MARITIME WINTER FAIR

The 42nd annual Maritime Winter Fair will open its doors on Saturday, October 29th, and will continue until Saturday, November 5th. From early indications there is a large list of entries in all divisions. Mr. George A. Campbell of Souris, according to the Secretary-Manager Alex Thompson, filed the first entry for the 1955 show. This was an entry for both seed and tablestock potatoes.

JUDGING PROGRAMME

Beef Steers - Monday, October 31; Shortforns (R.O.P.) - Monday, October 31; Herefords - Monday, October 31; Foxes - Saturday, October 29 - Monday, October 31 - Tuesday, November 1; Shortforns (Beef) Breeding Classes - Monday, October 31; Aberdeen Angus Breeding Classes - Monday, October 31; Ayrshires (Young and Dry Classes) - Thursday, November 3; Ayrshires (Milking and Group) - Friday, November 4; Jerseys (Young and Dry Classes - Thursday, November 3; Jerseys (Milking and Group) - Friday, November 4; Holsteins (Young and Dry Classes) - Tuesday, November 1; Holsteins (Milking and Group) - Wednesday, November 2; Guernseys (Young and Dry Classes) - Tuesday, November 1; Guernseys (Milking and Group) - Wednesday, November 2; Mink - Thursday, November 3 - Friday, November 4 - Saturday, November 5; Swine - Tuesday, November 1; Sheep - Wednesday, November 2; Thursday, November 3; Draught Horses on the line - Tuesday p.m., November 1 - Wednesday p.m., November 2; Draught Teams Evening Show, to be announced; Light Horses on the line - Monday p.m., October 31 - Tuesday p.m., November 3; Light Horse Show each evening.

TRANSPORTATION

According to the C. N. R. published report, both car ferries will be operating. Ten trips will be made each day up to and including November 3rd. It is also understood that a late boat will be operating in addition to this schedule.

For your information the times of regular crossings from both terminals are: 7:30, 8:45, 10:40 a.m. and 12:20, 1:40, 3:00, 4:20, 6:20, 8:30 and 10:00 p.m. The time of the late crossing will be announced later.

MARKETING WOODLOT PRODUCTS

Most farmers and woodlot owners never get the best value for their woodlot products. Good sawlog material is still being cut up for cordwood thereby losing two-thirds of their market value. Jobs come to a farmer and buy a bush for a lump sum. The jobber knows the value of the timber, being experienced, and the farmer does not. Thus the jobber often buys the woods for much less than it is worth. Even when the buyer purchases sawlogs on the skidway, the farmer often is unaware of the number of board feet measure he has cut, or the various prices for each species at the time. Again the jobber can make great profits. The following sound advice may be used by interested wood owners. Many farm woodlot owners obtain far less for their products than they might obtain had they observed the following points:

1. Never sell to the first bidder. There is often a wide range of prices, particularly for good quality sawlogs. 2. Where possible sell the manufactured product rather than stumps. If it is necessary to sell stumps, mark the trees to be cut and specify the exact area to be cut, and the type of timber to be cut in a written contract. 3. The timber from a privately owned woodlot can be sold by whatever unit of measurement is agreed upon between the owner and the buyer. For sawlogs it is preferable to sell on the mill scale, since for small lots the amount of lumber that can be sawn out of them is from 5 to 30 per cent greater than values given by log rules. 4. Never sell timber for a set price per acre unless you have a very accurate estimate of the amount of timber on the land. It is best for the pocketbook and the woodlot to sell only the large trees. The medium and small trees are the potential timber trees twenty-five and fifty years from now. Very little profit is made in small timber, but this fact is often obscured by the profits made on large logs cut at the same time. A farmer does not sell a pig until it has reached a good market weight, when he would realize the most profit on his pig. When selling logs to a buyer, the farm woodlot owner can measure the volume of wood he has for sale by means of a log rule.

The New Brunswick log rule is designed to measure log volumes approximately as they are run off the mill if there are no defects. Measure the length of the log in feet and the diameter at the small end in inches. Then read off the column to get the log volume. If the log is unsound deduct the volume of the defective part. Copies of this log rule may be obtained from the Provincial Department of Agriculture, Forestry Division.

STORING POTATOES

The primary objects in the storage of any perishable food product are to prolong its edible condition over a longer period of time and reduce loss during the storage period. The chief shrinkage in storage results from moisture losses and decay. Storage, particularly controlled storage, makes it possible to hold all or part of the main crop of potatoes through the winter and spring months. This enables the grower to dispose of his crop at such times as the requirements of the market demand. By so doing he can avoid marketing at a time of over-supply and low prices.

