

Scottish Seaman Is Praised For Heroism In Ship Rescue

HALIFAX (CP)—Alex Lamont, a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, and a crew member aboard the British vessel Londoner was credited here with saving the lives of several seamen rescued in the Atlantic Friday from the sinking Liberian freighter Tradeways II.

The Londoner rescued 22 of the 33 Chinese crewmen from the 7,184-ton Tradeways II when she broke up and sank in the Atlantic, 640 miles north of the Azores. The vessel Jean L. D., a French craft, picked up five of the survivors. One man is known dead, 10 others are missing and presumed drowned.

Survivors brought here by the Londoner said Lamont volunteered to be lowered during the height of a gale-tossed storm to fasten life lines to the Tradeways II crewmen.

RESCUED MEN

They said Lamont, held by a harness to give him full use of both his hands, was knocked against the side of the vessel and in and out of the water by waves as high as 15 feet. He grasped the exhausted men and placed ropes around their bodies so they could be hauled aboard.

"He did an excellent job," said Capt. Albert Pease of the Londoner. "If it was not for him I doubt if we would have saved as many as we did."

Lamont said: "I don't save much to say other than it was a job. It was cold but I was all right."

Capt. Pease said two men were sent overboard from the deck of the Tradeways II attempting to launch the first of two lifeboats, and a second lifeboat was swamped by heavy seas. Two men were rescued from the second boat.

IGNORED ADVICE

Capt. Pease said he advised men on the ill-fated vessel to wait until morning to attempt to get to safety. But during the high four men tried to swim to the Londoner. Only one made it.

He said a raft constructed of oil drums and planks was launched. But when the Londoner was maneuvering near the raft to offer it assistance, the rescue ship collided with the Tradeways II. The Londoner suffered minor damage. Rescue operations were suspended until daylight.

Sixteen of the Chinese survivors are being housed in Canadian immigration headquarters here. The other, Chen Doh Hough, 52, of Taiwan, was taken to hospital for observation. A hospital official said he may have chest injuries. The 17 will be flown to Formosa.

The Tradeways II was en route to Montreal from Antwerp when she reported she was sinking. Cause of the sinking was not known. The Londoner, on way to Norfolk, Va., to pick up cargo diverted course to land the seamen here.

BUYS WINNIE'S HOME

LONDON (Reuters)—The London house where Sir Winston Churchill lived for 20 years and died last January was sold for 102,500 ($307,500) Thursday to a London businessman who said he wanted to ensure its ownership remained in British hands.

CUBANS ESCAPE IN FOUR-MILE SWIM

Five of the 16 Cubans who recently swam in small groups four miles to the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, are shown after they arrived in Miami, Fla. The refugees refused to identify themselves for fear of reprisal against their families but said they were from Caimanera near the base. They said three of their group were cut down by bullets from a military patrol boat as they swam toward Guantanamo Bay.

FACTS FOR FARMERS

Accounting Course Reported Available

By DAVID E. WARD
Farm Management Specialist
P.E.I. Department of Agriculture

During the past few years, the subject of Farm Management has been receiving a great deal of attention, by all concerned with agriculture. In fact, no one single field of endeavor is as important to the farm operator as is management or the running of the farm. This is so because of the nature and function of running a farm. Farm Management as a whole takes place within the organization of the resources of land, labor, and capital in its various forms (money, buildings, machinery, cattle, etc.), and is concerned with the products produced and the techniques used to produce these products. Everyone has a certain amount of natural management ability. This can be improved by learning and practice on the part of the farm operator. For the past two winters, farm management meetings have been held by the P.E.I. Department of Agriculture in various parts of the province. The meetings were held once a month for four months. Lack of consistent attendance and continuity of subject matter contributed to limited success of this effort to learn more about running the farm.

FARM MANAGEMENT CLUBS

A number of farm operators have expressed interest in the organization of farm management clubs or associations. This would consist of a group of farm operators meeting regularly throughout the year with pre-announced topics for discussion. In this manner, sufficient time would be available to discuss the manner in which the various resources at the disposal of the farm operator can be organized and combined into an improved management program.

A small membership fee would be charged to pay for incidental expenses and for tours in the months in which meetings are not held.

ACCOUNTS AND ANALYSIS

Farm accounts have been talked of so much in past discussions of farm management. I'm afraid the impression has been created that farm management means only the keeping of farm accounts. This is not so. Farm accounts are just one part of an overall management program. They can be thought of as a stepping stone. The fact remains, however, that farm accounts are not being used. The keeping of accounts is one thing, but the analysis of the accounts kept is most important. A person cannot improve upon something he is not familiar with. Until the results of the present management program are known, where his income comes from and where it goes, no sound farm program can be made. Consequently, perhaps the best place to start is by determining what past performance has accomplished and locating problem areas.

MANAGEMENT ACCOUNTING COURSE

The Vocational Education Division of the Department of Labor, Ottawa has prepared a Farm Management Accounting Course. This course shows how a farmer, regardless of the size or type of his farm, can use information contained in his own records to operate more profitably. Prior knowledge or experience in book-keeping is not required.

Is the farm really making a profit? How and where can costs be cut to an efficient minimum? Which activities are paying their way? Inexpensive methods by which farmers may obtain answers to these and other questions are found in this course.

LENGTH OF COURSE

The course consists of 10 sessions two hours long. The course which is being given by various staff members of the P.E.I. Department of Agriculture, could be held once a week, twice a month, etc. whatever is convenient to the group.

Some of the topics covered are: "What Information Does a Farmer Need to Operate His Farm Profitably?"; "What Information Can He Obtain From His Income Statement?"; "What Information Can He Obtain From a Balance Sheet?"; "Where Did the Cash Go?"; "Are All Products Making a Profit?"; "How Can a Farmer Plan Ahead?"; "How Can He Follow a Plan?"; "How Can He

The cost for this course is $15. Material will be provided for each session. A minimum of 12 and a maximum of 25 will be accommodated per group. Husband and wife both are invited. A husband-wife team will be counted as one for fee payment and two for group size.

GROUPS FORMED

It is hoped that individuals in an area will form themselves into a group and contact the P.E.I. Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 2000, Charlottetown. Individual inquiries will be received at the same address. If groups formed for this course were interested in continuing, other topics relating to farm management could be prepared, thus continuing the group method (farm management clubs) of learning more about this important subject.

NOTE: An excellent "Farm Planning Guide" is published by the Bank of Nova Scotia. A limited number of these are on hand and may be obtained by writing the P.E.I. Department of Agriculture Box 2000, Charlottetown.

Ont. Government Aids Girl With Transplanted Kidney

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Good news has come for the family of 13-year-old Diane Vautour, the first child to survive a kidney transplant in Canada.

The Ontario government announced it will pay transportation costs for Diane and her mother, Mrs. Gerald Vautour, to Montreal for the next year. "I am really happy to hear the news," said Mrs. Vautour. "Now our family can get back to normal."

Diane received the kidney transplant operation at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital May 25. She returned home Oct. 1 but must go to Montreal for treatment every three weeks for the next five years.

Mr. Vautour, a carpenter, estimates that Diane's illness has cost him more than $5,000 in 1½ years. Bills have accumulated.

Service clubs, trade unions and citizens have contributed to a fund started for the girl by the Sarnia Observer. "One illness has made a financial cripple out of us," said Mrs. Vautour. "More than $1,500 was raised by the fund."

J. Ralph Knox, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Lambton West, said Ontario Health Minister Dymond has started to map out a program that will continue to provide transportation expenses for as long as is necessary. Mr. Knox said the fund still is necessary to pay for drugs and other necessities Diane needs.
