CHEESE INFORMATION.

THE CANDIAN PRODUCT NOW BEING VERY LARGELY EXPORTED.

The History of Cheese the Pastoral Poetry of the Arvan Race—Something About Various Special and Toothsome Brands—Spurious Cheeses.

One of the greatest wits and wags yet produced by this country was once reproached by an editor to write a good article on milk. The reply by return mail: "The best article on milk I can think of is cream. What more do you want?"

In the same fashion it may be said of cheese that the best article on cheese is mould, or chemical corruption. In truth, cheese owes its value to generation and the presence of "mould" in life. In a word, cheese is the glorification of decay.

The history of cheese may be considered as constituting the whole pastoral poetry of the Arvan race. The mild and gentle cow, sacred still among the Aryans of India, doubtless by reason of her gentleness in the family economy, fell especially to the charge of the women. Our very language proves this. Our word "daughter" comes from the Sanscrit dāhiti, meaning the milker, from the verb dā, to milk. Dug, for teat, is doubtless from the same.

Cheese-making has, therefore, been a feminine profession from the start, and on some English farms to this very day the money coming from the sale of the cheese is given to the women of the family, to be used for the purchase of the necessities of life. England has long been famous for the quantity and quality of its cheese.

It is destroying all the traditions of cheese. One steamer lately carried to England 750,000 cheeses. Perhaps after a chemical treatment many of them, like good citizens, will have returned home to delight unwitting natives by their fine foreign finish. Yet, though Canada makes cheese by a mountain load every year, there are not, as in England, France and Italy, any localities famous for special brands. The cheese is not far to seek. Our cheese factories collect the milk of various areas, having different soils and peculiarities of pasturage, and mix them, striking thus an average, a stable indeed, but lacking character.

It has been proved beyond a peradventure that quality depends on the pasturage. Cows, dairy-maids and special methods of making have been taken from Cheshire to another part of England, and the result was a product very different from the famous Cheshire cheese. Cheddar, too, which comes from a vale in Somerset, where the famous Sydney Smith was born, has been taken to the penguin belt of wit and humor, for which there is no chemical counterfeiter. It smacks of the soil; it breathes of the pasture.

But the glory of England's cheese as to quantity has been eclipsed by Canada and as to quality by France. France cannot keep pace with the demand for her cheeses. Consequently a large amount of spurious French cheese is sold in this country. The cheese of tables "note" is almost always a fit subject of suspicion; good for the mind, perhaps, since a chemist whose digestion had been impaired by cheese takes a note of it. Hence your infatuated table d'hôte diner, who always wants quantity rather than quality, votes for Camembert.

Port du Salut is another cheese of the same order, but superior in flavor to all except true Brie. It costs about the same as Brie, and it may take rank over that, as that has done over Roquefort, and as Roquefort did over Swiss, which was the first foreign cheese that ever really had a hold on the affections of the Canadian stomach.

The making of Port du Salut is a profound secret, the property of the monks of the Abbey of Brice-à-brac, in France, and the plots government might be forgiven for believing that every cheese a benediction had been said.

Roquefort, though its price yet is high, is a richer cheese, more food of lingering on the breast than the others. It is made of goat's milk, and the chiao-souro effects in it are caused, not by resting it with insertions of wire, but by dropping into it some handfuls of peasant bread. Roquefort, therefore, is a dairy-maid concoction of bread and cheese.

Gorgonzola, another novel cheese in this country, not French, but Italian, is more expensive than Roquefort, though its taste is the same, namely, the milk of that gay and festive animal who has made so many humorists—the picturesque and venerable goat. This cheese comes from the Milanese district of Italy, retains its aristocratic richness unspiced by the democratic climate of Canada, and is a good cheese to swear by. When it differs from Limburger—a good one to swear at.

Some cheeses, like Roquefort and Gorgonzola, require two or three years to ripen for the taste of experts. Some cheeses attain a great age. Parmesan, another Italian or Sicilian variety, has been long on the breast and affords a lot of food and is full of life and power. Neufchatel is a French cheese, not so Swiss, as many fancy from the name.

A Curious Old Custom. A curious and ancient custom has just been observed at Bourne, Lincolnshire. In accordance with traditional direction of "Charity Trustees," let by auction a number of boys started in a race, the bidding going on while the boys were running, and the field was ultimately let to the bidder who had made the highest offer at the time the winner was then expended in "white bread" for the poor of the town, or in the relief of the Langley case.

Leading P. E. I. of this House and subsequent care while in London, Ont.—Jana Phoenice Manifest—Out of the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley formerly of this city, now of London Ont., received a letter a few months ago stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend had received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel H. Kneebly's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays Fermentations. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curls, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Friend—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children. Dr. G. C. Conroy, Lowell, Mass.

Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various castor-oil preparations which are destroying the lives of their children. Dr. J. F. Conroy, Montreal, A.P.

Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any preparation known to me. H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 De. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

One physician in the children's department has given publicly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as "Castoria," yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it. A LADY ALMOST KILLED.

A terrible occurrence, which will probably result fatally, took place on the farm of Mr. John Gilder, who lives a few miles from Berlin, Ont., on Monday night. Mrs. Gilder, it appears, was gathering eggs in the barn, and looked in the manger, to which was tied a vicious bull. The animal attacked the woman with his horns and gored her with his horns. The shrieks of Mrs. Gilder brought her husband to the rescue, who after a desperate struggle with the bull managed to pull his wife out of further danger. Assistance was called, and the injured woman was removed to the house, and Dr. Lackner, of Berlin, summoned. Her whole body is badly bruised, and owing to the terrible shock to her nervous system, the doctors fear fatal results will follow.

Why spend $1 for a bottle of medicine for a complaint when one box of Beech's pills, costing only 25 cents, will cure nearly all known diseases? This is because constipation is the cause of nearly all ailments and Beech's pills cure constipation. A valuable book of knowledge sent free, on request, by E. F. Allen & Co., 365 Canal St. New York.

A Graduate of Toronto University Says: "My children have been treated with Scott's Emulsion from their earliest year. Our physician first recommended it and now whenever a child takes cold my wife immediately resorts to this remedy, which always effects a cure."
