The British Queen.

The Queen alone can create a peer, baronet, or knight, and confer privileges on private persons. She alone can erect corporations, and raise and regulate fleets and armies. She is the head of the church; she convenes and dissolves all ecclesiastical synods and convocations, nominates to vacant bishopries and other Church offices. She sends ambassadors to foreign States, receives ambassadors at home, makes treaties and alliances, and declares war and peace, though her power in these respects also is in a large degree limited by the power of Parliament to enact such laws or reject such laws as may be necessary to make it effective. As is well known, the Queen appoints her own advisers, irrespective of the approval of Parliament, and though popularly the Ministry is supposed to possess the whole executive power, no important measure is presented by them to the consideration of Parliament through the channel of the Ministry, and Parliament may originate and pass acts at its pleasure, subject to the constitutional right of the Queen to nullify them by her veto. The Queen can convene Parliament and terminate its sessions at will. There have been but two instances in which the Lords and Commons have met by their authority, namely, previous to the restoration of Charles II., and at the Revolution of 1688.

NEWS NOTES.

A strike among the Irish farm laborers is threatened.

Cholera is an epidemic form has made its appearance at Cairo.

Austria threatens to entirely break off her diplomatic relations with Roumania.

The Dean Stanley memorial projects is being enthusiastically recieved in England.

Mr. Gladstone has been elected as honorary member of a learned society in Belgrade.

The cotton crop of the Southern States is officially reported to be lower at the present time than at any season since 1866.

Mrs. Langtry, the English beauty, has made her first appearance on the stage. The London press commends favourably on her acting.

The land a part of which it is hoped to obtain for the proposed People's park at Paddington, London, is now valued at £2,300 an acre "Sixty years ago" it was offered at £10 per acre

A new and exciting game of chance has been introduced into fashionable circles of Boston, which, while it intoxicates the senses, does not weaken the nerves or impair the mind to any great extent. The game is to guess the number of beans in a glass jar.

An electrician in France is having built a small boat with which he intends to cross the English Channel, using an electric motor to propel it. He will take a companion on the voyage, and is said to have selected the route from Boulogne to Folkestone.

The polled Aberdeen bull "Viscount," which has just been shipped with other polls to the Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Agriculture, is a full brother of the heifer which was so unprecentedly successful at the Smithfield show. She took the first prize of £20 in her class, the £40 cup for the best Scotch beast, the £50 cup for the best cow or heifer, and the champion plate of 100 guineas for the best shown, besides, silver and gold medals.

The Chicago Railway Age, commenting upon the fact that in the last fiscal year, there was a slight surplus in the earnings of the Intercolonial Railway, while in the year 1879-80 a large deficit occured, says:—"The fact that the next results for the past year, have so much improved, although the rates for freight on many articles have been reduced, is creditable for the present managment and also indicates an improved condition of the country through which the line passes."

Capt. Wm. Stewart, of Ottawa, who was been on a visit to the North West Territories, speaks in the most glowing terms of the country and the prospects of its rapid development. He says several millions of dollars of foreign capital have been deposited in banks at Winnipeg, to be invested next spring. The captain himself has leased 100,000 acres on the Bow River for grading purposes, which is being stocked wite 5,000 head of cattle and several hundred horses. He claims that the Canadian lands are influently superior to those of Dakotah and Minnesota.

To Preserve Eggs.—The Scientific American gives this as an excellent mode of preserving eggs: "Take fresh ones, put a dozen or more into a willow basket and immerse this for five seconds in boiling water, containing about five pounds of common brown sugar per gallon. Place the eggs on trays to dry. Then pack, when cool, small end down; in an intimate mixture of one part of finely powdered charcoal and two of dry bran. In this way they will last six months or more. The scalding water causes the formation of a thin skin of hard albumen next the inner surface of the shell, and the sugar or syrup closes all the pores." Cut this out.
