

Ring Reminiscences

—Fights and Fighters—
(By James Pendergast)

In a previous resume of Island devotees of the "manly art", both later day and present day, quite a number of good boxers were overlooked. Many of the large number, at all weights, would have advanced to the top level in their classes if they had continued and had become more skilled in ring strategy. The late Benny Binns started the upsurge in boxing by issuing the Guardian a challenge to any man in this province — weight no bar. The challenge was promptly accepted by big George Leslie of Souris and the match staged in the Forum. George was a big, powerful, high principled fellow, then 27-years-old, rather advanced in years to absorb training and boxing strategy, but although green in the game, he was "too big" for Benny. One of Benny's roundhouse swings caught George on the side of the chin in the second round, taking him off his feet momentarily, but George rallied quickly and stayed off Ben's swings for the rest of the round. Max Kachetsky of St. John and Kensington, George's corner monitor, whispered, "Hold your hands high and let him swing for the next round." Poor Ben "swung" a lot and tired himself out. The rest was easy for Leslie. George could deal out heavy punishment, but like many other boxers he had a very sensitive jaw which Leslie, or most any other fighter's jaw could not be expected to withstand the combined left hook and upper cut with which Jim Evans knocked out George at the Charlottetown Forum. It had the impact sufficient to take even Jeffries, Dempsey or Joe Louis off their feet. George is now the custodian of order and decorum in the Royal York of Toronto, Canada's largest hotel. He has forsaken the bally-hoo of the prize ring for the quietness and greater security of steady employment. He has also become a Benedict. Most of the boxing bouts were staged at that time by the great Charlottetown promoter, Joey MacDonald. Large crowds attended. The "gates" were generally between fifteen hundred and two thousand dollars. Jim Evans was the most scintillating "star" in the boxing firmament for a year or more. He had taken a correspondence course from some New York teacher and practised the directions zealously with local youngsters. His most outstanding feat was the victory over three men in one ring in one night. It was rather a hard coincidence that he had to take on Stanley Biggar, the toughest man of the three, for his last contest. He succeeded in getting the decision over Stan — making it three in a row. Jim was very tired. He had worked hard at farm work all day at Irianstown nearly forty miles distant, but six o'clock in the evening Jim won all his victories with his left hand. He would "coast" his man along and wait for an opening. It was almost uncanny how he could land it with no apparent "telegraphing". If memory serves rightly, there was an almost imperceptible "teint" with his left quite far back, then an instantaneous follow-up with all the force of his body behind it.

The result was devastating — if they were able to come back at all they were in a limp or semi-conscious condition. Don Dunphy, if he were watching, would conjure up a stronger adjective than "terrible". Jim is now also a Benedict and has a family, is nicely ensconced on a fine farm in Irishtown, and is assiduously cultivating the top soil for a peaceful "way of life". Jim also a veteran of the Second World War, and has a creditable front line record.

A few years ago there was a plethora of boxers around Charlottetown and in Summerside also. Memory fails to recall their names — the Longphie boys were quite prominent. Jack Connelly, who later became a commander of a Navy warship, and is now prominent in the Dominion postal service, had a Stanley Ketchell right — which if gotten over properly meant oblivion for the receiver. There was a Mooney boy from St. Theresa's who looked promising. Jack Wright of Summerside who was a good hockey and baseball player, took to boxing and became a veritable bearcat with the boxing gloves. He was quite badly broken up in World War II, but is slowly coming back to his former physical condition.

"Big Boy" Peterson and Harry Poulton of Charlottetown are good "prospects" in their respective classes. Peterson is a big husky fellow, maybe a little slow (naturally) in movement, but practice on the light bag and boxing with lightweights would make him much better. A mistake that is often made in trying to learn the fine points, is training before an audience. The boxer and trainer should work out their "science" and strategy alone. It takes meticulous care and patience to get any certain blow, or succession of blows to work in passable form. It took Tommy Ryan nearly six months to get Jeffries to use a straight left fairly well.

Harry Poulton is quite young — is of composed mind — has the attributes of one who will improve in style and physique. There are reformers and "holier than thou" perfectionists who want to evangelize everyone to their way of thinking — they hold up their hands in holy horror at the spectacle of a boxing match or bare fist fight. They might as well save their sighs and tears and let the rest of the world go on. It is a practicable demonstration that there is still energy and activity among the younger generation, and when the call comes to defend the motherland against aggression, those young little aspirants are among the first to enlist to risk their lives for the national honor and safety — including their detractors as well as their admirers. Settling differences with bare clenched fists is as old as the human race. In historic references to early English jurisprudence, it is recorded that in certain cases where proper judgment was impossible, the judge ordered "trial-by-battail" with bare fists. The winner was adjudged to be right.

