Nuns Are Determined To Remain Habitless

By BENNET M. BOLTON

ROME (AP)—The Sisters of Charity have lost their famous white gull-wing headpieces. The Ursuline nuns are experimenting with a new dress-like habit of black skirt and white blouses.

One Roman Catholic order of nuns, however, is determined to remain as it is—habitless.

They are the Ladies of Bethany, and they go about in ordinary street clothes—skirts and sweaters, dresses, makeup, jewelry, loafers or high heels, to suit the occasion.

The Bethany nuns who soon will open their U.S. house—are so modern in their rules and work that they are not known individually by a such names as Sister Mary Denise or Sister Placida. Instead each keeps her family name, plus the title of "miss."

Many communities of nuns have begun thinking recently about changes in clothing styles that may have started more than 500 years ago. The impulse has come from the mere existence of the Vatican ecumenical council and its drive for "aggiornamento," or updating of Catholicism.

The Vatican council has enacted legislation on nuns. It is up to each order of nuns—there are more than 300 of them—to set its own rules and disciplines, beyond basic church-required vows.

"We were founded just especially not to wear habits, because of the work we do," explains Miss Teresita Loeff of The Hague, one of the small band of Bethany ladies who live in Rome in a bright, cherry residence furnished in Scandinavian modern style and overlooking the broad Piazza Navona.

Dutch Jesuit priest, Rev. James Ginniken of the University of Nijmegen faculty, established the order in 1919 with an eye to the contributions such nuns might make toward healing divided Christianity through unity efforts.

The Ladies of Bethany were so unique that they had to have a special Vatican indulgence—now no longer needed—to exist as a full-fledged community of nuns who wore no standard habit.

Canadian Delhi Shares Are Sold To Standard Oil

TORONTO (CP)—The investment firm of Nesbitt, Thomson and Co. has sold 4,918,951 common shares of Canadian Delhi Oil Ltd. at $4 a share to the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio.

This represents 90.22 per cent of the outstanding shares of Canadian Delhi.

Prior to this transaction, Canadian Delhi had redeemed all its convertible debentures and distributed to its shareholders 843,327 shares of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. to reduce its capital.

Because of the reduction of capital, in which share purchase warrant holders did not participate, the company will issue new warrants to replace existing warrants.

New warrants can be exercised at $5.10 a share until July 15, 1966, and thereafter at $5.85 until July 15, 1968.

The old warrants entitled holders to be subscribed for stock at $13.10 a share until July 15, 1966, and $15 until July 15, 1968.

Canadian Delhi produces daily about 3,500 barrels of oil and natural gas liquids and 65,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

about the meaning of life itself.

EXPANDING TO U.S.

Today, the Ladies of Bethany number 130. Dutch, Austrian, German and Spanish nuns. They operate centres for young people to meet and mix in Holland, Austria and Rome.

Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburgh has invited them to expand to the United States, and work will start this year in a suburb of a Pennsylvania city on a novitiate for training American women candidates to become Bethany nuns.

The nuns spend six to nine years in intensive preparation and study for their work. They take perpetual vows just as other nuns do.

Once they are out in the world, they are permitted great freedom to pursue ideas and new projects in keeping with their goal of applying religious principles to modern life and trying to be a soft-toned catalyst for good.

neken thought what a pity it would be if we drew apart again with the return of peace.

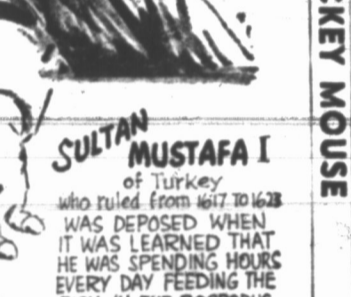

"His idea of our order was to stimulate informal meeting together of Catholics and non-Catholics, without persuasion and at convenient places."

"The purpose of the order is still the same, in Miss Loeff's words, 'to enable non-Catholics to meet the Catholic church in an unofficial way as possible, giving them answers at their own level to any questions about religion in general, about God,
