Final arrangements for the salon were made, including the appointment of attendants to be present at the Civic Centre during the showing. The pictures will be hung on Friday night of this week in readiness for the judging on Saturday, and will remain on display until Sunday evening, March 18th.

Also featured at last night's meeting was a panel discussion on "Enlargers." Roland Taylor as chairman kept the "experts" to a lively pace—Barry MacLar-

The chemicals recommended are "heptachlor" and "aldrin." It has been found that either of these applied an inch and a half below the seed in a five inch band can effect almost perfect control.

RECLAMATION OF DAMS

Mr. Smith expressed the hope that the Department of Industry and Natural Resources would expand the policy of building dams for the benefit of the trout fishing. He felt that there was no greater attraction to the tourist industry than this form of sport. He felt also that it would be a good idea for the Department to start some game farms in the Province.

Yesterday At Rotary Luncheon

Earl Taylor, Y. M. C. A. World Service Chairman was guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of Rotary held at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday.

Speaking briefly prior to the showing of a coloured film dealing with the work of the Y.M.C.A. in four of the middle East countries, Mr. Taylor told of the vast coverage of the organization which reaches into 79 countries of the world, and the assistance given 39 of these through the "Y."

"Four and a quarter million members of the Y. M. C. A. throughout the world have an active interest in an incredible diversity of worth-while activities," Mr. Taylor said. "5,704 full-time professional secretaries (local administrative officers), give major leadership under the elected governing bodies. The 'Y' operates 8,360 headquarters buildings, 247 armed service centres, 186 industrial worker's centres, 89 refugee camp associations, 252 holiday camps, over 1,000 summer camps and scores of schools and colleges.

In the film shown emphasis was placed on helping people through teaching and training them to better themselves. This method has already resulted in many self-supporting Y.M.C.A.'s being established in countries formerly aided through the world service.

Mr. Taylor was introduced by the chairman and thanked by the co-chairman.

Hon. P. Foley, M.L.A. of Summerside was a visiting Rotarian and Andre Lacasse was the guest of Rotary.

He said that last year a request was made to have a shore station established at East Point but up to the present there is no connection.

He pointed out the importance of such communication by saying that ships quite often break some of their machinery or equipment and if they could send the message to shore there would be assurance that the parts would be waiting for them when they returned to port, thus insuring a minimum of delay.

As another reason for the importance of the installation Mr. Acorn said that sometimes sickness occurred in the families of the fishermen and they could be notified and not have to wait for a full week before returning.

He said that all the Atlantic Provinces with fishing fleets such as that of the boats and urged the Minister to contact the proper authorities to see what could be done in this respect.

Mr. Acorn said he would like to see the addition of at least one more large factory which could carry about 225,000 lbs. "This would assure a steady supply of fish at all times and at the same time assure the workers in the plant steady employment."

Mr. Acorn complained that farmer helpers could not become eligible for unemployment insurance. He said that frequently laborers were available for work but preferred to go to work in the fish plants for one reason and one reason only they could get employment insurance in the winter.

The fisherman's helper, he said came under the same category.

"I would like to see the Minister of Agriculture introduce a resolution in the Legislature asking that this matter be taken under consideration," he said.

Premier Matheson: "Why don't you bring in the resolution?" Mr. Acorn: "Alright, I will—I'll be glad to bring in a resolution."

The speaker said that the people of his district were well pleased with the policy of the Department of Highways. "If the Minister performs his duty in the future as well as he has done in the time that he has been in office, there will be no complaints," he reported.

That a causeway had been built in Eastern Kings at a place which had formerly been a "death trap". When I brought the matter to the attention of the Minister it was done," he said.

Friends of Mrs. R. E. Mutch will regret to learn that she is a patient in the P. E. Island Hospital.

Mrs. Wallace MacDonald of Covehead Road, has entered the P. E. I. Hospital for treatment. Friends and neighbors are glad to hear she is improving.

L.A.C. and Mrs. Donald MacLean recently arrived home on leave from R.C.A.F. Station, Toronto, Nfld., and are spending their leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison.

That death was due to the application of an external force to the back causing lacerations to the lung and liver along with internal hemorrhaging.

CAR FOLLOWING

The next witness called, Mrs. Raymond MacDonald, Grafton Street, Cily, who at the time was living at Belvedere, told of leaving her previous home to drive her father-in-law to his work in the city, on approaching the Turnabout when she noticed a car following, her she pulled over to the extreme right of the road; suddenly she noticed the victim in the air.

When questioned she stated that she saw Mrs. Higginbotham immediately prior to the accident and that she appeared to be walking as close as possible to the snow bank on the left side of the road toward the city.

