

Noted British Actor Quits Pygmalion's Musical Show

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Rex Harrison said farewell to My Fair Lady Saturday night.

Visibly saddened as he bowed out of the musical version of George Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion, the 51-year-old British actor refused to make a curtain speech. He shook his head sorrowfully while the audience roared "Bravo, bravo! Speech, speech!"

Backstage afterward, he talked with friends, ably supported by a large scotch and soda, his actress wife Kay Kendall and American actress Lauren Bacall.

"I was determined not to make a speech," Harrison said. "Really though, there was nothing much you could have said. Anyway, I expect the audience was ready to leave the theatre."

Harrison said he did not know how many performances he had done as Professor Henry Higgins, the man who teaches a Cockney flower girl how to speak like a princess.

"All I know," he went on, "is that I've done the part about three years and three months—at least I think I have."

ORIGINAL HIGGINS
Harrison was Professor Higgins when the musical opened on Broadway in April, 1956.

Asked whether he felt sad, relieved or delighted to be leaving the east, he replied: "I'm sad. I've been rather sad all day."

He looked and talked like a man who had said farewell to an old friend.

"You see," Harrison explained, "it's become such a part of one's life. Not being Higgins anymore, well, already it feels funny, but here, let's meet the new Higgins."

With that he brought Alec Clunes from a dressing room. Clunes takes over the role today.

A toast was offered "to the new Higgins and to his every success."

Harrison left My Fair Lady at the end of his contract. When the show opened its current London run last April 30 he agreed to play until Saturday night.

DIDN'T CHANGE PART
Talking about his last performance, Harrison said he did the part as he had always done it.

"No, I didn't add anything and I didn't take out anything," he said he was deeply touched by something the cast did at the end. Julie Andrews — the Eliza Doolittle of the musical — gave him a smacking big kiss before the audience. And then the entire cast broke into applause.

"That was very touching," said Harrison. "They must have received or delighted to be leaving the east, he replied: "I'm sad. I've been rather sad all day."

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough
