OLD MEMORIES AWAKENED.

The Little Book Made Him Thoughtful for One Night.

It was only an ordinarily bound, small sized Bible, and would not attract more than a passing glance from any one of the hurrying hundreds who passed the little table in front of the second-hand book store every day. Perhaps it had lain there for years unnoticed until one day last week, when its former owner found it. He was ambling along, surrounded by several boon companions—a man of about 36 years, from his general appearance, but one whose eyes looked like those of an old man—the kind of eyes one sees in the sockets about the gambling houses. He was the jolliest of the crowd, and in a boisterous way was joking his fellows. As his eyes shifted restlessly he happened to catch sight of that little leather-covered Bible as it lay on the dirty table in front of the old second-hand store. In an instant he stopped as if petrified, and forgetting his companions stood riveted to the spot. Then he walked quickly into the store and asked the old woman to come outside.

"How much for this book?" he asked, picking it up.

"Thirty-five cents," was the reply.

The man handed her a silver dollar, and, picking up the book, left the store.

"What on earth do you want with that book" exclaimed one of the "gang," who did not see the title. But the man paid no attention to the question. Instead he opened the book, and there on the fly-leaf saw the inscription: "To my boy," and underneath the date, "July 5, 1880." As he read the words two tears came into his eyes and one of them plashed down upon the book. His companions had by this time passed on and had entered a saloon, but he did not think of them. His thoughts were of that twenty-first birthday, ten years ago, when his mother had given the little book to him on the eve of his departure for the city. In a minute he had lived over all those evil fifteen years that had elapsed since then, and unmindful of the passers by stood in the middle of the crowded street the book still open in his hand. His companions had by this time missed him and came back.

"Hurry up, old boy, the drinks are ordered, and there's a good game going on upstairs," cried one, but the man only shook his head and quietly said:—

"I don't think I'll play to-day. Goodby, boys, I'm going home on the 5 o'clock train."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SECRETS OF BUDDHISM.

Adherents of the Belief Have Kept Them Many Years.

There can be little doubt but that the initiates of the higher mysteries of Buddhism possess secrets of a psychological nature which are absolutely unknown to the rest of the world, and which have never been divulged during a period which probably far ante-dates the rise of Buddhism itself. The secrets of hypnotism, thought transference, and many others on what may be called the occult side of nature, while they are mysteries to the Western world have been commonplaces to these people for ages, and they have never permitted the slightest inkling of their true nature to leak out, although their revelation might possibly revolutionize the world. The trade secrets of the Phoenicians were kept for centuries with marvelous fidelity. The chief of these was doubtless the location of and the method of reaching the tin mines of Cornwall, and the story is still extant of the captain of a Phoenician galley who, when pursued by a Roman trireme, which sought to follow him to his destination, deliberately ran his ship ashore and wrecked her, so that the great secret might remain undivulged.

His Thought.

A man who is sad or sorry is often approached best from the commonplace side. In the "History of the Town of Bedford" is a story of a misanthropic patient in a Washington hospital during the war. He had a compound fracture of the knee, and as he was in pain most of the time, could scarcely be expected to prove a jovial companion. Yet, although he steadily frowned down all efforts at conversation, one lady, who was staying in the hospital to nurse her husband, succeeded in getting into his life one little wedge of human kindliness. She writes:

He does not care to have me read or speak to him; we call him "South Carolina" because he wishes to be "let alone."

One morning, as I took my usual walk down the aisle, his head was resting on his hands and he looked very solemn. I felt that he was homesick. I was determined to call him out of himself if I could. Acting on the impulse of the moment, I said:—

"A penny for your thoughts, sir!"

To my surprise he did not frown, as he had done before when I had spoken to him, but said quietly: "My thought is too foolish to tell."

"Perhaps not," I replied.

"Well" said he, "I was just wishing I could have some buttermilk biscuit for breakfast, like those the woman used to make with whom I boarded in New Hampshire."

He told me her name and where she lived, and then I could say that she was my husband's cousin. That made a beginning, and since then I have dared to "be neighborly."

