Conclave of P. E. Island Y's Men's Clubs Held Over Week-end At S'ide

A district conclave of P. E. I. Y's Men's Club was held yesterday in Summerside with some 69 Y's Men from the Charlottetown Centennial Club, Charlottetown, Alpha Club and the host club, Summerside, in attendance.

District Governor Y's George MacDougall acted as chairman for the day's activities.

At 2:30 Sunday afternoon at Howard's Restaurant, the chairman officially opened the conclave. Y's Jim Murphy, as president of the Summerside club, extended a cordial welcome to all in attendance.

In a forum on youth work Gordon Maxwell, secretary of the Charlottetown Y.M.C.A. opened the discussion, which was entered into by members from all three clubs present. Y's George MacDougall stressed the need for more service from all members as individuals. Y's Jim MacLean, president of the Centennial Club pointed out the importance of leadership in youth work being supplied by Y's Men. Y's Gordon Hutcheson suggested that aptitude tests for leadership be used. Hi-Y work was generally discussed as a phase of the youth work of the Y's Men's Club and the Y.M.C.A.

OUTLINES WORK

Y's Horace Macarlane outlined the efforts made by the Summerside Club in the fields of boy Scouts, Little League baseball and swimming and water safety.

Other topics under discussion included cadet work, and the need for helping delinquent children through youth work programs.

Y's Ern Bell of the Charlottetown Alpha Club, who was responsible for initiating stamp collecting as a world service for the promotion of Y'sdom throughout the world, was called upon to address the conclave. He explained the procedure that should be followed in sorting and packaging used stamps.

Y's Fred Norton suggested that more publicity could be given to the fact that there are more Y's Men, per capita, on P.E.I. than in any other district throughout the world.

New member counselling was then discussed by the meeting. Y's Hillard Clarke and Y's Art Duvar explained this work. Gordon Maxwell stated that better new member counselling was needed along international lines.

Under the heading of club extension, work in this regard on P.E.I. was discussed. Attempts to form Y's Men's Clubs in other centers in the district were being made.

Reasons for failures of clubs starting but not continuing to function were given by the chairman in a "Y's Men's Club mortality study."

At 5:15 p.m. the members attending the conclave went to special church service at Trinity United Church, where a timely address was given by Rev. C. D. Matheson, himself a Y's Man. Organist was Y's John Leuty, while Y's Jim Murphy read the scripture lesson, and Y's Harold Rodd led the prayer.

BANQUET HELD

Following the service a banquet was held at Howard's Restaurant, where three new members, Keith Pickard and Malcolm Matheson of Summerside and Earl Taylor of Charlottetown, were inducted. The induction team carrying out this ceremony consisted of Y's James Haslam, Y's Bill Carson, Y's Dick Matheson, Y's Ernie Clawson, Y's George Purvis, and Y's Ern Bell, all of the Charlottetown Alpha Club.

Y's Jim MacLean, president of the Charlottetown Centennial Club, then introduced the guest speaker, Gordon Maxwell, secretary of the Charlottetown Y.M.C.A.

In his address, Mr. Maxwell told the gathering of his personal experiences with Y's Men across Canada, while acting in his capacity as Y.M.C.A. secretary. He outlined how the Y.M.C.A. and the Y's Men's Clubs serve as a nucleus from which group leadership for the community is developed.

Soviet Gov't Seems Pleased With Diplomats

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP, Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet Union exhibits a high degree of satisfaction with its diplomacy of the last 11 months.

In connection with last week's celebration of the Bolshevik revolution anniversary, the Malenkov regime conferred high decorations on 140 foreign office personnel from Foreign Minister Molotov down, and 224 medals on other foreign ministry workers.

That took care of just about every Soviet diplomat or diplomat's aide who had anything to do with the Berlin and Geneva conferences this year. The awards, according to President K. E. Voroshilov, who did the honors, were for "faithful work" in the department.

Geneva and Berlin were not mentioned in the account carried by all the principal newspapers in Moscow. But there has been constant reference elsewhere in the Soviet press to the conferences as having contributed to world peace.

The goings-on in the Kremlin palace now indicate clearly the Soviet Union considers the Geneva conference one of its greatest successes on the diplomatic stage.

OFFERS PRAISE

Voroshilov congratulated all the foreign office men for the way the job was done in keeping with the diplomacy of the highest "truth, sincerity and honor" in its relations with other countries.

