A.V.M. Johnson Home And School Meets

—Highlights of the Air Vice Marshal Johnson Home and School Club December meeting held at the R. C. A. F. School were the decision to join the National and Provincial Federation of Home and School, and a very thought provoking talk by the principal, Murray Shanks.

The chairman described a recent meeting held in Charlottetown at which delegates of eighteen home and school clubs from Prince Edward Island were present.

The meeting had been called to set in motion the machinery to form a Provincial Home and School federation in P. E. I. and subsequently to become affiliated with the National Federation of Home and School. At this meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Prince of Wales College, Mrs. B. C. Silver, national vice-president, and Mr. H. Simpson, president of the Nova Scotia Federation, were guest speakers.

The chairman went on to relate some of the interesting statistics revealed by Mrs. Silver. Over one quarter of a million Canadians are members of the National Federation of Home and School and over seven million parents are members in the U. S. A. At an international conference held recently in Banff, Alberta, nineteen countries were represented.

Following the decision to join the provincial and national federations, two delegates, the chairman, Sq. Leader. Wicken and Mr. M. Shanks, the principal, were selected to attend a conference in January, 1953, when the provincial federation will be formed.

After a detailed discussion on the financial aspects of a national and provncial membership, it was decided by the meeting to assess members 50 cents per family for an annual membership. All parents will be invited to become members. The primary purpose of the assessment is to provide funds for the procurment of literature and training aids to be used at home and school meetings.

In his talk, "Teaching Methods Past and Present," Mr. M. Shanks provided the audience with a most comprehensive word picture of teaching methods of today compared with those of the past. He described the progress in teaching methods in Canada from the beginning of the century until the present time, outlining the changing concepts of teaching methods and stressing the problems faced by both teachers and parents.

A vote of thanks for the excellent talk was tendered by Wing Com. C. Dilworth and was heartily endorsed by all present.

Following the discussion period between the parents and teachers, a most entertaining and informative evening was terminated with the serving of refreshments.