Tiny Oxen.

One of the greatest curiosities among the domesticated animals of Ceylon is a breed of cattle known to the zoologists as the "sacred running oxen." They are the dwarfs of the whole ox family, the largest specimen of the species never exceeding thirty inches in height. One sent to the Marquis of Canterbury in the year 1891 which is still living, and is believed to be somewhere near ten years of age, is only twenty-two inches high, and weighs but one hundred and nine and a half pounds. In Ceylon they are used for quick trips across country with express matter and other light loads, and it is said that four of them can pull a driver of a two-wheeled cart and a two-hundred pound load of miscellaneous matter sixty to seventy miles a day. They keep up a constant singing trot or run, and have been known to travel one hundred miles in a day and night without either food or water. No one knows anything concerning the origin of this peculiar breed of miniature cattle. They have been known on the island of Ceylon and in other Buddhistic countries for more than a thousand years.—Tit-Bits.

A Straight Answer.

"How's the going??" called the man in the red mittens, as, through the blizzard, the driver of the Wayback mail came struggling into town.

"Dunno," answered the driver, "I haven't gone yet—but," he added in a burst of frankness, "the coming is all-fired hard"

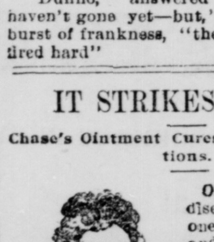
Chase's Ointment Cures All Skin Irritations.



GRACIE AITON.

Of the many skin diseases, eczema is one of the worst and most common. The one effective remedy so far discovered for it is Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has never been known to fail. Mr. Andrew Aiton, of Hartland, N.B., says: "My little daughter, Grace Ella, aged three and a half, was a dreadful sufferer from eczema for three years. We tried a number of alleged cures and several doctors, but all without effect. Her's was indeed a bad case. Her little body was entirely covered with rash. One day our local druggist, Mr. Wm. E. Thistle, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. I did so, and four boxes effected a complete cure and saved our child."

Dr Chase's Ointment is just as effective for piles, salt rheum and sores of all descriptions. For sale by all dealers and Edmanson, Bates & Co., manufacturers, Toronto; price 60 cents.

There is nothing to equal Chase's Linseed and Turpentine for severe colds and lung troubles. Large bottle 25 cents.

A Sweet-Minded Woman.

So great is the influence of a sweet-minded woman on those around her that it is almost boundless. It is to her that friends come in seasons of sorrow and sickness for help and comfort; one soothing touch of her kindly hand works wonders in the feverish child; a few words let fall from her lips in the ear of a sorrow-stricken sister do much to raise the load of grief that is bowing its victim down to the dust in anguish. The husband comes home worn out with the pressure of business and feeling irritable with the world in general, but when he enters the cosy sitting room and sees the blaze of the fire and meets his wife's smiling face, he succumbs in a moment to the soothing influences which act as the balm of Gilead to his wounded spirits that are wearied with the stern realities of life. The rough school boy flies into a rage from the taunts of his companions to find solace in his mother's smile; the little one, full of grief with her large troubles, finds a haven of rest on its mother's breast; and so one might go on with instance after instance of the influence that a sweet-minded woman has in the social life with which she is connected. Beauty is an insignificant power when compared with hers.

How to Live.

How to live is the great study of the world. Dying is of comparative unimportance. In the Irish legends it is told of a lake in Munster that there were two islands in it; into one of them death could never enter; but age was there, and sickness, and all the infirmities of life and the pains and woes of dreadful suffering; and the inhabitants, worn and feeble, bowed under burdens which they could not support and which they could not throw off, grew tired of their immortality and looked longingly over to the other island where death reigned, as to a very paradise. They launched their boats upon the gloomy and tempestuous waters and sailed for the shores where they were sure to die, and when their trembling feet trod upon them, they were at rest. We need not shrink from death if we have fulfilled the mission of our life, but welcome it as a boon and a crowning reward.—Burdett Hart, D. D.

AN ALARMING INCREASE.

he Preva'ence of Female Complaints found to Result Largely from the Kidneys.

