 Following the programme, Santa arrived to the delight of everyone, and distributed numerous gifts to teacher, pupils and visitors, in his usual jovial manner.
 A treat was provided for the teacher and pupils by the Women's Institute.
 The teacher then thanked Mr. Fraser for acting as chairman and thanked all those who came to make the evening's entertainment a success.
 There was a sale of candy and apples during intermission, from which, together with door receipts, a neat sum was realized for school purposes.

LONDON, Jan. 2 — (Reuters)—Commercial radio and television will come to Britain in 1952, cutting into the monopoly of the air now held by the BBC. The Sunday Pictorial says, sponsored TV will be the first step, and already advertisers are planning top-line shows with "name" stars for which they are ready to pay big money, the paper says.

BODIES COME UP — Hearse line the entrance of explosion. Company officials said "at least 100" were killed in the mine disaster, the nation's worst pre-Christmas tragedy.
