Lab. Technicians Urged Take Personal Interest

Dr. J.A. MacMillan, chief of surgery, Charlottetown Hospital, last night urged a class of graduating laboratory technicians to take a personal interest in their profession.

Dr. MacMillan, guest speaker at graduating ceremonies at the Charlottetown Hospital nurses' residence which saw seven laboratory technicians receive certificates and badges, told the graduates they must prevent machine - like medical care. "Medicine must be individually stylized," he said, "it cannot be streamlined."

He also stressed that the graduates should become idealists who will take pride in the successes of the medical field and will have concern for its failures.

Dr. MacMillan congratulated Dr. John Craig, on his work as director of the division of laboratories of the P.E.I. department of health. Dr. Craig was chairman of the ceremony.

Dr. MacMillan was thanked by Dr. F.W. Jelks, bacteriologist, division of laboratories.

Following the main address, Dr. MacMillan presented certificates to the technicians, while Miss Myrna Coles, RT, president of P.E.I. branch of the Canadian Society of Laboratory Technologists, presented the badges.

Graduates were Betty Ching, Souris East; Janet Jones, Pownal; Joan MacSwain, High Bank; Evelyn MacKinnon, Point Prim; Katherine MacLeod, Montague; Ilene Norrie, Charlottetown, and Sandra White, Murray Harbor.

Court Allows Hearsay Evidence In Seal Case

Hearsay evidence in the ownership of seal pelts case was allowed yesterday by Mr. Justice George J. Tweedy in the third day of the hearing before the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island.

His Lordship ruled Captain Percy O'Hanley, Souris, was permitted to give evidence as to whom one Alphonse Doyle, stated he was employed by.

The ruling came after lengthy argument by counsel for both sides and the court had taken a recess.

Sgt. Marshall MacKinnon, RCMP, Charlottetown, returned to the stand as the first witness this morning and testified he took 12 pelts as a cross- section from the three plies; on the ship, on the wharf and at Bayfield.

He stated these pelts were marked, three each with PS, NS and AS, one marked R8 and two slashed so the marks were unidentifiable. In his opinion, the pelt marked R8 had been changed from a PS marking. All the pelts he had seen in these three areas except for the above mentioned 12 were seized and put in cold storage.

NO PROSECUTION

On cross- examination, he said the pelts were not under RCMP seizure at the present time and that no prosecution had been made in the case.

Counsel for the plaintiffs called Glen Matthews, Alberton, as their next witness, who stated he hunted seals last year by means of three Super Cubs, (one engine aircraft), and that he had seen six helicopters hunting seals on the ice pan where the main herd was located, before the ships took part in the hunt.

He stated he had been asked by Alexander Campbell, one of counsel for the plaintiffs to count the number of pelts in a barn at Morell. The pelts totaled 2,174, with 215 of these bearing the marking PS; eight AS and one NS. There were 359 with other markings, not listed and 203 slashed markings.

During the afternoon session, Mr. Justice Tweedy stated, "This is probably the most important case before this court in a great many years."

RENTED BARN

The plaintiffs then called Kenneth Geldert, Morell, to the stand. Mr. Geldert testified he rented his barn in the Morell area to a Dr. Marc Arsenault and was paid by cheque by an Alphonse Doyle. On cross-examination he stated there was no lock on the building for a period of approximately two weeks.

HEARSAY EVIDENCE

The hearsay evidence was allowed when Capt. Percy O'Hanley, Souris, was on the stand and he was asked by Mr. Campbell if Alphonse Doyle had said for whom he was working. Mr. Doyle had hired the witness' dragger to take a load of seal pelts to the Magdalen Islands when ice conditions cleared.

Capt. O'Hanley said Doyle told him he was working for Dr. Marc Arsenault.

Cpst. James A. Cox, RCMP, stationed at Souris, was the final witness of the day and testified he had counted all the pelts at the three places already mentioned, Bayfield, the dragger at Souris and the Souris wharf.

He identified the marked ones as totalling for the three areas, 278 marked PS, 207 were mutilated markings, one NS and no AS.

Court reconvenes at 10.30 this morning.

Schools, Traffic Business Halted

SUMMERSIDE — A rampaging winter blast howled in from the Northeast early yesterday morning with winds gusting to 85 miles per hour and before it had passed on, deposited 15 inches of swirling snow piled in huge drifts and closing schools and business and bringing traffic to a standstill.

However last night, after the snow had stopped, plows were attempting to open blocked highways but as winds of 25 miles per hour with gusts to m.p.h. still persisted snow-drifted in behind the plows was causing trouble.

Plows from the government garage at St. Eleanors were punching through the Western Highway last night and at 10 o'clock were in the vicinity of Coleman's Corner. East of Summerside the highway was open to Borden and plows were attempting to keep the Trans - Canada Highway to Charlottetown open, after breaking through, but were encountering heavy drifting in many places including the Tryon area.

Only one emergency was reported when a plow was despatched from the garage to Slemon Park to assist in bringing a pregnant woman to Prince County Hospital which mission was accomplished without incident.

In Summerside plows were opening up all the clogged streets but due to large accumulations of snow on the sides of the streets, the opening was quite narrow in many places. However there was little traffic during the day and evening as many cars were snowbound in driveways and most of the streets were impassable.

PHONEY SALES PITCH OFFERED

The province's assistant director of vocational training, W. S. McMurtry, said he has been advised that "some teenagers, in an attempt to sell magazine subscriptions, are telling householders that sales help them to receive scholarships to vocational training schools.

"We have had reports that this is happening in Summerside and Sherwood."

He said there is no such scholarship arrangement in this province and, "to the best of my knowledge, no vocational schools in Canada are receiving scholarships as a result of magazine sales."

She thanked the mover of her nomination and supporters for their confidence in her, and said she was surprised at the large crowd which gathered in spite of road conditions.

Mover of the nomination was Roddie Pratt of St. Peters, and seconder was George MacDonald of St. Georges, supported by William Whiteway, Dover.

BELIEVE IN CANADA

Walter Dingwell, MLA, who spoke briefly, said the Conservative Party was the only party that really believed in Canada, and maintained her identity and expanded her frontiers. He said Canada could have grown much greater if more Conservative governments had been in power over the years.

Referring to accusations of indecision by the party, Melvin J. MacQuaid charged that the Liberal Party could be accused of the same thing. "In Ontario they are in favor of nuclear arms, and in Quebec they are not," he said.

He pointed out that military men had stated recently that the missiles installed in Canada are capable of handling conventional weapons, and added "resigning cabinet ministers must have some investments in nuclear arms."

Leo Rossiter, minister of industry and natural resources, pointed to the accomplishments of his government. "The John G. Diefenbaker has made most of it possible," he stated. "Change your government and see what you will get."

John McLean, MLA said 960 miles of paved highways now exsist in the province, over twice that under Liberal government.

Other speakers included George Whiteway, Dover, president of the Young Progressive Conservatives, who promised the support of YPC's to Mrs. Macdonald, and C.A. Shaw, Montague, president of the Conservative Association for King's County, who presided over the meeting. Mr. Shaw expressed regret that Thomas Curran, MLA, and Douglas McGowan, MLA, were unable to be in attendance at the meeting due to illness.