Mrs. MacDonald was followed by her father-in-law Mr. John Alexander MacDonald of the same address, an employee at the Provincial Sanatorium. He corroborated the evidence given by the previous witness. He also stated that he was unable to see the victim until they had almost passed her.

SKID MARKS

Const. Gordon R. Humphrey, R.C.M.P. Charlottetown as then called to the stand. He told of being called to the scene at about seven p.m. and the taking of photographs and measurements both that evening and the following morning. He produced a number of photos and a sketch which he explained in detail.

Mr. J.P. Nicholson, Crown attorney questioned the constable at some length regarding the relation of the skid marks shown in the photos to the bank of snow on the right side of the road. The constable explained that the skid marks extended from about two feet from behind the right rear end of the car to a distance of seventy-five feet.

Constable Donald B. White, R.C.M.P. Charlottetown was the next witness. He described the condition of the road at that point, and gave a description of the clothing worn by Mrs. Higginbotham, which he produced as evidence.

Mr. Ward Thompson, son-in-law of the deceased gave evidence of her leaving his home in East Royalty with the intention of walking to Charlottetown to visit her daughter.

The final witness to be called was Donald Archibald MacDonald, Charlottetown, an employee of Household Finance Corp. He told of coming from Peakes Station to Charlottetown on the night of the tragedy and at Stu's turnabout. He started to pass the car driven by Mrs. MacDonald, when suddenly the figure of a woman loomed up directly in front of him. He next heard a crash and saw the woman being thrown up and forward.

On getting out of his car he recalled that the first thing he did was to enquire where a doctor could be obtained. He then went into Stu's Turnabout, but as there was no telephone in the building it was necessary to send to a neighbor.

GREATER

$102. It was 102 acre farm and was bought for a dollar an acre. Ship building at that time was booming throughout the island and the forest were cut and the land cleared. He said that a family of nine was raised off this farm.

A CASE OF MIST

Mr. Phillips agreed that a great many of the young people were leaving the farms. But he did not think it was because the farms were not paying. "It is a case of mist," he said. "A farmer must have a car; he must have a tractor or and all the power machinery necessary for modern farming. All these requirements, he said drained heavily on the small farmer with the 75 or 80 acre farm.

Mr. Phillips felt that the country was going through a transition period similar to those experienced in bygone years. He made reference to the change from the scythe to the reaper to the binder to the blower and now the combine.

He said that almost every farm boy today wants to get an education and when he comes back to the farm it is little wonder that he does not want to remain there. He felt that this situation was unfortunate but could see little remedy for it.

Mr. Phillips complained of the lack of veterinary service in his District. He said that a few years ago there was a doctor at O'Leary but he wanted to leave. "I understand he is in Kensington where they already have a 'vet'."

In our District we are put to great inconvenience by not having someone to call in case of illness among our livestock," he said. He recalled the recent case of Mr. Phillips said that if the Veterinaries who were placed in a certain district by the Government should remain there or have their subsidy taken from them.

The speaker said that he agreed in principle with his colleague in regard to electoral reform. He said that there were cases of electors coming into the district and voting on as little property as a bathing house. "I believe in this instance, My colleague was the winner," he said.

Mr. Phillips said he noted with interest the statement of the Minister of Agriculture when he said that he intended to bring in some amendments to the Poultry and Poultry products Act. "He said that the Department was having some trouble with grades," he continued, "I think I can agree with him on that."

The speaker said that the women usually handle the eggs, "and when they don't get a square deal, some one is going to hear about it, and most likely it is going to be the member in that district!"

He recalled that last November the price of eggs advanced and producers who were formerly getting about 24 dozen of grade A eggs from a 30 dozen case found that they were getting as few as 16 grade A eggs out of the same amount.

One farmer was told that his eggs were not fresh enough so when he took the eggs to the grading station a few hours after they were laid, he still got a low grade. "What's the matter now inquired the farmer, those eggs were gathered less than two hours ago!"

The grader, stuck for a reply said, "I don't know, they must be too fresh!"

Mr. Phillips felt it was "high time" that something was done to remedy the situation and was pleased to note that the Department was putting considerable emphasis on the training of egg graders at the Vocational School.

Transferred

Mr. John L. Clark is leaving Charlottetown this week having been transferred from the local Income Tax Office to the Income Tax Office in Kitchener.

Mr. Clark who joined the local office in 1947 and by steady conscientious work and study has already received several promotions.

Mr. Clark joined the Summerside Income Tax office in 1947, after serving in the R. C. A. F. from May, 1940 until September, 1946. He was a Flying Officer, pay and accounts branch.

He is married and has one son, David Clark, who also intends to move to Kitchener. He had recently completed a new home on North River Road.