SAGINAW, Mich, May 18.—Doctors are beginning to turn their attention more exclusively to the causes for the great increase of what are known as female complaints during the past ten years, and to the remedies for the same. Many cases have been investigated, and among others that of Mrs. Reany, of Ashland, Wis., who was cured of this form of trouble by the use of a kidney medicine known as Dodd's Kidney Pills, which originated in Canada but has now become widely known and used throughout the Western States. This and other similar cases go to show that these troubles are largely due to the kidneys and that the above mentioned remedy is likely to have a great effect in lessening the number of victims to this form of complaint.

Science Triumphant at Last.

Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the outcome of the latest scientific researches. There was always a prejudice against taking Cod Liver Oil on account of its disagreeable taste, but Miller's Emulsion is agreeable to the palate, and that is one reason why it has become so popular with the medical fraternity, the hospitals of the country and the households wherever consumption or lung troubles prevail. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all Lung affections. In Big Bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

REFRIGERATING FLOWERS.

A Means by Which Plants Can be Made to Bloom Out of Season.

Quite a revolution in horticulture has been in progress during the last decade, although, owing to the secret manner in which the experiments leading up to it have been conducted, comparatively few persons have been aware of the new departure. Everyone knows that flowers, as well as fruits and vegetables, are forced, so that those who are rich shall have the use of them before unaided nature brings them to maturity. This forcing business is an expensive one, requiring constant attention and skilled labor. Many attempts, therefore, have been made to get at the golden eggs by cheaper means, and as a result of many trials the opposite process to forcing has been adopted with success. The system consists in retarding the flowering of the plant by refrigerating and is, of course, only applicable to those which are hardy in this country, by which we mean those which will stand several degrees of frost. The lily of the valley is one of them and it is much in request for purposes of decoration. Under the old forcing conditions only about fifty per cent. of the buds treated could be induced to flower, but by the freezing process an average of ninety-five per cent. can be secured from the end of summer up to Christmas. It will be noted that the process cannot be applied to ever-greens of any kind, and it would certainly be death to camelias and probably to hyacinths and tulips. It is said that near Berlin three growers alone have nearly 300 acres of lily of the valley under cultivation, and that they have adopted the refrigerating method with great success. It has long ago been proved that the plant can be cultivated in England with equal success, and we trust that the new method will soon be tried on an extensive scale in this country.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." Scott's Sarsaprilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poison. Ask for Scott's and get it.

A Child Cured of Eczema by Chase's Ointment.

"My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczema for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears. I tried almost every remedy I saw advertised, bought innumerable medicines and soaps, and took the child to medical specialists in skin diseases, but without result. The doctor advised the use of Chase's Ointment, and since using the eruption has all disappeared, and I can confidently say my child is cured.

Counting a Million.

I wrote to the Treasury Department in Washington, and I put two questions, which one of the leading authorities answered in the most obliging manner

Treasury Department, Office of the Treasurer, Washington, D C—Sir: You ask me the following questions: (1) How long does it take, under the most advantageous circumstances, for an expert to count 100,000 silver dollars? (2) How long does it take, under the most advantageous circumstances, for an expert to count 100,000 notes?

In reply to the first inquiry, permit me to state that for a continuous count of an expert it will require twenty hours to handle 100,000 standard silver dollars Under ordinary conditions, and observing the rules and regulations of the office for count as to correctness, and at the same time keeping a careful eye for the detection of counterfeits, 4,500 per hour, or 27,000 per six working hours each day is about the limit capacity of our experts in that line

To the second inquiry I may say that it will take an expert 16 2-3 hours to count 100,000 new notes, and for a current or ordinary day's work 40,000 notes is about all that can be done

Respectfully yours,
E H NEBEKER
Treasurer, United States

Take, then, 1,000,000 silver dollars, and set an expert counting it If he worked night and day over it, lost no time in eating, drinking or sleeping, he would finish a fairly tough job of counting 1,000,000 silver dollars in precisely eight and one-third days for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.