The successful storage of potatoes is dependent upon temperature, humidity, circulation of air, exclusion of light, soundness of tubers stored, freedom from soil and surface moisture, and depth of tubers in the bin. Potatoes that are to be stored should be fully mature, free from severe bruises and any apparent disease, dry, and free from excess soil. This can be assured only by careful sorting of the crop before storage.

Potatoes for table use should be stored at 40 degrees F. Two weeks prior to using, potatoes should be placed at a temperature of 65 degrees to 70 degrees F. A temperature below 40 degrees F. causes a reversion of the starch in potato tubers to sugar. This decrease of starch and increase of sugar content results in sogginess, a dark color after cooking, and a sweet taste. Potatoes for seed purposes should be stored at a temperature of 35 degrees to 38 degrees F. High humidity in potato storages is necessary if shrinkage of the tubers is to be reduced to a minimum. A relative humidity of 70 per cent is recommended. This is high enough to retard shrinkage and low enough to retard mold and atmospheric conditions to prevent formation of free moisture on the surface of the tubers.

VENTILATION
The importance of a good supply of pure air circulating in the potato storage is frequently overlooked. A potato tuber is living tissue and breathes, hence a supply of pure air is desirable. The tubers, should not be piled against the wall or directly on the floor, as this does not permit sufficient ventilation especially when the quantity piled is large. Suitable ventilation can be provided by constructing a false wall of slats nailed sufficiently close together to retain the potatoes and about 6 inches out from the main wall. In addition, a temporary floor should be laid six inches above the main floor. It should have sufficient space between the boards to ensure free circulation of air under, around, and through the bin. Where potato storage bins are large, both vertical and horizontal ventilators made of wooden slats should be located at 6-foot intervals throughout the bin. For detailed information on potato storages refer to Canadian Department of Agriculture Bulletin 882.

THE HANDICRAFT VAN

On Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 26th, the ladies of Oyster Bed Bridge and Wheatley River met in the community hall to begin a nine day course in Handicraft, sponsored by the Women's Institute. Instructions in glove making, making of hand bags, stenciling, weaving and dressmaking were capably given by Mrs. Earl Larkin and Miss Bertha DesRoche, who were in charge of the travelling van.

Many of the ladies availed themselves to this splendid opportunity by attending all of these classes, both afternoon and evening. On Friday afternoon Oct. 7th, Achievement Day was held, when these newly acquired skills were artistically displayed and the many fine articles viewed by the visitors, also by Mrs. Maylea Manning, who was present from the Institute office to inspect the work accomplished by the class.

Mrs. Phillip Matheson spoke on behalf of the class voicing the appreciation of the leadership given by Mrs. Larkin and Miss DesRoche and telling of the pleasant and profitable time enjoyed by all. Gifts of jewellery were presented to the instructors by Mrs. Wallace Higgins and Mrs. Harry Ling. A sing-song with Mrs. Phillip Matheson at the organ followed, after which refreshments were served.

The following are the ones who took the course: Mrs. Phillip Matheson, Mrs. Daniel MacPherson, Mrs. Roderick MacPherson, Mrs. Egan MacDonald, Mrs. Wallace Higgins, and Miss Cora Matheson from Oyster Bed Bridge, Mrs. Harold Chandler, Mrs. Harold Buntain, Mrs. Fred MacRae, Miss Jean Chandler, Mrs. Gordon Andrews, Mrs. Leonard Ling, Mrs. Harry Ling, Mrs. Robert Rackham, and Mrs. Alfred Stead from Wheatley River.

4-H MEMBERSHIP GROWS

One of the most successful years in Junior club work in Canada will culminate in the 25th Annual National 4-H Club Week in Toronto, November 13-18, during the holding of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair. A record number of 116 girls and boys will attend, all of whom have been selected for outstanding club work in their respective provinces.

Though they will be kept busy in Toronto competing in National judging competitions to select Canadian champion teams in clothing, food, dairy, beef, swine, poultry, grain and potato projects, it will not all be work. The group will stay at the Royal York Hotel and will participate in conducted educational tours, be entertained at banquets and other functions and visit Niagara Falls, Hamilton, and the National Capital. They will attend the evening Horse Show as guests of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Association, and see a hockey game at Maple Leaf Gardens. A free afternoon will give the boys and girls an opportunity for shopping or seeing what they wish in Toronto. Along with more widespread public interest, membership in 4-H club work is increasing steadily and this year established a new record in Canada of 72,784 enrolled in 4,952 clubs—an increase of 4,061 members and 184 clubs over 1954. Average age of the 72,784 members in 1955 is just over 13 years and average membership per club is 14.7. Of the total membership boys exceed the girls by 640.