Boston Red Sox Win 10-5 From Washington

(By The Associated Press)
Boston Red Sox kids continued to throw their weight around the American League Tuesday, as rookie Bill Henry won his second straight, 10-5 over Washington. Don DiMaggio, Walt Dropo and Don Lenhardt socked homers in the 14-hit attack on Joe Haynes and two successors. Dom had four hits and Jim Piersall, the kid shortstop, hit three singles.

Clyde Klutz and Sam Mele hit home runs off Henry, who made his debut with a victory over Washington last week.

Detroit reeled toward a record by losing its eighth straight, 2-0, to Chicago's Saul Rogovin. The league's earned run leader of '51 notched his first win with a six-hitter.

The major league record for most consecutive games lost at the start of a season is 13 held jointly by Washington in 1904 and Detroit in 1920.

Ted Gray, Detroit's starter, had a two-hit shutout for seven innings. But in the eighth he threw by Johnny Ligon and a double that caromed off Don Kolloway's glove helped the White Sox to a run.

Johnny Sain, the one time star curver of Boston, was held Philadelphia's A's to only three hits for New York Yankees' 3-1 victory. It was the A's sixth straight setback.

After Elmer Valo hit a homer in the first, Sain didn't allow another until the eighth, a single by Heinie Mejers. Valo added the third hit, a bunt single, in the ninth.

Gil McDougald led the assault on Morris Martin and Toronto-born Dick Fowler with a double and two singles. His single in the second drove home the first two runs.

The entire National League played at night, including a two-night doubleheader between Boston and Brooklyn at Ebbetts Field.

Boys from 15 to 18 years of age, with the boys from 18 to 20 being juniors.

New York was at Philadelphia, Chicago at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at Cincinnati.

Cleveland at St. Louis opened an American League series at Sportsman's Park.

Chris Van Cuyk and Preacher Roe left-handed Brooklyn Dodgers to a two-night National League sweep over Boston Braves 2-1 and 3-1, with Roy Campanella and Duke Snider delivering the winning hits.

Campanella, who hit a second-inning homer in the opener, won the game with a single scoring Billy Cox in the ninth inning. Sid Gordon's homer had tied the score for the Braves in the ninth.

Sinder's double knocked in Cox and Jackie Robinson for the decisive runs in Roe's second-game edge over Jim Wilson.

Despite the double loss, the Boston pitchers struck out a total of 17 Dodgers. Max Surkont had a total of nine and Wilson struck out eight in the final.

Two walks and a triple by Joe Adcock ruined the major league debut of Vinegar Bend Mizell as Cincinnati shaded the St. Louis Cardinal rookie lefty, 2-1. Kenny Raffensberger, 24, scattered seven hits to win the 2½-year-old freshman. Manager Eddie Stanky, shortstop Solly Hemus and pitcher Al Brazle of the Cards were ejected after a series of rhabarbs with the umpires.

Bobby Thomson's triple with the bases loaded in the third game gave the New York Giants Larry Jansen a 4-1 victory over the Phillies. Willie Jones accounted for the lone Phil run, with a homer in the eighth.

Chicago unloaded eight runs in a big fourth inning for a 13-2 win over Pittsburgh Pirates. Bob Rush coasted home with a ninth-inning while his mates made the most of 17 hits and four Pirate errors.

Randy Turpin In Kayo Win

LONDON, April 22 (AP)—Randy Turpin, British and former world middleweight champion, knocked out Jacques Hairabedian, French light heavyweight champion, in 2:01 of the third round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Harringay Arena tonight.

It was Turpin's first bout against a 175-pound class fighter.

Turpin is contracted to fight Don Cockell, British light heavyweight champion, at the White City, London, June 10 for the British title.

Turpin, who weighed 164 pounds against Hairabedian's 173 1-4, looked fit.

The British champion opened a deep cut under the Frenchman's left eye in the second round and almost closed his right eye, too, in the third round, with the French fighter's face a mask of blood.

Turpin finished the one-sided show with a short right hook to the chin.

Fort Frances Wins 9-5 From Stratford Team

FORT WILLIAM, April 22 (CP)—Fort Frances Canadians tonight smothered through a staggering Stratford Indians defence to score six goals in the third period and take the first game of the Allan Cup hockey final 9-5.

The Western Canada champions uncorked a brilliant offensive in the final period after trailing 4-3 at the end of the second. They led 2-1 at the end of the first.

Paced by Ed Kliner's four goals, three in the third period, Fort Frances had no trouble piercing the Stratford defence. Both teams played a nip-and-tuck battle in the first two periods.

