian industry itself. The result was that production of Canadian textiles in all three main divisions—cotton, wool and synthetics—had increased, but profits had been shaved almost to nothing in many cases, on grounds it is better to keep a mill running even at a small loss than to let it close altogether.

EMPLOYMENT HIGHER A bureau of statistics index figure, based on 1949 equals 100, shows employment in the primary textile industry at 85 last June, up from 79.1 in June, 1954. A bureau official said that represented about 68,000 persons at work in the industry in June. Employment in the industry

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., (CP)—Premier Flemming said Tuesday New Brunswick's traffic toll is causing his government "a tremendous amount of concern." New Brunswick has many things it can point to with pride, he told the Eastern Canada Association of Highway officials, but its highway accident rate isn't one of them. "We are in the unenviable position of having either the worst or the next to worst record in the country," he said in addressing delegates from the four Atlantic provinces. "The rate of highway fatalities is a matter of great concern." Mr. Flemming, who holds the public works portfolio in the N.B. government, spoke to about 60 association members at their second annual conference opened here. His audience included deputy ministers of highways and public works, engineers and administrators.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., (CP)—If the weather holds today the United States Air Force said it will begin evacuating 35 men from the Norwegian vessel Jopeter, crippled and helpless in the grip of an Arctic ice jam. Rescue machinery was set up Tuesday and the USAF said everything was in "high gear" awaiting good weather. The 486-ton trawler-type ship is helpless in a pack of shifting ice about 10 miles from shore of Koldewey island off the northeast coast of Greenland, one of the world's bleakest and most inaccessible spots. She was trapped Saturday by rafting ice that threatened to break her up but she fought free and struggled 26 miles to within six miles of open water. Then her single propeller was wrenched off early Monday. Northeast winds shifted the ice around the Jopeter about 20 miles so the ship is only 10 miles from land. His Worship, J. David Stewart, D.S.O. Mayor of Charlottetown was elected President of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities at the annual meeting of the organization held in Edmonton last week, received the following message of congratulations from the Right Honourable Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada yesterday. Office of the Prime Minister, Ottawa, Sept. 2, 1955. Dear Mr. Stewart: I have been pleased to learn that you have recently been elected President of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. Please accept my sincerest congratulations and my best wishes for success in your added responsibilities. With kind regards, Your sincerely, Louis St. Laurent.

and without cessation. Ordinary signs of death do not apply to drowning victims. Although for several hours a patient has not breathed, has no pulse, detectable heart beat or eye reflex, he may be revived. There is hope for a person submerged as long as half an hour. Air passages must be clear if artificial respiration is to succeed, he says, and the rules also apply to all cases of asphyxia.
