EXPELLED FROM CUBA.

How General Shafter Treated Sensational Newspaper Men.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—In his report to the War Department relative to the conditions at Santiago Gen. Shafter has thrown some light upon the difficulties in which certain of the newspaper correspondents there have involved themselves. From his report it would appear that animated by an ambition to take a prominent part in the important events following each other in rapid succession at Santiago after the initiation of the negotiations for the surrender of the city a few correspondents were guilty of grave breaches of military law, necessitating prompt corrective action by Gen. Shafter. Thus, for instance, one correspondent, in his efforts to take part in the flag raising over the city hall, resisted the military officers in the execution of their duty and even attempted a personal assault upon the commanding general. This made him subject to summary and severe punishment, even death, yet Gen. Shafter, probably realizing that ignorance of military law was the explanation of the action, contended himself with expelling the correspondent from Cuba. A more serious offence, from the fact that it might easily have led to rioting and loss of life was that of three other correspondents who, it appears by Gen. Shafter's report, by circulating inflammatory posters stirred up the town. They were likewise deported, and as evidence that he has no personal ill feeling towards the paper represented by them, but desires only to exercise such control as is imperatively demanded in the interest of safety of our troops and protection of the people under their care, Gen. Shafter has declared that these correspondents may be replaced by others from the same newspaper who will observe the rules of prudence. No mention is made of any other cases requiring attention and it is indicated that the relations between the newspaper men and the army officers at Santiago are generally amicable and satisfactory.

In a very dignified manner Gen. Shafter takes note of some of the severely critical newspaper articles that have appeared, touching the conditions of the troops before Santiago, while they lay in the trenches. He admits that there was a shortage of tobacco for a time, but shows conclusively that there was no lack of the necessities of life and that the troops were adequately supplied with hard bread, bacon, sugar and coffee. Although this bill of fare is not so extensive as that afforded troops in garrison it embodies the main features of the army ration while on field service and removed from a base of supplies. As it has been alleged in some quarters that there was lack of purpose in the battles incident to the advance upon Santiago, it is interesting to note that while Gen. Shafter admits that for two days he was himself lying ill, owing to the great heat and exposure, but he asserts that the plans laid down in advance for the movement were carried out with absolute exactness.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Father McGuigan Remembered by the Parishioners of Sturgeon.

The parishioners of St. Paul's Church, Sturgeon, fearing lest Rev. P. D. McGuigan, who has been attending to their welfare, during the absence of their pastor, Rev. Wm. Phalen, should be called away unexpectedly, presented him a few days ago with an address and a purse containing $95.00. The address was read by Mr. J. J. Murphy, and the purse was presented by Mr. Joseph McDonald. The rev. gentleman made a brief and appropriate reply, thanking the people of Sturgeon for the many acts of kindness shown him and for their thoughtfulness and benevolence in presenting him with such a neat address and valuable purse.

The following is the address:—
 To Rev. P. D. McGuigan:

Rev. and Dear Father,—In this world of tribulation and strife, of doubt and uncertainty, enveloped as in the dark clouds of fate, when we know that the eye, which beholds the brilliant light of the sun adorn the east may not see it spread its mantles of gold o'er the west, whilst we know not what the future has for us entwined in its stern and relentless embrace, we are painfully obliged to realize and acknowledge with regret the sorrowful tidings that today, may be the last that you shall have to be our respected pastor, that we may never more see you ascend our altar to offer that most sublime and adorable sacrifice to our heavenly father in exploring for mankind the justice and mercy of heaven.

Under these circumstances, then, Rev. Father, your humble parishioners of Sturgeon crave pardon, if, at the present time with hearts overflowing with admiration for our beloved priest, we take a liberty in embracing this opportunity to express our profound regret that the time is near at hand when you are about to be called to guide the faithful in other homes than ours. During your brief sojourn in this parish as minister of God, 'tis needless to remark that you have completely won the veneration and love of all who bowed before you to receive your priestly benediction. Your kind and social disposition has made a lasting impression on our memories never to be effaced by the storms of care and pain which may overshadow us. Though but a few months raised to your sacred calling, be it said to your praise, you seem to fully understand and successfully dispose of the various and intricate duties of ministerial life. At the bedside of the sick, we found no one more ready to offer their consolation and assistance than you. To comfort the dying in their last trying moments let the voice of those that have gone to their reward sing their praise in eternal alleluias with the heavenly choirs of the just. To speak in appropriate terms of the fruits of your labors in this portion of Christ's vineyard, your modesty forbids perhaps, to you, the greatest tribute of praise we could offer would be the just appreciation of the good work accomplished; to hold fast the words of wisdom and love which ever emanated from your saintly lips; to cherish in our memory the greater knowledge we have acquired of our holy mother the church; to retain in our hearts forever the unbounded love you have made us feel for our venerable and sacred religion.

