THE NEWS.

TELEGRAPHIC communication directly with Ladysmith, as with Mafeking, has been "cut." Of course the Boers are concentrating upon Ladysmith. The British there will in a few days have to stand the brunt of their attack in full force. To crush the British at Ladysmith before the troops now on the way from England can reach the scene is their one great hope and chance. As soon as they are ready, the bombardment of Ladysmith will begin in earnest. Kimberley and Mafeking still hold out. We hope that Ladysmith, also, will hold out.

LORD MINTO'S VIEW.

In the course of his remarks at a banquet given in Montreal on Halloween, the Governor General referred to the British surrender of Monday at Ladysmith. He said:

"The news from the front is not encouraging. The word disaster has been received. I do not like that word. Reverse, perhaps, but not disaster. It may have been a check, but it will only stimulate them for the end they have in view. (Cheers) Tonight, I feel personally bound to speak of Sir George White, my old comrade-in-arms, and fellow soldier. I knew him in India. No manlier man ever lived. No greater hero ever served the Empire. Perhaps you can better understand the material the man is made of when I tell you he was reared in that fine old regiment, the Gordon Highlanders. (Tremendous applause)

"I have lived with that regiment, and I am happy to say that it has turned out many excellent officers. You all remember Brigadier-General Macdonald, who figured so conspicuously a short time since in the battle of Omdurman and the recapture of Khartoum. Well, he was a sergeant in the ranks with General White in India. Of the latter officer I may say that he has won his cross over and over again. (Cheers) And I should be ashamed, ladies and gentlemen, if I did not speak one cheering word for that brave old officer, whose heart must be bleeding to-night over the loss of so many of his gallant men. (Cheers) I beg of you not to censure him.

"He has been fighting against terrible odds. The forces arrayed against him are considerably more numerous than those he has at his command. In assuming the blame for this reverse, I think you will agree with me when I say that he has shown himself to be a man. (Loud cheers.) I have no doubt, therefore, that he will have your sympathy and your prayers, as I am sure he has the sympathy and prayers of all who know him."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—We have to state, in reply to the question of "A Belfast" that tenders have not yet been called,—publicly, at least,—for the construction of any part of the Belfast-Murray Harbor railway. But neither have the writs for the election yet been issued.

—It has been remarked by Sir Charles Tupper that:—"There is one thing in particular about the Conservative party that is commanding respect everywhere. The party is open and above board about its policy. It has not six different versions of its policy, each version to suit the local prejudices of a particular province. "We are fighting in the open, and the battle is half won."

THE CONTINGENT'S INSURANCE.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER has explained to a Montreal Star reporter how he came to be instrumental in insuring the lives and limbs of the Canadian contingent, and the conditions of the insurance. He said:

"For some time, I had been thinking of a plan for offering to a volunteer regiment for the Transvaal some inducement to bring the best marksmen to the front. You know the Boers are good shots, and the thing I was most anxious to secure, was that a Canadian Regiment, if sent, should be sharpshooters, too, and have an equal chance with Oom Paul's soldiers. I could not bear the idea of sending inexperienced riflemen from Canadian homes to be shot down at a terrific disadvantage.

"While in London on the 6th September, I found a friend who was willing to insure the lives of a thousand Canadian soldiers so as to cover them against the real risk of war from the enemy. The trip and incidental drilling will be holiday work, and in this part of it the men will be as happy as they were at home; but face to face with a skilful enemy in the field, it was thought well to provide some compensation for this risk. So my friend thought, and so many officers in England thought. Thus the insurance of one million dollars was placed against death or injury on the field.

"This insurance by my friend makes one thousand dollars for each man against death as described, one thousand against loss of both feet or both hands, or both eyes, and five hundred dollars each man against loss of one hand, one foot or one eye; so that it is practically two millions and a half of insurance. But that speaks for itself."

SIR CHARLES SAYS:

"It is now very clear to the people of Canada that the Liberals have, to put it mildly, got a record for doing the wrong thing.

"They were wrong about the North-West rebellion;

"They were wrong about commercial union;

"They were wrong about unrestricted reciprocity;

"They were wrong about free trade as they have it in England;

"They were wrong in refusing a preference in English markets;

"They were wrong in this matter of the Transvaal.

"If the Conservative party is returned to power, its policy will be broad and progressive aiming at a better diffusion of the benefits of prosperous times.

"I have seen it stated somewhere that the true policy for Canadians at this day is to turn out one Government after another until they teach the politicians to behave themselves. It is a practical idea and would work wonders."

ESTERMED EXCHANGES.

Montreal Star: The same public spirit that insisted upon the first contingent, will insist upon a second, if need be. If it be true, as Mr. Tarte claims, and we fear it is true, that his colleagues were weak enough to allow him to force them into inserting into the order in-Council referring to the contingent, a clause declaring that this "shall not form a precedent," the Canadian Government has been guilty of a mean, unpatriotic and ungracious act. If the "No Precedent" element dominates the Cabinet, we have a poor Cabinet to rely upon in case of a serious national crisis. If the "No Precedent" element does not rule the roost, how is it that Dr. Borden is the only Minister who has had the courage to repudiate Mr. Tarte's un-British policy?
