Ice Retards Abegweit

The MV Abegweit encountered heavy ice in the Northumberland Strait on Saturday. Crossings were an average four hours behind schedule. The strong winds and tides combined to pack the ice in the strait and cause heavy going for the Abegweit.

Sunday crossings were nearly normal. The Abegweit left Borden at 3:40 and reached Tormentine at 6:02 p.m. The ferry made four crossings Sunday and encountered little difficulty with the ice.

CNR officials were hesitant to make a prediction on today's crossings. The ice in the strait will depend on the wind and tide direction.

The ONR de-attached three plow trains yesterday to open tracks to Miramichi, Borden, Souris, Elmira, and Murray Harbor. Train schedules were unaffected by Friday's snowstorm, but heavy drifting caused hazardous conditions on some lines.

Officials estimate no variance is scheduled today, and most departures will be on time.

Science Team Is Probing Chinook Wind

CALGARY (CP) — Science is like a breath of wind for a team of weather-wise researchers at the University of Alberta here. They're studying a phenomenon peculiar to Western Canada—the chinook.

The chinook, a mass of warm Pacific air, has long been the friend of shivering humans during the long winter months. But not for all creatures.

Dr. Ian Ashwell, head of chinook research at the university, and two assistants, are finding out that it's a warm wind that blows something ill.

Dr. Ashwell says the chinook sucks up moisture as it moves and leaves bands of dead plant life in its wake.

Alberta farmers have discovered that the sudden rise in temperature sometimes as much as 40 degrees in two hours—renders cattle susceptible to pneumonia. It also helps form a crust on the snow, making it difficult for birds and animals to feed.

In an attempt to determine what factors influence the wind to move in and relieve bitter winter temperatures, nine meteorological stations have been set up between Calgary and the Rocky Mountains in a resort of Banff, 80 miles to the west.

The stations are equipped to record air pressure, temperature, solar radiation, humidity, wind speed and direction.

Other statistics are being gathered by the pedestrian method—walking or driving to farms and questioning farmers personally on their discoveries relating to the chinook.

It's one branch of science everyone agrees is a lot of hot air—and most useful.

Mrs. MacKendrick Passes At Home

ALBERTON — The death of Mrs. William MacKendrick occurred at her home in Campbellton on Saturday, exactly two weeks after the death of her husband.

The former Mary Webb, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James C. Webb, was born at Unionville 79 years ago.

As a young woman she spent some time in Watertown, Mass. Since her marriage 58 years ago she had lived in Campbellton.

Her church membership was in the Anglican Communion but from the time of her marriage she was an active participant in the life of Campbellton congregation, first in the Presbyterian church and then in the United Church. She had been a valued member of the W.M.S.

During the past five years she had suffered from recurring illness.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harold Horne (Dorothy) of Mill River; a son, Kenneth of Campbellton; twelve grandchildren; two great grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Belle Hill, who resides at the MacKendrick home.

The funeral will be in Campbellton United Church at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Plows Make Headway On Highways

Most main roads are now open following Friday's heavy snowfall. The Charlottetown plow dispatcher announced last night that all main roads are now clear and most secondary roads passable.

Mrs. W. D. Graham, Sturgeon, took seriously ill Sunday afternoon and plows were forced to open the road to her home for doctors and relatives. Mrs. Graham died at approximately 6 p.m. last evening. She was 87. Doctors felt she was too sick to be moved.

Alberton reported main roads blocked on Saturday, and for the first time this winter the mail truck did not reach the town. Heavy drifting occurred all day Saturday, but plows worked yesterday and main roads are now open.

Island plows were ordered out Saturday morning, but were later recalled due to heavy ground-drifting and poor visibility. The plows began work again Saturday night and continued through to Sunday evening. All roads are expected to be open by Monday afternoon if winds do not rise and cause drifting in rural and secondary roads.

Foreign Capital Seen Continuing Need In Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada needs all the foreign capital it can possibly attract for years to come if the country's potential economic expansion is to be realized, George Hees, president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock exchanges said here.

He also called on Canadians to invest a portion of the $1,000,000,000 they now put into banks and Canada savings bonds each year into industry.

Mr. Hees said the government must always keep in mind, when considering legislation to deal with the operation of foreign capital in Canada, that it will go to other parts of the world if those who control it don't believe they will get an adequate return in this country.

Speaking in French to the Richelieu Club, he said this is what happened last year when the government took steps to restrict the entry of foreign capital.

Bankruptcy Laws Okay When Victims Co-Operate

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal justice department's superintendent of bankruptcy said here current laws are adequate to meet fraudulent bankruptcies provided victims co-operate.

J. S. Larose of Ottawa told the annual convention of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association the Bankruptcy Act, as amended in 1949, contains provisions "to cover almost any and every situation."

"Why don't you use them?" he asked some 1,000 convention delegates from across Canada and the United States.