Report Canadians Gradually Becoming Heavy Investors In Foreign Enterprises

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians are gradually becoming big foreign investors with their total holdings abroad likely to rise by $100,000,000 this year to a new high of $2,300,000,000.

Most of these investments are in the United States, in beverage and farm implement companies, railroads and utilities, mining and petroleum enterprises.

In fact, federal officials estimate that on a per capita basis, Canadians are far heavier investors in the U. S. than Americans are in Canada.

For example, at the end of 1952, the Canadian per capita investment in the U. S. was about $100 compared with an American per capita investment in Canada of about $30.

SMALLER POPULATION

Canada's population is only about 15,000,000 compared with 160,000,000 in the U. S. Thus while the per capita figure is higher for Canada, its actual volume, Canadian investment in the U. S. totalled $1,500,000,000 at the end of 1952, while that of the U. S. in Canada totalled about $8,000,000,000.

Prince Charles Celebrates His Sixth Birthday

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP)—Prince Charles celebrated his sixth birthday Sunday surrounded by presents and close members of his family.

More than 5,000 people in Sandringham Park saw Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh walk in brilliant sunshine from Sandringham House to the parish church for morning service. But the birthday boy was not with them.

The prince and his four-year-old sister Anne are seldom taken to public churches, but receive religious instruction and worship privately.

Charles' day began when his sister gave him his first present. He received the rest of them, and the indications were that they were numerous, at breakfast time. Then there was a tea party this afternoon.

STRICKEN AT PEAK

But leukemia—the disease marked by an excessive number of white corpuscles in the blood stream—struck Path down at the peak of his career.

He lived just long enough to have his last collection—models made especially for manufacture and sale in Canada, the United States and Latin America—shown here. He was too ill to witness the display.

FEMINE ACCENT

Path's fashion influence skyrocketed in the post-war years on the basis of an accent on femininity. Only in recent collections did he begin to modify this by borrowing ideas based on bow ties, vests and swallow tail coats worn by men.

When the war broke out he became a gunner in the French Army, and won a Croix de Guerre with palm and the Legion of Honor before being captured by the Germans on the day France surrendered.

He soon escaped, returned to Paris, and reopened his small fashion house.

The great-grandson of a designer patronized by the Empress Eugenie, Path was born of an Alsace-Flemish father and a partial English mother.

Famous Paris Fashion Designer Died Saturday

PARIS, (AP)—Jacques Fath, the eminent designer whose mother tried to discourage him from entering the "sissy" world of fashion, died Saturday of leukemia in his swank apartment on the Seine. He was 42.

Fath was one of the "Big Three" of the Paris fashion world, sharing the spotlight with Christian Dior and Pierre Balmain.

His climb to fame and fortune began during the Second World War Nazi occupation when he became popular with the women of Paris by designing dresses in which they could pedal bicycles with ease and flair. In those days bikes were the only available transport.

With the aid of his beautiful blonde wife who used to pawn her jewels on occasion to pay the creditors during the first struggles for success—he reached such prosperity that his annual bill for champagne ran around $3,000.

Egypt's President Deposed By Governing Council

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's governing revolutionary council Sunday deposed Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib as president and council chairman. It accused him of being implicated in a plot by the fanatic Moslem Brotherhood against the life of his rival, Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The action against Naguib was taken after an early morning clash in suburban Heliopolis between police and a Brotherhood mob in which two civilians were killed and two policemen seriously wounded.

Maj. Amin Shaker, a government spokesman, said Youssef Taha, leader of the Brotherhood's secret order, was arrested and confessed Egypt's 53-year-old president had approved the assassination plot against Nasser.

ESCAPE ATTEMPT

Officials said Sunday's clash started when Taha's guards opened automatic fire and used hand grenades to clear an escape route for him from the place where he had been hiding since September. The government had offered a reward of 2,000 Egyptian pounds ($5,640) for information leading to his arrest.

The council's action Sunday left Nasser, 37, undisturbed strong man of Egypt. A government source said he will be acting president as well as premier until a new chief of state is chosen.

The action was a climax to a long rivalry between the two soldier-politicians who had teamed up to depose King Farouk in July, 1952. Their clash burst into the open last February when Naguib quit as president and premier. Popular outcry forced the revolutionary council to restore him as president, with the premiership going to Nasser.

But since then his prestige has deteriorated slowly but steadily.
