SPANISH SENATE STORMY SESSION

A Terrible Uproar in the Chamber

MARKED THE FIRST APPEARANCE OF SILVELA

And the Session was Closed in Confusion.

(SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER.)

MADRID, March 7.—The initial appearance in the Senate yesterday of Silvela as Premier was marked by a stormy session. He attempted to read the decree of dissolution and Count D'Almeida tried to talk, but his voice was drowned with cries of "conspiz, conspiuz."

The President of the House vainly endeavored to quell the disturbance, but finally Senor Silvela completed the reading of the decree amid cheers for Liberty, mingled with cheers for the Queen and the army and navy.

The session was declared closed amid an uproar.

Similar scenes occurred in the chamber, of Deputies, with shouts of "Down with the Jesuits" and cheers for the Republic and for liberty.

The session was closed in a general uproar, the ushers having driven the public from the floor and platform of the chamber.

Gilbert, for whom a reward has been offered, was arrested here yesterday.

"Sunlight" Factory

In England turns out every ten weeks, more soap, than is used in the whole of Canada in a year. Sunlight Soap is used largely in all countries of the world, and the demand for it is more than three times as large as for any other brand.—Why? Because it is universally acknowledged to be the best soap made.

DEMAND PROHIBITION.

Resolutions Adopted by the Dominion Alliance.

The following resolutions were passed at the last meeting of the Dominion Alliance:

That this meeting desires to express its satisfaction at the victory achieved by the prohibitionists of Canada in the plebiscite vote of September 20.

That the Government be earnestly requested to introduce at the approaching session of Parliament legislation which shall give effect to the will of the electors of Canada as expressed in the plebiscite.

That we record our profound conviction that the adverse vote in the prohibition plebiscite in Quebec Province, as reported, does not correctly represent the sentiment of the electors of the province, but was the result of gross irregularities and frauds in many parts of the province.

The whole matter of the plebiscite frauds, of which the most startling evidence is now in the hands of the Alliance, was, by resolution, referred to the executive, to take such action as shall best secure the most thorough investigation by the Government authorities.

ENGLISH ORPHANS.

SIR,—If "Warning" in last night's EXAMINER would be manly enough to come out over his own signature his questions might be answered more satisfactorily, as far as he himself is concerned. Or if I felt that he was speaking from the knowledge gained by having one of the English emigrants in his own home, I might make matters more plain to him. Much as I dislike answering an anonymous writer, still for the benefit of the same public which he takes so much interest in, I will answer his letter as truly and as satisfactorily as I possibly can.

No: we give no clergyman's certificate with the children. But we do give—to those desiring it—a history of each child, and a caution as regards any trait of character that might give trouble, so that no one is deceived. Anyone making application for one of the children must surely know, if time is taken to think about it, that they cannot be of the best parentage; for if that were the case they would not be emigrated.

No one could more heartily concur with "Warning" than I do, when he says people should consider what they are doing when they take these children into their homes. If people only would consider, and realize that they are taking mere human flesh and blood, not machines; that they are strangers indeed in a strange land, and above all, that they are children—then perhaps, I would have fewer bad settlements for them, a fact which remains in spite of the precaution of obtaining clergyman's certificates with applications. The number of unsatisfactory children would be made less, for in that case there are faults on both sides. And to quote "Warning" once more, if the English children have not all turned out well, a fact which I cannot deny, I can only add another to it, neither have all of the homes obtained for them been all that could be desired, but far, far short of it. Some people think all the fault is on the children's side, but I can prove very plainly that it is due just as much to those who adopt them that the result so often proves disappointing. Thanking you for space,

I am, yours, etc, (Mrs) JESIE HOGG.

A CONTRAST.

(Halifax Herald.)

The Liberal Conservative Party may well be called the Canadian party, and there is no need of them to wear the maple leaf or any other emblem, for their history is the history of the Dominion. It is scarcely too much to say that had it not been for such men as Sir John McDonald and those whom he got to work with him, after the abrogation of the old reciprocity treaty there would have been no British Canada today; and from that time to this the Grit party has been mostly on the other side. And where has Sir Charles Tupper stood? Always on the side of Canada. Where was he in 1891? Came out from England to help defend Canada from the calamity which Blake foresaw Laurier and his party were trying to bring upon this country. And what has been the attitude of the two leaders towards British preferential trade? Throughout all the years that Sir Charles Tupper was in England, he never ceased to labor for the promotion of that sentiment which should make such preferential trade possible; and when, in 1897, largely through Sir Charles Tupper's efforts and the efforts of his party, it became possible, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, with his eye on Washington, stepped in and blocked the whole course of British progress to the incalculable injury of this country. There is certainly a very considerable contrast between the two leaders as well as between the two parties, and it may not be long before the people of Canada will have an opportunity of choosing between them.

CECIL RHODES SPEAKS

Upon the Expansion Destinies of the United States.

WILL CONTROL ALL THE AMERICAN CONTINENT EXCEPT CANADA.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 5.—Cecil Rhodes, who in the eyes of many Englishmen is the incarnation of the Imperialistic policy, holds views concerning the future of the United States, even far more reacting than most American imperialists have broached. Mr. Rhodes, in conversation recently predicted, most confidently that within the century the United States would have advanced the work begun in the acquisition of Cuba, until it controlled all the American hemisphere, except Canada.

Mr. Rhodes expressed admiration for the work already done in Cuba and predicted that it would be carried on in the Philippines. The United States he considered one of the nations best equipped for colonization and repeatedly exclaimed "You are taking to it like mother's milk," apparently with the greatest delight. He did not believe that the United States would ever withdraw its authority from Cuba and thought the manner in which Spain had been evicted from her colonies and the United States had taken possession most businesslike.

America's action in compensating Spain for the Philippines surprised him. "I would have bundled the Spaniard out and made them pay a war indemnity," was his comment.

He declared that the United States could never withdraw from the Philippines because it was their duty to give these people a strong and good government; nor did he believe that when they had begun to realize the results of their work the Americans would desire to abandon the policy. They might grumble for a time over the expense, but that would be a mere "fl-a bite" to a nation so rich.

So far as the fear of provoking foreign entanglements and wars went, while England and the United States stood together and maintained their present understanding, which was practically an alliance, no combination of powers dare menace them. To govern colonies the United States must organize a staff of colonial officials, but they would do that easily as they would organize a new navy.

PREDICTS VAST EXPANSION.

To the suggestion of the anti-imperialists that the Philippines would be only the harbinger of colonization, he said: "There are no more islands of the sea to be acquired. They are all taken up. The territory of savage races is practically all pre-empted by the civilized. The ultimate work of the United States will be to govern South America. You will probably begin with Mexico, acquire the Central American States, and those on the continent of South America, until you hold all the country to the south of you. Those states have incompetent Governments—and it will be your duty to give them the white man's Government. Mexico is well governed; but a nation cannot depend on one man; and when Diaz is dead it may be ruled no better than before his time. Southward is the logical direction of the expansion of the States.

"The Philippines came to you by accident; these neighbouring people it will be logically your duty to provide for."

WHAT OF CANADA?

Asked if Canada would logically be included in this expansion, he said that Canada had a good Government, and, therefore, there was no need of change.

Summarizing America's policy, he said: "You people of the United States cannot always go on making money. You must get out into the world and take up your share of the world's burdens.

"Already you are outgrowing your own country. You will absorb other countries and give them good government, why should not you? You have it in your blood. The Philippines will furnish new careers for your young men. The whole world will strengthen you and broaden your national character. Yes; already you are taking it like mother's milk."
