'Bluenose Special' Brings Former Islanders Home

The 'Bluenose Special' rolled into Charlottetown last evening whirrying four former Islanders, who have not seen their early homes for a great many years. Known as the "House Party on Wheels" the Special train brings former residents of the Atlantic Provinces, now living in Western Canada to visit their native homelands.

Operated by arrangements between Canadian National Railways and the Maritime Provinces Association of Edmonton, Alta., Edmonton businessmen and former Maritimer J.V. Dodds is tour organizer and Fred R. Wildy, passenger sales agent at Edmonton, accompanied the party.

Those arriving in Charlottetown last evening were O.M. Lane, Armstrong, B.C.; Mrs. C.A. Griffiths, Edmonton, Alta.; Mrs. G.H. Ficht, Edmonton, Alta. and Bruce MacLean, Lashburn, Sask.

Mr. Lane, who left Dunstaffnage in 1906, made his last trip east in 1926. His daughter, Mrs. Griffiths, is visiting Prince Edward Island for the first time. Both will stay with W. Rupert Godfrey in Marshfield.

Formerly from Charloteown, Mrs. Ficht, is making her second visit home since 1917. While on the Island she will be staying with her sister, Mrs. H.G. Matthews in Souris.

Mr. MacLean will be staying with friends in Cardigan.

Travellers from eight to 80 years in age were aboard the Bluenose Special, which was making the round trip cross country run for the 12th consecutive year.

Sixteen of the passengers detrained in Moncton, bound for points in New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, with the balance continuing to Halifax and other Nova Scotia centres.

Among those on the train was 80-year-old J.W. Souther of Quesnel, B.C.; a retired building contractor, who is visiting his brothers, Bob and Walter at Saint John, though he has travelled east quite a number of times since moving out west many years ago. Mr. Souther said this was his first trip by the Bluenose special.

"It was a most enjoyable experience," he said "and my only regret is that I didn't know about these vacation specials before this year.

"Not only does the Bluenose Special provide a pleasant trip," continued the octogenarian, "but it's educatonal as well."

Accidental Death Verdict Returned By Coroner's Jury

A coroner's jury decided last night that James Barry Gallant, nin-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gallant, Mayfield, came to his death as a result of injuries received when struck by a car driven by Rita Mrs. Alfred MacNeill, on July 9, 1959, death taking place the same day at the Charlottetown Hospital.

The verdict further noted that in the opinion of the jury no blame should be attached to the driver of the vehicle.

SEVEN WITNESSES

Evidence was taken from seven witnesses during the course of the one and one-half hour inquest which took place at City Hall.

Coroner Dr. H.P. Stewart of Charlottetown presided. He was assisted by crown prosecutor John P. Nicholson, who represented the attorney-general's department.

Called to give evidence were: Dr. Frank MacMillan, Charlottetown, the attending physician; Dr. Clarence Coady, Charlottetown, who assisted Dr. MacMillan during a surgical operation performed on the child; and Dr. Robert B. Abel, provincial pathologist, who performed the post-mortem examination.

Also heard were Rustico fisherman, William Wallace Gauthier, a cousin of the deceased, who saw the child fall; Mrs. Mary M.A. Gallant, Rusticoville telephone operator who called the ambulance and the doctor on instructions from Edward Lowther of Cavendish; Mrs. Rita MacNeill, driver of the vehicle involved, and Constable James H. Maloney of the Charlottetown detachment of the RCMP, the officer in charge of the investigation.

In addition the sworn depositions of the five American passengers travelling with Mrs. MacNeill at the time were read to the jury by Constable Maloney.

MASSIVE BLEEDING

All three medical witnesses agreed that the immediate cause of death was due to what Dr. Abel described as massive intra-abdominal bleeding.

Dr. MacMillan said that death ensued very quickly after the incision was made and the pressure released. He added that approximately three quarts of blood was suctioned from the child's stomach before he died.

Dr. Abel stated that his examination also revealed that the child had suffered a broken left femur.

The little boy appeared to come out of nowhere, Mrs. MacNeil said. She added that she was returning to Charlottetown with a party of Americans she had driven earlier to Green Gables. At the time the accident occurred she was driving between 30 and 35 miles per hour.

The car, a 1959 Dodge was owned by W.G. Barbour, and was in good working condition.

POLICE EVIDENCE

Constable Maloney stated that witnesses had helped him reconstruct the scene of the accident next day.

From the point where the young victim came to rest to the rear of the vehicle was 12 feet six inches, he said. The highway at this point was 20 feet six inches wide with shoulders nine feet wide.

Indication pointed to the fact that the vehicle had stopped instantaneously, the investigating officer added.

Several police photos of the area were introduced by Constable Maloney and given to the jury for study. These showed a path leading diagonally across the field to the entrance of the driveway to the Gauthier home, where the boy had been immediately prior to the accident.