We ask you to be pleased to accept the following gift, but not as the reward your labors merit—to remove the briars and thorns which beset the pathway of life, to make the heavy burden of our cross appear light, is a duty beyond price. We ask you to accept it, rather as the heartfelt offering which ascends as incense before the throne of heaven; we ask you to accept it as a small token of the deep debt of gratitude we owe to you our beloved priest.

In conclusion it now becomes our painful duty to say farewell. We know not where it hath pleased the Lord that you shall labour; but, wherever your lot may be cast, we feel assured and earnestly pray that your mission be crowned with success. Though your form may ever again gaze four altar, though your loving voice we may not hear, still, being members of that one Holy Catholic Church, we can feel, at least in spirit, that you are still with us, that our prayers mingle in communion with yours as heretofore, and that one day we shall all stand with the elect of God at the right hand of the judgment seat of Christ.

It Was Only the Old One.

A rough, awkward handed Lancashire girl was broken in by a benevolent lady, who tried to do a good turn for everybody, and in an evil moment she was given to clean two very ancient openwork silver salt cellars with those rich and rare old royal blue glass receivers inside. One was over 100 years old, the other had been broken and recently patched, of which fact the girl was aware. She broke the other old one, and when she told her mistress she said she was "glad as how it was only the old 'un."

A Startling Declaration.

Wife—Richard, I am afraid we must part—
 Husband—Good gracious! What for?
 Wife (calmly)—Your hair in the middle hereafter. You are getting bald.—
 London Fun.

The Mexican torch thistle, growing to a height of 50 or 60 feet, looks more like a candelabrum than a tree. Another variety of the same species has long gray bristles, which give it the appearance of the head of an old gray haired man.

Newspaper duty was invented by Queen Anne. It was originally a penny on each sheet, afterward raised to fourpence, and abolished in 1855.

BROKEN PROMISES.

The Liberal party will live in political history as a party of broken promises and forgotten pledges.

They promised to reduce the expenditure of the country and they have increased it beyond anything ever known in its history.

They declared that the debt was a grievous burden—a mortgage on every man's farm—and that there should be no further increase. In two years they have added a trifle of seven or eight million dollars to the national mortgage.

They made the welkin ring with their denunciations of the terrible load of taxation which they said was crushing the life blood out of the people. They have increased the taxation on certain articles and collected more from the people than their predecessors.

They denounced protection as robbery and promised to cut off the head of the robber. Instead of cutting off the head they amputated one or two of the toes.

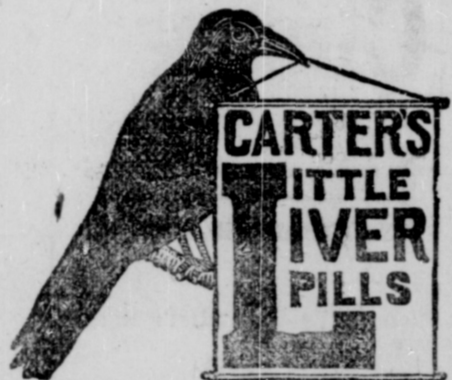

They said the public lands should be for the people and not for the speculator. One of their first acts was to make a secret agreement by which two wealthy speculative friends were to receive four or five million acres of the richest gold lands in the world for the building of 150 miles of tramway.

They denounced commissions and they have appointed more commissions in two years than were ever appointed in double that time since responsible government was introduced in this country.

They alleged that the appointment of members of Parliament to office was sapping the independence of the people's representatives and they advanced the idea that such appointments should be forbidden by statute. They have beaten all records in the appointment of Parliamentary supporters to office.

They have broken more promises and violated more pledges in a given time than any other party in the history of Canada or the Canadian provinces. Five years of power is too much for such men. They should violate one more yet Liberal principle—about the only one remaining—by dissolving parliament in advance of the time and thus give the people an opportunity to turn them out.