About 3,500 fans saw the game. Second game will be played here Thursday.

The B. E. G. committee originally planned to erect a 40,000-seat stadium at the University of British Columbia but U. B. C. rejected the plan because it lacks the necessary parking space.

Says Little Leagues Greatest Thing Ever Happened To Baseball

Probable Pitchers For Today's Games

Combining tales of the diamond with a talk on Little League baseball and the showing of three films, Brooklyn Dodgers scout Bill O'Connor wound up his two-day stand in Charlottetown last night with an appearance at the Holy Redeemer Community Centre.

Bill's last appearance featured a discussion period with a bit of argument thrown in as the large group of kids and adults enjoyed the informal session.

Prior to addressing the group at Holy Redeemer the Dodgers scout was at Saint Dunstan's University in the late afternoon. During the day he also visited Parkdale, Spring Park and Prince Street Schools.

More than 60,000 youngsters between the ages of nine and twelve played Little League ball last year, stated O'Connor last night. This year it is expected that the number will be doubled, he added.

It is quite possible that teams from the Maritimes will be taken to Williamsport to compete in the Little League World series, he said. Each year the eight best Little League teams in the States are brought to Williamsport where they play-off for the championship.

The Little League movement, which O'Connor claims is the greatest thing that ever happened to baseball, is taking root in the Maritimes. Teams are being organized in Kentville, N. S., and in Moncton this summer.

Little League ball will also be played here. The league will be organized by the Department of Physical Fitness and run with the help of the Abegweit, Rotary and Gyro Clubs and possibly other organizations. O'Connor urged the meeting to support the operation of such a league.

Bill predicted that the Dodgers and Cleveland would meet in the World Series next fall but the friendly visitor did not get away without an argument in his selection of the Brooklyn team. There were too many New York and St. Louis supporters in the audience for that.

Bill, however, was willing to prove that man for man the Dodgers were the best in the National League. "Who is a better catcher than Campanella?" he asked. "Berra," someone replied, and O'Connor proceeded to show that Campanella could hit better, run faster, throw quicker and throw better than any of them.

O'Connor also has his share of questions to answer. Asked about his opinion of Casey Stengel as manager Bill replied that his success was due to the high quality of ball players he had to work with. He recalled Casey's earlier days with Boston and Brooklyn, when Stengel spent most of his time in the second division.

And this led to a series of stories, most of them comical ones about the Dodgers and that famous character Babe Herman, or the time that the three Dodgers landed on the same base, or stories involving disputes between umpires and players.

Between talks films of the 1951 World Series, Little League baseball and a review of the growth of baseball were shown with Charlie Ryan operating the machine.

Throughout the day Bill was accompanied by Art Perry of the Physical Fitness Department.

Today Bill will conclude his visit to the Province with appearances at Kensington and Summerside. He will address the pupils in Kensington School around two o'clock and be at the Summerside High School at three. A banquet and films at the Legion Hall in Summerside tonight will retire the side.

60-Year-Old Woman Prize Blind Pupil

VICTORIA, B. C. (CP)—Miss Dorothy Stark, herself blind, has been teaching the sightless to read and write for 22 years. Local representative of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Miss Stark taught in public schools before she lost her sight.

Now she has a number of blind pupils, whom she visits once a week. She leaves them plenty of homework. She says her prize pupil is a 60-year-old Victoria woman who quickly learned to read Braille in English and then in French.

Miss Stark uses two methods. For younger and more alert students there is the Braille system, involving different arrangements of six dots. For older pupils who have lost the fine sense of touch she uses the "Moon" system, employing raised letters.

After teaching the reading of all types of books — Latin classics, romances, mysteries and the Bible, she trains them to read time on clocks and watches.

She says it is easier to learn to write than to read. The course for Braille runs more than three months and "moon" can be taught in about three weeks.

Cardinals Owner Up On Income Tax Charge

ST. LOUIS, April 22 (AP)—Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of evading $49,620 in income taxes between 1946 and 1949.

Saigh was indicted on five counts. Each carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

One of the counts named Saigh and the St. Louis National League baseball club. The others charged Saigh personally.

Saigh acquired the controlling interest in the Cardinals in 1948. He was a partner with the late Postmaster-General Robert E. Hannegan in buying the club from Sam Breadon in 1947.

Saigh was in Cincinnati where the Cardinals opened a series with the Cincinnati Reds and was notified at Crosley Field of the indictments. He sought to make arrangements for a plane flight here.

"This indictment comes as a complete surprise to me," Saigh said. "I knew an investigation had been going on but I was of the opinion the case was in process of settlement. This is a personal matter and has nothing to do with the ball club."
