

TO TRAINING CLINIC

TOWER LEANS OUT MORE

PISA, Italy (Reuters) — The leaning tower of Pisa tilted another 0.04 inches between June, 1964, and June, 1965, it was announced Saturday. The 900-year-old round marble tower, one of Italy's most popular tourist sights, is more than 16 feet off the vertical and its lean increases by about .039 inches every year.

Machine Tests Railway Tracks

MONCTON—It sees all, knows all, tells all... not by tracing the life line in the palm of a hand, but by delving into the structure of Canadian National's main line tracks in the Atlantic region with its electronic impulses.

It is the Sperry Railtester, a self-propelled unit looking something like a railtiner. It arrives next week in the Atlantic region to skim over 1,657 miles of CN trackage during the next month. Impulses are beamed into the steel rails and are recorded by the maze of gauges and dials which form an integral part of the unit's operation.

If there is a flaw in the rail, and more than a dozen things can happen to a rail before they become visible, it is immediately noted by the appearance of a "pip" on the graphs. The details of the flaw and the exact location of the flaw in it are turned over to the officers responsible for its correction by the maintenance department.

The testing unit even notes the rail joints on a stretch of rack, part of the responsibilities of the section foreman. The ends of the rail can't be worn more than forty thousandths of an inch on main line tracks before they are welded and built up to specifications.

"Testing the quality of rail by electronic impulses has helped considerably in our efforts to provide the best possible surface for trains to travel on," said Don Slack, maintenance of way engineer for CN's Atlantic region.

"Before electronic railtesting came into such widespread use, our men depended on a keen eye in their maintenance work. Some did even better with a keen ear. Guy Violette, the roadmaster on the Napadogan-Edmundston subdivision would walk his line, tapping each rail with a small hammer. Just by the tone, he could tell whether the rail needed replacing," said Mr. Slack. But the demands of today's railroading have created the need for a more scientific approach.

The railtester can cover 20 to 90 miles a day, now. It is a self-contained unit equipped with sleeping facilities and a cook for the crew. Travelling with the testing unit will be Arlo Fisher of the maintenance of way staff at Moncton.

It will come into the Atlantic region at Joffre and cover the main line through to Halifax, the line between Riviere Du Loup and Moncton, from Matapedia to Gaspé, Moncton to Saint John and from Sackville to Cape Tormentine.