Constable Maloney declared that his investigations led him to believe that the child, presumed on his way home at the time, had left the path and taken the more direct route which led across the highway some distance from the Gauthier driveway.

Three of the Americans, Rufus Jennings, George Ingham and Rev. Walter Audey, declared that Mrs. MacNeill was travelling between 30 and 35 miles per hour.

SAW CHILD

Mr. Ingham and Rev. Mr. Audey saw the child standing on the shoulder of the highway just before the accident took place. Both agreed that he was looking in the same direction as the car was travelling as he stepped out in front of it.

Mr. Ingham stated that he was amazed at the driver's presence of mind, while Rev. Audey declared that the car swerved away the instant the boy stepped out. He was about two car lengths in front at the time.

The other two passengers in the vehicle, Mrs. George Northrop Cox and Mrs. Elizabeth Dorothy Russell, declared that they did not see the boy stepping out on the road.

The statements of all five passengers were sworn to in front of prothonotary Gordon Holmes the day following the accident.

Members of the jury were: Douglas H. Durber, Charlottetown, foreman; Joseph A. MacKinnon, Malpeque, R.R. 7; Wallace E. Rodd, West Royalty; Cyril A. Morrissey, William W. Brehaut, Donald Cameron, Gordon and William H. Soper, all of Charlottetown.

goodwill and copyrights, were estimated at more than £20,000,000.

Thomson's newspapers in Britain, including the Kemsley group and the Scottish papers he already owned, will have a total circulaton of about 6,500,000.

The Sunday Times—which has no connection with The Times, an independent daily—is the prestige newspaper in the group. Its influence is considered to be of more importance than its circulation of 832,657. There had been speculation that Lord Kemsley, who had been closely associated with the paper for 44 years, might withhold it from sale but Thomson's offer was for all papers in the group.

Thomson's Scottish interests are The Scotsman, The Weekly Scotsman and The Evening Dispatch—all published in Edinburgh—and a group of weeklies centred on Inverness.

STARTED AS CLERK

Thomson, a widower, left school in Toronto when he was 14 to work as a clerk in a fishing supply store for $5 a week. He became successively a salesman, farmer, stenographer, bookkeeper and salesman again.

During the depression, he sold radios in Northern Ontario. When he found few buyers because of poor reception, Thomson bought a transmitter and started broadcasting from North Bay. Sales of radio sets went up quickly.

When he moved to Timmins to start another station, he also bought the weekly newspaper in 1934—his first venture into publishing—and converted it to a daily three years later.

Thomson credits much of his success to attention to detail on the selling side.

Electrical Assoc. Meets

SUMMERSIDE — A very well attended meeting of the Electrical Contractors Association took place last night at Mulberry Lodge with the president, Gilbert Clements, presiding.

A very interesting discussion took place on the latest rules of the Canadian Electrical Code and regulations of the Red Seal standards of wiring. It was felt that the general public could be better informed on some phases of these and this was arranged.

The highlight of the evening was the preparation of the float for the Lobster Carnival Parade on Thursday.

One new member, Emerson Barlow, was admitted to the association.

The meeting adjourned after which a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments.

Two Tankers Collide In Fog

HALIFAX (CP) — Two fully-loaded tankers collided in thick fog Thursday at the harbor entrance. One almost didn't make port.

The 2,153 - ton tanker Willowbranch groped back to her Halifax pier, a gaping hole in the port bow and the crew's quarters awash. Nobody was hurt in the collision with the 5,000-ton Imperial Halifax.

There was no estimate of damage. Capt. E. Patenaud of Montreal, skipper of the Willowbranch, said "it's lucky any of us are alive."

"We were slowed. The other tanker was moving. The fog was dense, visibility zero," he said.

"When we backed away, I saw we weren't going to sink so we cut away the anchor and came in."

The Willowbranch is from Montreal.

Quality Product Said Aim Of Dept.

The director of consumer service for the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa, H. V. Dempsey, is visiting Prince Edward Island. Mr. Dempsey is paying his first visit to the new fish processing plant at Souris.

He is also visiting the Summerside Lobster Carnival where the fisheries department is operating a cooking school to demonstrate new fish recipes and newer methods of preparing fish products.

Mr. Dempsey stressed that the department is trying to increase the consumption of fish by Canadians and also to assure the public of a consistently high quality product.

He said an inspection program starting from the time the fish are landed at the processing plant and continuing down to the final marketing is being established. This inspection is only being done however, in cases where plants or companies request such inspection service.

A product which has been inspected all the way and which meets with rigid standards will be certified as Grade A, the director declared.

He was a guest of the P.E.I. Fisheries Federation at luncheon yesterday and discussed various problems with the members.