Mr. Larose was speaking during a panel discussion on a bankruptcy racket which has plagued the lumber industry for the last several years. Association spokesmen say lumber merchants have lost millions of dollars through sales to phoney companies which declare themselves bankrupt before their debts can be collected.

J. G. Lind, president of the Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers Association and another member of the panel, said amendments to the Bankruptcy Act would "contribute greatly to the economic well-being of Canada."

Mr. Larose replied, however, that while the act might not be perfect, much more effective action could be taken if victims of bankruptcy frauds would co-operate with law enforcement agencies.

A similar view was expressed by Montreal Crown prosecutor Gerard Laganere who said "we all are responsible for this situation because of a lack of co-operation with law enforcement agencies."

Quebec Attorney-General Claude Wagner, who told the lumbermen Tuesday his department is waging an all-out battle against fraudulent bankruptcies, Tuesday named Mr. Laganere as a special departmental officer in these investigations. He said in a Quebec City announcement Mr. Laganere will fly to Washington next week to discuss the situation with U.S. authorities.

G. R. Leblanc, a lumberman from St. Therese de Blainville, Que., said statistics show, while the gross national product increased by 34 per cent during the 1949-63 period, bankruptcies rose by 1,300 per cent. Quebec alone had suffered bankruptcy losses totalling $530,000,000 between 1955 and 1964.

Association president Leslie McKimmie of Toronto said it is "virtually impossible" to say how many lumber merchants have been victimized by bogus bankruptcies. But he said the situation within the industry is

MOON IMPACT TIME AT JPL

It looked like this in the main control room at Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, California, early Saturday as Ranger 8 crashed on the moon after completing its assignment of sending back thousands of pictures. Scientists said indications are the pictures will be better than those from Ranger 7 last July. They attributed the calmness in the control room at time of impact to a general feeling at JPL that Ranger 8 would definitely be a success. (AP Wirephoto)

Scout Week Promises A Variety Of Activity

Some 4,000 scouts, cubs, guides and brownies of Prince Edward Island are presently observing National Boy Scout week to commemorate their founder Lord Baden-Powell.

For Canada's 275,000 cubs, scouts and rovers, February 21 to 28 promises to be their busiest week of the year. Special events highlighting Scout Week will be hundreds and hundreds of father and son banquets and open house meetings plus winter hikes and camps, in keeping with this year's theme "Fit for Adventure."

Today is Baden-Powell's birth date and His Excellency General the Right Honourable Georges P. Vanier, DSO, MC, CD, Governor-General, in his capacity as Chief Scout for Canada, will announce Scouting gallantry and service awards for 11 Wolf Cubs, 14 Boy Scouts and two Scout leaders.

"Scouting is for all boys!" This is not just a slogan or a theory — it's a fact. Across Canada there are numerous Scout Troops operating with blind, deaf, crippled and mentally retarded boys. In addition there are a great number of handicapped boys attached to regular groups.

Today there are about 9,000,000 active members in the world and over one-quarter million members in Canada.

Scouting's essential ideas are the development of a boy's initiative and self dependence, the development of a spirit of co-operation and help — fullness to others to make him a modern good samaritan, not only willing to help others, but able by his training to do so even at the risk of his own life. The idea of brotherhood among nations, which is inherent in scouting, remains as fundamental today as it was when the movement began.

The first scout troop on Prince Edward Island was organized by Harold Morris in 1912. This troop consisted of a patrol of 12 scouts which held their meetings in St. Peter's Church, Rochford Square. The second scout troop, organized at the YMCA under Harold Cross in 1913, included four patrols of about 40 scouts from various church troops in Charlottetown.

C. Fred Hine, 37 Villa Ave., and Edward S. Chandler, 242 North River Rd., were the first two King Scouts on P.E.I. They received this honor in 1915.

The scout movement on the land now has 2,000 members, which includes 27 troops, 42 cub packs and about 220 leaders.

Alberton South has a Sea Scout troop in operation with 35 members. This troop, founded in October, 1964 is believed to be the first sea scout troop on the Island.

TO OBSERVE EVENT

This week each centre throughout the Island will be having its own special activities: father and son banquets, parents' nights, open nights, public displays and presentations of badges and awards earned by each individual boy scout or wolf cub in his area.

The second Prince Edward Island Scout Jamboree was held at Camp Buchan, Point Prim from June 27th to July 2nd last year and some 374 scouts and leaders attended with representations from Alberta, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Hon. W. J. MacDonald, Lieutenant Governor and Chief Scout for P.E.I., visited the camp and presented 25 Queen Scout certificates.

These events plus the regular fun, adventure and fellowship in the sub-camps, the outdoor cooking, the campfires, patrol competition, atlas alley, lumberjack lane, pioneer park plus special displays by the Red Cross, The Royal Canadian Air Force, the Charlottetown Yacht Club, the Provincial Civil Defen-
