THE DAILY EXAMINER
OCTOBER 17, 1899.

WHAT DOES IT ALL MEAN?

JUDGE ALLEY died early in May; and no appointment was made in his place for three months.

Attorney General McDonald was made Judge early in August; but no Attorney General was found until the end of September.

It is now the 17th October and no writ is issued for an election in Murray Harbor.

It is nearly two years since Mr. Frederick Peters took his departure for British Columbia, and Fort Augustus has remained all that time without representation, and yet no writ is issued for that constituency.

The Attorney General, Mr. D. A. McKinnon, has called a series of meetings in Murray Harbor; but he does not say when the election will be held.

For nearly three months a vacancy has existed in the Belfast District, but no writ has yet been issued for that constituency.

We ask what does all this mean?

There can be only one reply. The Government is doomed,—and knows it! How can it help knowing?

Look at the result of the bye-elections. Take Tignish.

In 1898 the vote stood:

Gallant, (Lib.)	1063
Buote, (Con.)	823
Majority for Liberal	240

In 1899 the vote stood:

Gallant, (Lib.)	904
Pineau, (Con.)	935
Majority for Conservative	31

Take New London. In 1897 the vote stood:

Warburton, (Lib.)	843
Beaton, (Con.)	545
Majority for Liberal	298

In 1898 the vote stood:

Robertson, (Lib.)	617
Campbell (Con.)	692
Majority for Conservative	75

If anything more is needed to convince anyone that the members of the Farquharson Government know the people are against them, let us recall the spectacle of Mr. Frederick Peters coming all the way from British Columbia and the Government steamer going to Picton for him on the Lords Day,—all to prevent a legal vacancy in Fort Augustus.

Notwithstanding all this, the Government organ pleads for the unopposed return of the Attorney General.

Including Mr. Wise, who voted straight want of confidence near the close of last session, the Opposition number 13. At the present moment the Government supporters in the Assembly, exclusive of Mr. Frederick Peters, only number 14, including the speaker.

The people of Belfast and Murray Harbor have now in their hands the power which the whole Island possesses at a General Election. Let them exercise it, and then we shall have honest Government.

All of a sudden the Grits of Charlottetown and Ottawa authorize borings for the Hillsborough Bridge, although the Minister of Railways said in Parliament that it was not proposed to build a bridge immediately, owing to an advance in the price of iron. Iron has gone up fully 25 per cent since Mr. Blair made that statement,—and it is still rising. Yet, now, there seems to be hurry in locating the bridge!

Alternate routes for the Belfast Railway are laid down and appeals are made to different sections of Belfast to support the Government so as to secure the railway.

While Rome was burning Nero fiddled.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES.

The news from South Africa is indefinite and unsatisfactory because telegraphic communication with the Mafeking district has been destroyed. It is clear, however, that there is a double invasion of Natal—by the Orange. Free State Boers' 12000 strong, on the one side and the Boers from Transvaal on the other side, the object being to get the British between two fires. It is this situation that causes the anxiety in England. The British may of course retire towards the coast. But the chances are that they will hold their own until reinforcements come. The first attack has been repulsed.

Colonel Baden Baden-Powell in command of the British forces at Mafeking, is an experienced and capable officer, and his force will, without doubt, give a good account of itself. But the Boers are in vastly superior numbers at this point and Cronje, their leader, is known to be a great fighter. His force is variously estimated at from 4000 to 9000 men while that of Baden-Powell cannot be more than 2000. Mafeking is on the line of railway from Cape Town to Bulawayo, 875 miles north of Cape Town and only twelve miles from the western border of the Transvaal.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Schreiner and Laurier seem to be "all same one brother."

—A plague of hoof disease prevails among the beef cattle in some parts of Germany. The largest cattle market of Budingen, north-east of Frankfurt, has been closed on account of the plague.

—The London Times' Cape Town correspondent asserts that the so-called Irish brigade which is fighting for the Transvaal is a fraud, and that scarcely any men who are in it. The correspondent adds that Irishmen in the colony strongly resent the formation of the brigade. What have Irishmen to gain by helping the Boers, anyway?

—It is said by The Montreal Star that the Lazaretto at Tracadie, New Brunswick, is the saddest spot in North America. But our asylum under present conditions overcrowded by insane men and women without a hospital, all of them subject to the changes of heat and cold which result from a bad heating apparatus, cures under such conditions being all but impossible, is almost as sad. The door of our asylum might be inscribed with the words of the immortal Dante over the gates of Hell: "Abandon hope all ye who enter here."

While Premier Farquharson is trimming, and halting, and dodging, and scheming the debt, is growing every day, and every hour. It was only—according to the Liberals' own statement—$127,000 when the Conservatives went out; now it is $600,000.

Up to the incoming of the Grits we had no direct taxation. In five years they have taken a quarter of a million of dollars from the people in taxes; and like the horse leech's daughters, they are crying for more.

Belfast and Murray Harbor, do your duty!

UNION JACK.

Ever victorious
Over the world;
Honor it, stick to it,
Keep it unfurled;
It shall not be beaten,
Around it we'll stand,
The flag of our fathers,
Our Queen, and our land.

For centuries nobly
It's floated on high;
O'er earth and on ocean
Against the blue sky.
True soldiers and sailors
It never shall lack,
Our country's dear banner,
The old Union Jack.
